Notre Dame's Irish Fill Stadium, Whip Cadets, 34-7

By LOY HOLMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Editor

Notre Dame University, making its first appearance Saturday in the Rocky Mountain Region, thrilled a record-setting crowd of 44,384 fans in Falcon Stadium of the Air Force Academy campus as the fifth ranked Fighting Irish defeated the Air Force 34-7.

Before the huge crowd, which included nearly 20,000 who made the trip here from South Bend, Ind., and the Chicago area, the Irish came from behind after being startled by a first period Air Force touchdown to smother the Falcons in the final period.

Two Notre Dame touchdowns in the fourth period were set up by long returns of passes interceptions as the Falcons desperately went to the air trying to catch up on the scoreboard.

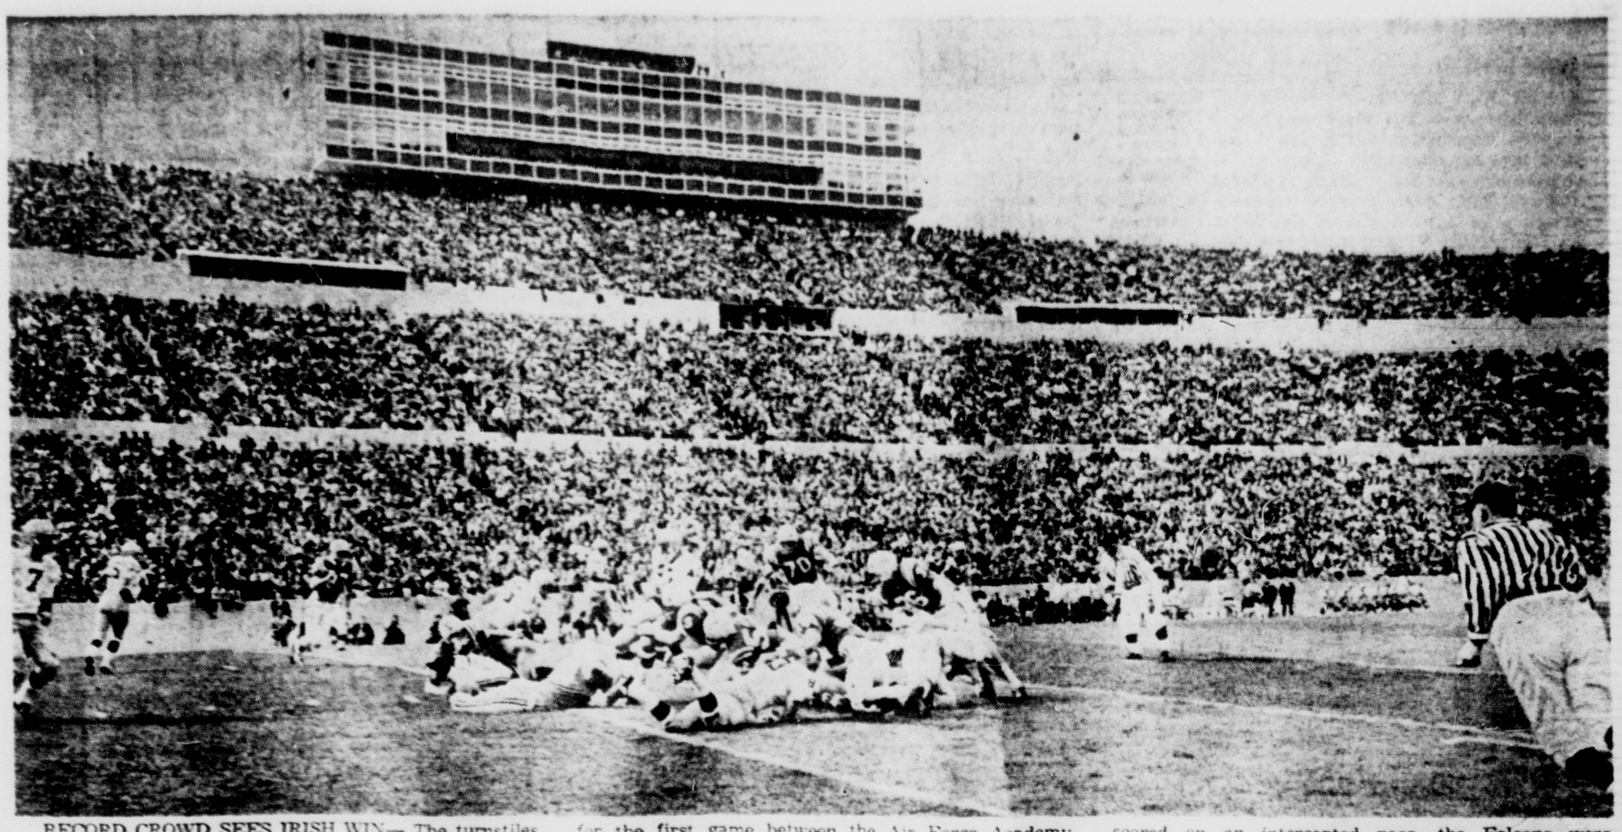
The turning point of the game, also viewed by a local television audience came in the third period when the Irish scored on the 20-yard pass play through a relaxed AFA defense after what looked like an obvious penalty that wasn't called.

The unbeaten Irish regrouped after the first period pass interception touchdown by halfback Jeff Jarvis, and held a 14-7 halftime lead via a 46-yard run by Nick Eddy and a 62-yard drive in the second period.

Air Force was held to but 37 yards in rushing by the No. 1 running defense in the country, but struck for 11 completions in 21 passing attempts for 123 yards. The Falcons now have victories over Washington and Colorado State University while losing to Michigan and Notre Dame. The Irish have beaten Wisconsin, Purdue and the Air Force.

Notre Dame quarterback John Huarte scored twice for the winners, on two one-yard runs, and he also threw TD passes to end Phil Sheridan and Jack Snow. Halfback Nick Eddy had the game's longest run, a 46-yard gallop for the touchdown in the first period.

For further details on the game, see the sports section of today's issue.



RECORD CROWD SEES IRISH WIN— The turnstiles clicked merrily at Falcon Stadium Saturday afternoon as a record throing at 44,383 football fans turned out for the first game between the Air Force Academy and Notre Dame University. Outside of one touchdown scored on an intercepted pass, the Falcons were throttled by the Irish, losing 34 to 7.

HERE THEY WILL SLEEP—This is what it's like in one of the buildings in the NORAD Hardsite deep in the center of Cheyenne Mountain. This is one of the dormitory areas. The rooms to the right and left are small but adequate. Here the men who will defend the North American continent from attack will sleep in event of nuclear war. The interior in this area is dark and quiet. The remainder of the building's interiors are bright and colorful. For a closer look at the progress being made at the Hardsite, the Gazette Telegraph sent a reporter-photographer team to the Hardsite. First Olympics in Asia Open Today in Tokyo

TOKYO (AP) — The Olympic flame burned high above Japan's National Stadium Saturday after lavish opening ceremonies of the 18th and grandest Olympic Games of the modern era were beamed across the Pacific Ocean and into American homes via the Syncom 3 communications satellite.

Television viewers in the United States joined a Tokyo video audience and a stadium crowd of 80,000 to watch Emperor Hirohito officially convene the games after the torch-lighting ritual and a parade of 7,169 athletes from 94 nations.

The satellite, which carried only the picture while an undersea cable simultaneously transmitted sound, hovers 22,300 miles above the international dateline. A receiver at Point Mugu, Calif., picked up the beam and the National Broadcasting Company relayed the telecast across the United States.

The 20-sport competition — in the first Olympiad ever held in Asia — begins Sunday. Swimming, basketball, soccer and weight-lifting are among the opening events.

The torch-lighting ceremony, with flame relayed from Greece where the first Olympic Games were held 2,540 years ago, opened two weeks of competition among the world's best amateur athletes.

Non-Aligned Nations Close Week of Meetings

CAIRO (AP) — The leaders of the 47 nonaligned nations closed their week-long conference early Sunday with word of hope that peaceful coexistence is both possible and necessary, apparently rejecting Peking's violent approach to international life.

President Sukarno of Indonesia, who had argued vigorously throughout the week that "imperialism" must be eradicated by force, as Communist China urges, did not attend the final session. His foreign minister, Subandrio, signed the conference document instead.

President Gamal Abdel Nasser, who joined with Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri of India and President Tito of Yuglsoavia during the week in seeking moderation, told the final meeting: "No peace can be established except by justice — not by force and not by nuclear terror."

Prime Minister Shastri also addressed the closing session briefly.

"We called for a peaceful settlement of all disputes," he said, meaning the call was

NEW YORK (AP) — Curtis Publishing Co. today placed on inactive status two top officers involved in a management dispute, Clay Blair Jr., editor of the Saturday Evening Post, and Marvin D. Kantor, head of the company's magazine division.

The two men were central figures in sharp criticism of Culligan's management.

Neither Blair nor Kantor was immediately available for comment.

A letter to the board that became public this week had accused Culligan of mismanagement. It was signed by Blair, Kantor and 13 other top editors and production men.

Eddie Cantor Dies at 71, Was Early Broadway Star

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) —Song and dance man Eddie Cantor died of a coronary occlusion Saturday at his home in Beverly Hills.

A nurse said Cantor, 71, died at 7:20 p.m.

At his side, she said, were two of his daughters, Mrs. Natalie Metzger and Mrs. Edna McHugh, a nurse and a doctor.

Cantor, wealthy and virtually retired from show business, had been plagued with a heart ailment for several years. In 1953 he was lost to a television series for four months after a heart attack.

Much of his later life was spent quietly in his Beverly Hills home writing books and articles reminiscing on his long career and philosophizing about life. He also was active in numerous charities.

Cantor made his professional debut in 1907 at New York's old Clinton Music Hall. A few years later he hit Broadway with a burst of energy that was to become his trademark. He made up for his small size with an electric personality that was in-

The Republican candidate called anew for individual responsibility, not big government.

Voters Will Decide on Two Constitutional Changes

By GLENN URBAN
Gazette Telegraph
Political Writer

Two proposed amendments to the Colorado Constitution will be on the ballot in the general election on Nov. 3.

Both proposed amendments are being referred to the electorate by the state assembly. During the last session of the assembly the Republicans controlled both houses. These are the two proposed amendments:

— Amendment No. 1 — State Auditor — "An amendment to Articles IV and V of the Constitution of the State of Colorado, providing for a sate auditor under the legislative department to replace the auditor of state under the executive department."

Major provisions of this bill are these:

(A) The state auditor is to be appointed by the General Assembly for no more than two the auditor is elected in the general election.

(B) The state auditor must be a certified public accountant, appointed without regard for political affiliation. At this time, a man must not be a certified accountant to run for office.

(C) The state auditor must not be appointed or elected to any other public office during his term nor for two years thereafter. At this time, an auditor could seek any other office he chose; for instance if the present auditor wanted to run for governor next time he would be free to do so far as legal limitations placed against his office at this time.

— Amendment No. 2 — County Superintendent of Schools — "An amendment to Article IX of the Constitution of the State of Colorado, providing that the office of county superintendent of schools may be abolished by the qualified electors of any county, and eliminating inoperative provisions with respect to certain duties of the county superintendent."

At this time, the county superintendent of schools is elected in the general election for a four-year term. Mrs. Georgiana Kettle is the present county superintendent of schools in El Paso County.

The major provisions of the proposed amendment:

(A) Voters of any county would be able to abolish the position of county superintendent of schools by an election after 1965. If the position is abolished, the term is to end the following June 30.

(B) It would eliminate the inoperative provision that the county superintendent of schools be an ex-official commissioner of county lands. County superintendents have no duties in this capacity.

FDR Jr. Sees Landslide Vote For Johnson

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP) — Undersecretary of Commerce Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. predicted today that President Johnson would carry at least 45 states and possibly 48 in the Nov. 3 election.

Roosevelt said Johnson could win in all states except Alabama and Mississippi and possibly could top his father's record of receiving 61 per cent of the popular vote in 1936.

Roosevelt said he hoped President Johnson could beat his father's record and pointed out that recent polls have the President leading Sen. Barry Goldwater by a larger margin than the 61-39 per cent ratio in 1936.

In a Cheyenne news conference, Roosevelt said an overwhelming defeat "would end the Goldwater and extreme right wing influence in the Republican party." But he said it would not mark the end of the GOP.

Roosevelt, who is on a political campaign tour from mid-September to election day, also predicted Democrats would pick up four or five Senate seats and an additional 20 House seats this year.

Roosevelt rode the Cheyenne newspapers' special train to Laramie today, but did not see the Utah-Wyoming football game. Shortly after arriving in Laramie, he flew to Scottsbluff, Kearney and Omaha, Neb., for political meetings.

State Colleges Given Budget Of $13 Million

GUNNISON, Colo. (AP)—The Board of Trustees of State Colleges approved a $13 million budget for the four state colleges Friday and set a salary for the new interim president of Southern Colorado State College.

Barnard Houtchens of Greeley, board chairman, said the trustees decided to pay $17,800 for 12 months to Dr. Victor Hopper, interim president at SCSC in Pueblo. The figure is $1,500 less than was paid to Marvin Knudson, who resigned.

Houtchens said Hopper will receive one-twelfth of the salary each month he serves. A permanent appointee, Houtchens added, is expected to be named by June 1.

The four schools operated by the trustees are SCSC, Colorado State College at Greeley, Western State at Gunnison and Adams State at Alamosa. Combined student population is 11,700.

Individual amounts approved were:

CSC $5.7 million, up $1.2 million from last year; SCSC $3 million, up $1.3 million; WSC $2 million, up $340,000 and ASC $2 million, up $318,000.

The trustees were also told that the four colleges showed an increase of 1,600 students—up 16 per cent—from last year.

The enrollment figures:

CSC 5,508 up 12 per cent; SCSC 2,492, up 30 per cent; WSC 1,920, up 19 per cent, and ASC 1,750, up 9 per cent.

Houtchens reported that a joint faculty-trustee committee will screen candidates for the permanent post as head of the Pueblo school. He said the trustees have made it a policy to have the faculty help select college presidents.

"They have to work under him," Houtchens said, "and it's only proper that the faculty should have something to say about him."

Slayton Still Wants To Travel to Moon

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Donald K. (Deke) Slayton says he still hopes to make a flight to the moon, but it apparently would take an autopsy to prove he's healthy enough for it. And he's not about to undergo an autopsy, he adds.

Slayton, chosen to be an astronaut but grounded by a heart condition, was at Minneapolis Friday for a convocation talk at the University of Minnesota.

BROTHER COACHES

CHEROKEE, Kan. (AP)—The Crawford - Neosho - Cherokee high school league in southeast Kansas believes it is the only league in the country with three brothers serving as coaches of three schools in the circuit. John Spigarelli is football coach at Frontenac, Kan., high school. Adolph Spigarelli is grid mentor at Southeast rural high school at Cherokee, Kan. Dino Spigarelli is coaching at Erie, Kan., high school.

THREE TIME WINNER — Colorado Springs Police Department Captain Harold L. Davis also won the award in 1962 and 1960. He is holding his individual trophy. His name has also been inscribed on the traveling plaque held by Tony Reeder, former FBI agent.

Ancient Greek Would Be Surprised at Olympics

By CARROLL ARIMOND

CHICAGO (AP) — A contestant from the ancient Greek Olympic Games would be bowled over by the magnitude of the games starting in Tokyo Saturday, but that isn't all—

The uniforms would get him. When he clicked off the 100 meters everyone dressed the same — in the nude.

The women in the contests and in the audience would be an innovation. In his day the games were strictly boy stuff.

He'd wonder about the trainers with their stop watches, ointment and rubs. The trainers of olden times recognized a poor performance by beating the performer with sticks.

The cycling event would send him spinning. But what he'd do to that crowd in the chariot race.

These and other differences and similarities between the modern and ancient Olympics were pointed up in a report this week from the American Classical League of Oxford, Ohio, made public in Chicago.

The league president, Dr. John F. Latimer, classics professor at George Washington University, said that while an ancient athlete would be overwhelmed by some of the modern contests, he'd probably do pretty well in the foot racing events because conditioning was so rigorous.

"The more information the league compiled," Dr. Latimer said, "the more we realized that not only is the original purpose of the Olympics retained — which is to dramatically promote physical development through competition — but much of the original format is still in use."

Classicists are especially interested in the modern games, he said, "because here is another example of modern society reaching directly back 3000 years to the classical civilization and drawing out a tradition that was easily adapted to modern times."

CHECKING THE "HOUSE IN THE SKY"—An operations agent checks out the pilot's console of the Goldwater Campaign plane to insure the perfect functioning of the 727 Jet. The plane is expected to carry Goldwater and his staff and the press some 75,000 miles and to most of the States in the Union.

Barry's Plane Is Flying Communications Center

To the Navajo Indians, it is "Yia Bi Kin," the "house in the sky". To the Republican presidential candidate, Senator Barry M. Goldwater, it is the name of his flying campaign headquarters — a sleek new 727 Jet which will take him through a 75,000 mile circuit of the country between now and the fateful election day, November 3.

The Boeing Jet is a flying communications center that is perhaps the best equipped office ever put aloft. The plane is divided into two basic areas: one for the candidate and staff, another for the press. Modern communications is the theme of the "Yia Bi Kin," and both compartments are connected with an intercom system which permits Senator Goldwater to conduct in-flight press conferences without leaving his seat.

The Senator is seated opposite Mrs. Goldwater, and between them, on a sturdy formica rest, is another communications plus — a portable Dictaphone dictating machine which enables the candidate to immediately record his thoughts, comments, and ideas for future speeches. Several secretaries are on hand constantly — at any one of the four desks aboard — to transcribe the dictated material from plastic recording belt to typed copy.

Up front, an impressive electronic switchboard keeps the plane in instant touch with Washington, and any place on the ground. A radio - operated teletype is tied in with the communications center at the Republican National Headquarters in Washington, D. C., and a radio telephone system switchboard, operating through the telephone company, places almost every business and home phone in telephonic reach of the phone sets placed throughout the plane. In those areas where this is not technically feasible, a special radio transmitter makes air - to - ground radio telephone contact, which in turn, ties into the local phone system.

The "house in the sky" is often home as well as office. Not all the space is relegated to dictating machines, mimeograph facilities, and advanced electronic gadgetry. Sufficient space has been left for a sleeping bunk for the candidate, who finds time between running a tight ship aloft, to take an occasional — if brief — nap in his "Yia Bi Kin".

State Editors Favor LBJ; Predict Slim Demo Victory

Colorado editors by a seven to one majority predict that President Johnson will win the election in November. By a much narrower edge they also predict he will carry Colorado.

Editorial support in Colorado for the Johnson-Humphrey ticket currently stands numerically at 32 newspapers, compared with 22 for Goldwater-Miller. In terms of circulation, however, the margin is nearly 5 to 1 (62 per cent to 13 per cent of total circulation) in favor of the Democratic candidates.

These are highlights of a survey of Colorado newspaper endorsements and predictions released today by the University of Colorado School of Journalism.

As of Oct. 8, Johnson had the support of 6 of Colorado's 24 dailies, including the two largest, the Denver Post and Rocky Mountain News. Combined, these six papers have 72 per cent of the total daily circulation in the state.

Also supporting the Democratic ticket were 26 of the 128 weeklies and other newspapers, having 39 per cent of the total non-daily circulation. Together, the newspapers backing Johnson and Humphrey have 62 per cent of the total circulation.

Goldwater also is supported by six dailies, but their combined circulation is only three per cent of the total. In the non-daily field, however, Goldwater currently is running slightly ahead of the circulation department, although the number of papers endorsing him is only a little more than half the non-dailies for Johnson. The 13 pro-Goldwater non-dailies claim 40 per cent of the total circulation in that category.

Editorial preferences aside, 86 of the editors responding to the poll foresee a Johnson victory, compared wth 12 predicting that Goldwater will score an upset. Thirteen others were undecided, of whom five "lean" toward Johnson, three toward Goldwater and five would not commit themselves.

Looking at the Colorado scene, 52 editors predicted that Johnson-Humphrey would carry the state, and 47 put it in the Goldwater-Miller column. twelve more were undecided, with five leaning to Johnson, three to Goldwater and five non-commital.

Johnson's editorial support from six dailies and 26 non-dailies compares with the two dailies and 20 non-dailies that endorsed John F. Kennedy in 1960. Nixon, who carried Colorado, was backed by 10 dailies and 19 non-dailies.

Of the 19 responding daily newspapers, 10 are self-designated "Republican" in editorial policy normally, one is "Democratic" and eight term themselves "Independent."

The weeklies are more evenly divided at 25 self-termed "Republican," 20 "Democratic," 26 "Independent" and five "Other" newspapers among the 85 responding.

Of the 16 specialized newspapers participating in the poll, "Republican" and "Democratic" are divided at four each. The other eight indicated no political preference.

"It should be recognized that partisan labels are not as significant as they once were in American journalism" said Dean Charles T. Duncan, who conducted the survey. "Neither are they consistent in meaning. A paper that calls itself 'Independent' could actually be strongly partisan in tone, while a nominally Republican or Democratic paper may not have taken an editorial stand in years."

The Colorado Press Association's Rate and Data book lists 24 dailies and 128 non-dailies in the state, a total of 42 newspapers. Replies to the School of Journalism poll were received from 119 editors, a return of approximately 84 per cent.

Actually, said Duncan, "130 of the 142 newspapers were represented, a return of almost 92 per cent. The number of newspapers is larger than the number of editors because in some instances two more weeklies are under single ownership. Such combinations, where known, were counted singly."

Thirty-seven of the replying editors, four daily and 37 non-daily, indicated they would not take a position on the campaign. Several of the "no-stand" weekly editors said they didn't believe it would be fair for them to endorse either ticket because theirs was the only paper in the community. A few daily editors shared this view also.

"It's an editor's perrogative to take a position or not," Duncan commented. "Personally, I value highly the traditional practice of editorializing on political candidates and issues. I consider it one of the newspaper's most important functions."

Carson Promotes Thomas Shafer

Thomas J Shafer received a promotion recently, to acting sergeant and squad leader of a scout section in C Troop, 4th Squadron, 12th Cavalry at Ft. Carson.

The 22-year old soldier entered the Army in June 1960, and upon completion of basic combat training he was selected for paratroop training at Ft. Benning, Georgia. Shafer was then assigned to the 101st Airborne Division. Later he was transferred to the 24th Infantry Division in Berchtesgarten, Germany.

While at Berchtesgarten, in addition to serving as driver for the assistant division commander, Sgt. Shafer attended a four week mountain warfare orientation course.

Shafer has attained an "Expert" rating for his marksmanship with the M-14 rifle, .45 calibre pistol, and M-79 grenade launcher.

Sergeant Shafer resides with his wife, Patricia and two children, at 1726 S. Nevada Avenue, in Colorado Springs.

MOSCOW (UPI) — Cuban President Osvaldo Dorticos will visit Russia on his way home from the "non-aligned" nations conference in Cairo, the Soviet News agency Tass said Saturday.

BARCELONA—Spain has announced the opening of global quotas for chemical imports.

Barry's Claim Discounted by Defense Office

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department's top spokesman says a routine officer effectiveness report is the only evidence it can find to support Sen. Barry Goldwater's claim he recommended promotion in the Air Force Reserve for Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania.

Asst. Secretary of Defense Arthuh Sylvester said a thorough search had been made of all possible places in the Air Force where such correspondence might exist.

Scranton's files does show, Sylvester said, that Goldwater, as the Pennsylvanian's commanding officer, had submitted an officer effectiveness report for the period October 1961 — September 1962 saying Scranton was qualified for promotion.

But an Air Force spokesman said that in the normal course of defense affairs such a report would not constitute a recommendation for promotion.

Campaigning Oct. 6 in Warminster, Pa., Goldwater said he had put in for a promotion for Scranton a year ago. The GOP presidential nominee, a reserve major general, added that he and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara were "not getting along" and maybe this had delayed Scranton's promotion from major to lieutenant colonel.

Sylvester said that Scranton became a major on June 7, 1961, and would not be eligible for consideration by a promotion board until next June at the earliest.

Annual Bar Meeting to Open Thursday

Bar Convention will be the two-day annual Judicial Conference which opens Tuesday at the Broadmoor Hotel and which will be attended by all district judges from Colorado. Presiding will be Chief Justice Robert H. McWilliams, of the Colorado Supreme Court, which sponsors the Conference.

Scheduled for discussion by the judges will be problems involved under the new Judicial Reform System which goes into operation on Jan. 1st, and the current problems involving bail bonds.

The Colorado Bar Association session will feature discussions ranging from the bail bond issue to reports on Bar Association committees on education against Communism.

Among the featured speakers at the convention will be U. S. District Judge Walter A. Craig of Phoenix, Ariz., immediate past president of the American Bar Association; Boudinot P. Atterbury of New York City, counsel for the Standing Committee on Education Against Communism for the American Bar Association; former Colorado State Senator Farrington Carpenter; Glenn R. Winters of Chicago, executive director of the American Judicature Society; Norman E. Risjord, general counsel of the Employers Reinsurance Corporation of Kansas City.

A feature of the convention will be a report on the activities of the Warren Commission by W. David Slawson, Denver attorney, who served on the Commission's Investigatory Section.

Panel discussions will be held by various committees of the Colorado Bar, directed to their specific legal fields of interest. Included will be taxation law section headed by Hover T. Lentz of Denver; corporation section headed by Harl G. Douglass of Boulder, and Richard P. Brown of Denver; World Peace Through Law Committee, headed by John A. Moore of Denver; negligence law section, headed by Paul D. Renner of Denver, and State Senator Wilkie Ham of Lamar; and the mineral and water law sections, headed by James D. Voorhees of Denver; and the criminal law and procedure committee, headed by William L. Rice of Denver.

Winters will participate in a special session relating to the possibility of setting up a merit system of Judicial selection in Colorado. A special committee of the Colorado Bar, headed by William W. Gaunt of Brighton, has been studying the problem and will make a report at the convention.

Separate meetings will be held during the Convention by such allied groups as The Conference of Local Bar Officers; a District Judges' Association; and the soon to be disbanded County Judges' Association. Slated to have its first meeting will be newly created Colorado County - Municipal Judges' Association, which was formed as the result of the new Court Reform Amendment.

Other highlights of the Convention will include the annual election of officers; presentation of the annual "Justice Award", which will recognize and honor an outstanding Colorado citizen or organization who has brought to the attention of the public the vital rules of the law, the legal profession and the Courts in American life; and the awards of merit by the Colorado Bar Association and its Junior Bar Section to deserving individuals.

Barry Asks Amendment on Prayer Ban

nent talks about "political pie-in-the-sky."

Goldwater said President Johnson once reportedly said the American people "have a baby-like faith in him."

"I ask you to let this power-hungry prideful man know that the American people are not babies and they do not need to be babied," he said.

"I say that when you elect a president you want a man to manage the legitimate business of your government. The government that is big enough to give you everything you want, is big enough to take it all away."

Big government can't "fulfill the yearnings and fill the uneasiness of the American people," he said.

"A big brother in the White House must not replace the confidence in your house."

Goldwater said that "in no election of our history have we faced such a stark proposition: to have to consider the question of simple honesty in the administration of our national government."

Millions of Americans are concerned over the Supreme Court decision banning required prayers in public schools as a violation of the First Amendment to the Constitution, the Arizona senator said, adding:

"The time has surely come for Congress to put the question to the test. It is time for Congress to pass an amendment and place it before the various states for ratification."

He made his remarks in a speech prepared for delivery in the Tabernacle of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

The GOP candidate flew here to the valley where Brigham Young established a permanent seat for the Mormon church. Earlier Goldwater made campaign stops in Spokane, Wash., and Portland, Ore.

"My fellow Americans, is this the time in our nation's history for our federal government to ban Almighty God from our schoolrooms?" the senator asked.

"I trust not."

He said there was a "tragic answer" to riot and disorder in cities, increased juvenile delinquency, crime in the streets and homes, erosion of honor and dignity."

Federal Tax Take Is Up

DENVER (UPI) — About $46 million more in federal taxes was collected in Colorado during the first nine months of 1964 than in the same period last year, V. Lee phillips, district director of the Internal Revenue Service, said Saturday.

Phillips said more than $35 million of the increase was in individual withholding tax returns and $9 million was in excise taxes.

The total federal taxes collected in Colorado through September this year is more than $1.06 billion.

Budget Set For Metro State

GUNNISON, Colo. (UPI) — The Board of Trustees of State Colleges approved a budget request of $1,191,951 Saturday for the first year of operation of Metropolitan State College at Denver.

The board said it hoped to open the new college next September in the old May Co. annex at 16th and Champa streets. An initial enrollment of 1,000 students is forecast.

Establishment of Metro State under the trustees was authorized by the 1963 legislature, but this year's legislature refused to appropriate funds for it.

Gov. John Love and the state's college presidents recently worked out a tentative agreement for the opening of the college. The agreement calls for the University of Colorado Extension Center in Denver to drop its freshman and sophomore classes.

anniversary Saturday, of a treaty, now signed by more than 100 nations, banning nuclear weapons tests in the atmosphere, outer space and oceans.

"The world embarked," the President said, "on the first step to remove the threat of oblivion that for two decades has stalked the earth. The air is cleaner, the world is safer, and the hopes for peace are a little brighter because of this act of common sense."

Johnson has taped for television a report to the nation Thursday night on progress under the treaty.

Sunday, he flies to Phoenix, Ariz. Republican rival Goldwater will be taking the day off there.

On the way to appearances at Long Beach and San Francisco, Calif., and Las Vegas, Nev., the President will be dropping in at the First Presbyterian church in Phoenix with one of its members, Roy Elson — who also is Democratic candidate for the U.S. Senate.

Phoenix expects a presidential speech at the airport.

Study of U.S. Security Planned Here

ficers from the faculty of the Industrial College. The seminar team includes officers from each of the military services.

Those attending the seminar will receive a systematic presentation of the elements essential to a strong defense posture; a study of the systems needed to keep our economy healthy and in optimum production during the Cold War, a limited war, or nuclear war; a critical appraisal of our own resources and our dependence on other nations of the Free world for certain strategic materials.

A study of the world areas reveals where we stand today—militarily, politically, and economically. Timely talks related to national security include an examination of our research and development effort and our space program. The seminar serves to give a deeper meaning and understanding of the Free World's attempt to forestall Communist subversion, insurgency, and enslavement.

Sessions on the opening day will begin at 2 p.m. (Feb. 22) and thereafter will be held from 9 a.m. to 3:10 p.m. Monday through Friday for the two week period.

Raids Fail to Locate Officer Held By Reds

Col. Michael Smolen of Chandler, Ariz., deputy chief of the U.S. air mission in Venezuela, who was seied by kidnapers outside his home Friday morning.

The telephone callers said they were ready to trade his life for that of Nguyen Van Troi, a Communist terrorist who has been sentenced to death in Viet Nam for plotting to kill U.S. Secretary of defense Robert A. McNamara with a bomb during a visit last May.

"One hour after we learn of Troi's execution, Smolen gets a bullet in the head," the anonymous telephone threat said.

The United States took the threat so seriously that word was sent immediately to U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor in Saigon.

"We obviously are concerned," a U.S. spokesman said in disclosing the American attempt to seek a delay in Troi's execution until Smolen has been rescued.

In a consultation with the Vietnamese Foreign Ministry an American Embassy official was told that no definite date had been set for Troi's execution. Earlier police officials had said Troi would face a firing squad on Thursday.

In an all-out effort to rescue Smolen, Caracas police raided 50 houses but found no trace of the missing American. It was presumed that he had been seized by communist terrorist supporters of Cuba's Premier Fidel Castro who have been active in Venezuela. Their aim evidently is to show they are so strong that the government is unable to control them.

Last November terrorists seized Lt. Co. James K. Chenault, deputy chief of the U.S. Army mission, and held him for eight days before releasing him unharmed.

Miller Cuts Off Speaking, Has Bad Cold

By CHARLES DUMAS

PAINESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — An ailing Rep. William E. Miller cut short his northeastern Ohio campaign tour in raw, blustery weather Saturday and headed back to Washington to recuperate from a cold.

Rain, sleet and snow flurries showered on the Republican vice presidential nominee's motorcade as he moved from Erie, Pa., into Ashtabula, Ohio, a 1 on to nearby Painesville to address campaign rallies.

He dropped from his schedule a final stop at Elyria, Ohio. There he was to have ended a five-day campaign swing this week through eight states of the South and the Midwest.

In Ashtabula, sleet dashed down on the bare-headed Miller as he began to address a chilled but responsive crowd of more than 1,000 outside the old post office building.

Setting out from Erie, across the state line, Miller issued a statement attacking President Johnson as an extravagant government spender.

He said the Democratic president was spending $10 million more per day than his predecessor, the late John F. Kennedy, and that the budget deficit this year would exceed $5 billion.

He told the Ashtabula rally that Johnson and other Democrats deliberately were trying to distort the position of Sen. Barry Goldwater, the GOP presidential nominee, and the issues of the campaign.

In Painesville, snow flurries filtered down as Miller addressed a shivering audience of close to 2,000 in the square. He told them, despite Democratic implications to the contrary "there is no man in America who hates war more than Barry Goldwater and who is more determined to keep the peace."

Henderson Announces Evans Support

Rep. J. Edgar Chenoweth (Republican) does not have the respect and support of his fellow members of Congress.

Henderson's endorsement of Evans and charge against Chenoweth is contained in an open letter to citizens of Colorado Springs, carried as a political advertisement in today's Gazette Telegraph.

In his letter Henderson outlined his reasons for supporting Evans, the 41-year-old candidate from Pueblo, who has served two terms in Colorado's General Assembly.

Henderson said: "I am supporting Frank Evans for the lowing reasons:

"The changes which are occurring in the world and in Washington today are so rapid, and so demanding, that to stand still is to retreat. Now is the time to elect a young man who is experienced in business and legislative affairs.

"Frank Evans is capable of representing ithe interests of all, regardless of political affiliation."

major part of his life in Colorado Springs and knows the importance of our military installations and would devote him self to protecting our interests in this field.

"As one who went to Washington to work for the Frying Pan-Arkansas Project, I am convinced that we need a representative in Washington who can command the respect and support of his fellow members of Congress. The present congressman does not, this we learned during our bi-partisan endeavor in security successful approval of this project."

He concluded by stating he was convinced there is every justification for a change.

"I know that Frank Evans is eminently qualified for the job that needs to be done for the citizens of this Congressional District," he concluded.

Henderson, now vice president of the Pikes Peak National Bank, served 12 years as a member of the Colorado Springs City Council. He first was elected in April 1951 for a six year term and re-elected to another six year term in April 1957.

After serving as vice mayor from 1957 to 1959, he was elected mayor in 1959 and re-elected for a second two-year term in 1961.

The $170,000,000 Frying Pan project was approved by the U. S. House of Representatives in mid-June 1962, marking the first time the measure was able to gain enough House support for passage. Previously it had been okayed by the Senate but never was able to muster sufficient House support.

Man Bilked of $25 By Young Woman

A man who was persuaded by a young woman to write a $25 check and then leave the payee line blank found himself swindled out of the $25 the sheriff's office said Saturday.

According to Deputy Sheriff Betty Clausen, Duane O. Bymaster was approached by the women who represented herself as a saleswoman for Local Readers Service.

Bymaster contracted to take a number of magazines and signed his check for $25. The saleswoman asked him not to fill in the "Pay to the order" part explaining her company preferred to use their stamp.

A short time later Bymaster discovered that the check had been cashed by the woman at a local store after she had filled in the vacant line with the name of the store.

Eddie Cantor Dies, Was Stage Star

Often working in blackface, Cantor delivered his songs in a ringing voice, tapping his hands together and roaming the stage with a rhythmic skip. He frequently added another trademark: rolling his eyes at a phenomenal speed.

Cantor soon was a Ziegfeld Follies star appearing in such stage hits as "Whoopee" and "Kid Boots." Ziegfeld billed him as the "Apostle Of Pep."

A millionaire in 1929, he was broke a few months later. But the banjo-eyed funnyman wrote a book about his losses and made enough to lay the foundation for another fortune.

The 1930s were big years for Cantor as he switched to radio and movies. He appeared for Samuel Goldwyn in "Palmy Days," "Kid From Spain" and others.

He was generally credited with revolutionizing radio techniques by insisting on a live audience. He filled his studio with visitors and encouraged applause. He played the brash, bumptuous young man who could stir up a peck of trouble.

Cantor headlined the early years of television, relying heavily on his standard techniques — the jokes about wife Ida and his five daughters, the endless "feud" with George Jessel and the songs that were identified with him, "If You Knew Suzy," "Ida" and others.

But after his heart attack he went on television only occasionally and did none of the hopping about the stage of earlier years.

Born Izzy Iskowitch on New York's East Side, he was orphaned when a year old. A widowed grandmother, Esther Cantor, reared him.

As a ragged kid on Hester Street he learned early how to do impersonations of popular stage stars and thus get a few pennies that might be tossed by passers-by.

Summers he spent at a lake camp run for street urchins such as himself. Because he was able to entertain, they occasionally let him stay six weeks instead of the usual two.

"Grandmother worried some about that," he remembered. "They let you stay six weeks, Eddie?' she would ask, 'and the other boys only get two weeks? Well, then, boy, you owe something to that camp.'"

D & RG Accused Of Not Trying To Improve

SALIDA, Colo. (AP) —Mayor George Harris of Leadville charged in testimony before the Colorado Public Utilities Commission Saturday that the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad has done nothing to stimulate passenger business for this fast-growing area.

Another Leadville man, Lou Flowers, said the city has grown to an estimated 11,334 persons since 1960, when the census showed 4,008. He said he believes passenger service is essential to the economic growth of the area. Flowers is director of the Lake County Economic Development Council.

Harris is one of 16 witnesses to testify Saturday at the second stage of the hearings on the railroad's proposal to discontinue its two daily trains between Denver and Grand Junction via the Royal Gorge. The last stage will conclude at Glenwood Springs Tuesday.

Several old age pensioners and persons receiving medical care at places outside this area testified that trains have been their only means of transportation. Homer Willis, business manager of the Salida office of the Public Service Co. of Colorado, said he goes to Canon City three times a week on the train.

Leadville witnesses said there has been no direct passenger service to their city for 25 years and they must go four miles to the station at Malta.

Mayor Ed Touber of Salida said he felt that the overall economic development of his city would be impaired without passenger train service.

Witnesses for the railroad have testified that the line is losing money on the route.

made by the conference. "We consecrated ourselves against the threat of the use of force."

The foreign ministers of the states represented had handed the heads of state and government the 37-page document for their final approval.

The leaders then met for three hours and closed the conference without disclosing whether any changes were made in this document.

The document submitted to the presidents, kings and ministers for their approval rejected a demand by President Sukarno that the conference favor the supply of military aid to "freedom fighters" throughout the world.

The fact that Sukarno did not appear at the final meeting appeared to indicate he was not pleased with the final draft.

Only in the case of Portugal's colonial territories, largely in Africa, did the conference support the furnishing of financial and military aid to "freedom fighters."

Acquantance Swindles Woman Out of $200

The woman told Mrs. Graham that there was a $200 loan against the trailer and that when this was paid she would turn the title over to her and that Mrs. Graham would then pay the additional $150.

Mrs. Graham learned later that the woman cashed the check and that it was not used to repay the loan.

Governor Settles Library Dispute

DENVER (AP)—A dispute between the state planning director and the State Agriculture Board over construction of a Ft. Lewis College library was settled Friday by Gov. John A. Love.

The dispute flared earlier in the week when planning director William M. Williams charged that architect James M. Butler of Boulder had designed the structure to cost more than the $1 million planned.

The Agriculture Board, which operates the Durango school, rejected Williams' recommendations.

Love said late Friday that the architect should proceed. He added that the ultimate decision on the structure should be made by the Agriculture Board and that the Planning Division is solely an advisory group.

Literacy Classes Need Volunteer Instructors

Volunteer teachers are needed to staff literacy and citizenship classes to be offered again this fall by School District No. 11 and the Colorado Springs Center of the University of Colorado.

Mrs. Lawrence Reibscheid, coordinator of the program, says she needs six or seven people to teach various levels of a class which embraces basic English, reading, writing and speaking, as well as for another class in American history and citizenship.

"Teachers do not have to be professionally trained," she said.

"We always have been fortunate enough to have one or two former teachers on our staff, yet we also have had a great deal of success with people who have no professional training but who are interested in the problems of illiteracy, who want to do something about it and who have had some kind of experience with the kinds of people who enroll in our classes — native Americans who cannot read and foreign born residents who want to become citizens."

All materials needed in the course are furnished teachers, and teacher training is available to inexperienced members of the staff.

Classes are held once a week for two hours from late October through May. Registration for this year's program will be from 7 to 9 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 21, in room 113 of Palmer High School, 301 N. Nevada. The room is reached from the Weber street entrance of the school. Classes will start the following week in the same building.

Mrs. Reibscheid estimates that there are more than three thousand functional illiterates in the Pikes Peak area among native American citizens, and it was because of this that the classes were launched six years ago. "It was felt that teaching these people to read and write would help them obtain and hold better jobs," said Mrs. Reibscheid, "and enable them to participate more effetively and fully as democratic citizens."

"Most of the students who enroll have good memories, work hard and catch on quickly," Mrs. Reibscheid said, "and watching their wonder and excitement at the whole new world that opens up to them as they learn to read is the only reward we can offer our teachers." It has been reward enough for Mrs. Reibscheid, coordinates the classes, recruits the teachers and students and raises the money needed to buy supplies but who also always teaches at least one class each week in the program.

Those interested in becoming volunteer teachers in the program can contact Mrs. Reibscheid at 1601 N. Weber, 632-4519 or Jack Cameron, Director of Adult Education for School District No. 11, 406 N. Weber, 633-7797.

Assisting the cooperation agencies are the local chapter of the National Council of Jewish Women, the Colorado Springs Federation of Women's Clubs, Future Teachers of America at Wasson High School, and the Ft. Carson Education Department.

MOST FUN — Barry Keller, Boys Club member tells Leonard Kraushaar, member of the United Fund Admissions and Allocations Committee about his preference for the gym at the Boys Club. Doing a flip on the trampolene behind the pair, is Johnny Wheeler. Kraushaar, president of Colorado Steel Buildings Company is one of the volunteeers of the committee which will determine the most equitable distribution of the funds raised in the United Fund Drive for 484,800.

SEEKS ASYLUM

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI) — Jose Padilha Sodre, an accused Communist wanted on charges of trying to bomb the U. S. Embassy, has sought asylum in the Colombian Embassy, it was announced Friday.

Legacy Is Just What The Boys Club Needed

"I can't think of an agency which has more need for a big windfall," Leonard Kraushaar, member of the Admissions and Allocations Committee of the United Fund, said after visiting the Boys Club.

He was referring to the quarter of a million dollar legacy from the Wharton Allen Estate, which the Boys Club will probably receive sometime next year. The United Fund allocates about $22,000 annually to the Boys Club, to help balance the operating budget. Funds for major repairs or a new building aren't included in the United Fund goal. The United Fund cannot supply funds to rebuild or remodel any of its agencies, according to Kraushaar. The goal each year is based on operating needs only.

When he first walked into the Boys Club early one morning in late summer, Kraushaar watched a teenage boy who was sweeping the floor.

"It looked like a hopeless job. The pourous delapidated tile could not really be cleaned," Kraushaar said.

As Tom Hoe, Executive Director, was showing his guest around, a youngster asked for a drink of water.

Hoe grinned at the boy, "You'll just have to go thirsty today. The hot water heater sprung a leak last night and flooded the place. The water has been shut off until the repair man comes," he said.

Maintenance on the old building has become an expensive and perpetual problem, he told Kraushaar.

"Attendance is down in the summer, up in the winter," Hoe explained. "For one thing you just can't use the shop during hot weather." He unlocked the door to a large room with several pieces of good equipment with little or no storage space. The hot sun beat down on the skylights making the room fully 10 degrees hotter than the outside temperature, which was in the high nineties at the time.

Only seventy to eighty boys use the club each day during the summer, but between 100 and 200 boys are in and out after school and on Saturday during the school year, Hoe pointed out.

The Boys Club Board of Directors is attempting to find a solution which will serve boys in the Pikes Peak Region adequately all year long. In the meantime a surprising number of activities are offered to the members, Kraushaar learned. Recreation rooms provide ample space for pool, ping pong, and other games. A library offers a place to read and a place to study, and there is usually someone around to help the boys with their lessons.

Power tools and hand tools are available for any project a boy wishes to work on. There is also a place to work on leather, tile, ceramics, plastics, metal and radio. In addition to the usual team sports and trampolene, the gym includes trapeze instructions which culminates in the annual Big Top Show in the spring.

"Located as it is in a low income residential area, it is good to know that the fees are within reach of any boy who wishes to join. Fees range from 25 cents to $1.00 a year, depending upon the age of the boy. Materials used in the shop are sold at cost, "Kraushaar pointed out.

Kraushaar and other members of the Admissions and Allocations Committee of the United Fund are studying the program and budgets of all 38 United Fund agencies prior to allocating the proceeds in the $484,800 drive.

Census Bureau To Include Tots In New Survey

For the first time, questions about 3- and 4-year-old children enrolled in nursery schools and kindergartens will be included in the Census Bureau's October Current Population Survey, it was announced today by Director Francis H. Wilmer of the Census Bureau Regional Office at Denver.

Previous fall surveys gathered information on the number of children and adults 5 to 34 years of age enrolled in school, but because of the great increase of children in schools below the first grade level, this month's survey will cover persons 3 to 34 years.

The school attendance questions will cover enrollment at each level of school and in each grade or year, as well as obtaining facts on young high school dropouts.

Last year's survey revealed that 2.2 million boys and girls 5 years old, or 54 per cent of all children this age, were enrolled in kindergarten; also, that about 520,000 young people 14 to 24 years old had dropped out of high school sometime during the 1962-63 school year.

A number of families in the October survey also will be asked about their plans to purchase cars, houses, and major household appliances during the next few months. Similar questions on consumer buying intentions are included in the survey four times a year.

Sample households will be interviewed locally and in 356 other selected areas of the country during the week of October 18.

Sears Christmas Catalog Is the Biggest in History

A Family Bible illustrated with 121 pages of art works by the Italian Renaissance artist Michelangelo is among the items offered in the 626 - page Christmas catalog being distributed this month by Sears, Roebuck and Co.

Sears believes this to be the first Bible illustrated exclusively with Michelangelo's paintings and sculpture. The illustrations were selected by Vincent Price, noted art authority, who developed the famed Vincent Price Collection of Fine Art for Sears.

A third of the catalog is devoted to toys, the broadest assortment ever offered by Sears.

In the doll and doll accessory category, Sears offers several exclusive collections of fashion dolls from Italy, Germany, France, and the United States. Also for girls are groups of toy appliances which are working replicas of the ones their mothers use.

For boys, road race sets continue to gain in popularity. The catalog includes 16 pages of sets and accessories including two new and exclusive roadway designs: a "Pike's Peak Hill Climb" for relay racing four cars up and down a two-mountain course, and "Loop-the-Loop" through which minature cars race at scale speeds of more than 400 miles an hour.

Also included are 20 pages of children's books, ranging from washable cloth volumes for the playpen set to science fiction and a large selection of works for teenagers and young adults.

The book includes more than 8,000 separate gift items, one third more than last year, ranging from high fashion dolls to a plastic digital computer.

The 626 - page book is 54 pages bigger than last year's and one - third larger than the 1962 edition, and contains 300 pages in full color.

Copies are being sent to almost 11 million families across the nation. The record circulation is nearly one million greater than last year and three million more than 1962.

Among other new items being introduced in the book are the world's first self - threading 8 - millimeter sound projector, adding a new dimension to home movies, and a movie - maker's outfit which includes camera, film, floodlight, props, costumes, makeup kit, director's manual, and completed scripts for three home movies.

Post Office Holds 70,000 GOP Letters

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The post office is holding 70,000 Republican letters in Phoenix for possible federal lottery-law violations.

GOP spokesmen said Friday the letters contain fund-raising tickets to be used in a drawing. The prize is either an expense-paid trip to the presidential inauguration or $500.

Maricopa County Republicans said their attorney had checked the matter and found no violations involved.

If the letters can't be mailed, the Republicans say they'll distribute them door to door throughout Arizona.

Phoenix Postmaster W. J. Mason acknowledged the GOP mail was being held up while he waits for a ruling from Louis J. Doyl of the Post Office Department in Washington.

NORAD Hardsite Is a Study in Contrasts

COLORADO SPRINGS
GAZETTE TELEGRAPH
Sunday, Oct. 11, 1964 SECTION B

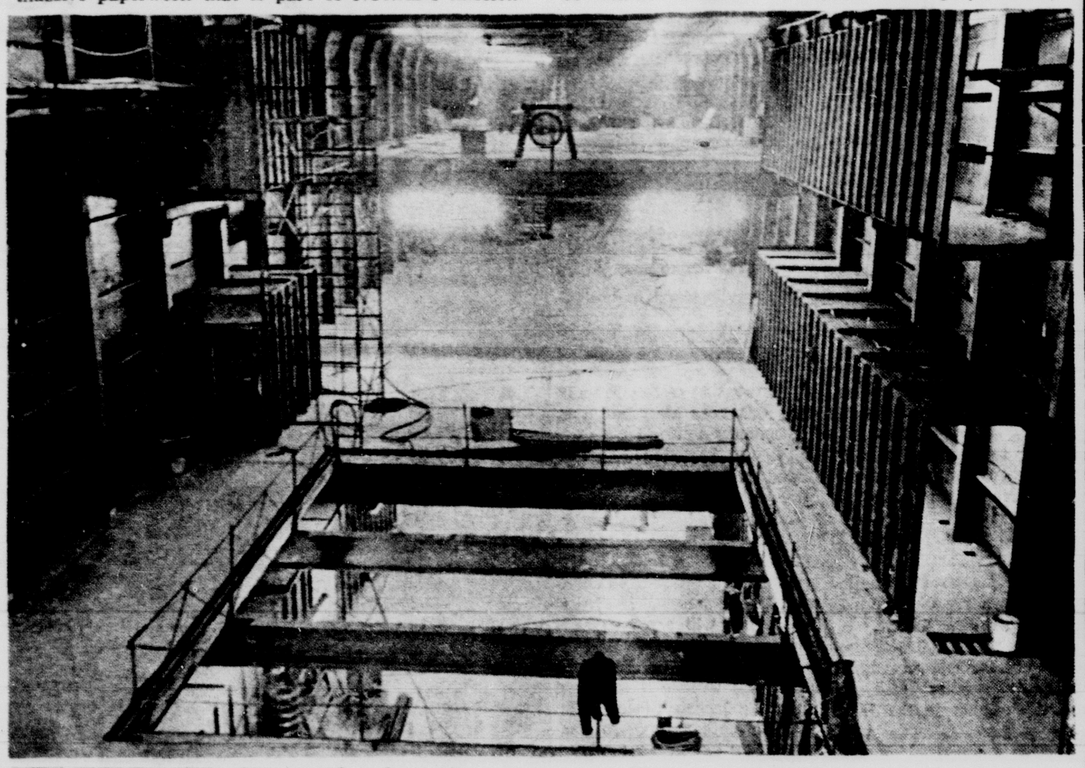
OFFICE CUBICLES—In rooms such as these part of the 700 persons who will staff the COC will handle the massive paperwork that is part of NORAD's mission. In addition to the cubicles, the room also contains several private offices. The doorways to two of these can be seen at the rear. (Gazette Telegraph Photo)



NEW COC—It is from this room that the battle staff of NORAD will direct the defense of the North American continent. This is the only two-story interior in the entire 11-building complex. The opening in the floor will be covered. A huge board such as the one in the present COC will be erected in the room and the battle staff will sit on the balconies surrounding the room. The room is located almost in the exact center of the complex and under the greatest mass of the mountain.

INDUSTRIAL RESERVOIR—This is one of the three connected industrial reservoirs in the Hardsite. The three are connected at the rear of the tunnels and do not come into contact with the domestic water reservoir located elsewhere.

Modern Interiors Make You Forget Cheyenne Mountain

Text by RAY HERST
Gazette Telegraph City Editor
Photos by STAN PAYNE

One minute you're standing in a dimly - lit, shadow - filled cave. The walls are rough stone and in places shine with dampness. Over it all is a steady loud roaring of machinery.

The next minute, you're in a brightly - lit, gleaming office building. The walls are paneled, the floors tiled. It smells of freshness and light and the only sounds are those of your footsteps.

The building is inside the cave in the heart of Cheyenne Mountain.

It is one of a total of 11 steel buildings which will house the North American Air Defense Command Combat Operations Center.

The truth of the matter is that once you enter one of the buildings you're in all of them. They connect and unless you pay close attention, you never notice you are passing from one to another.

The progress of construction on the Hardsite is amazing. Last December, the massive, dull-steel buildings were nothing but girders or open spaces. It was difficult to even imagine what the insides of the buildings would look like.

Now the shells are up and the feeling of dullness vanishes when you enter the buildings.

Some areas are completed except for the furniture needed to fill the emptiness. You don't miss the windows as you walk along the bright corridors and in fact you forget you're under hundreds of tons of granite.

You pass from the work areas to the living quarters which resemble, in some ways, train compartments. The corridor between the rows of sleeping cubicles is narrow. Small lights located near the bottoms of the walls give the impression that it is perpetual night here. The doors are curtains and the rooms are small, but they will serve their purpose.

At the end of the corridor, another door leads to a huge wash area which includes shower stalls and rows of small sinks. A few doors down the main corridor is the landromat containing two washers and two dryers. Here men will live in event of nuclear attack.

In another building, you find the new Combat Operations Center. Now it is a huge steel scar. The floor is partially uncovered and the room stretches a full two - stories high. Here, the battle staff will collect to plan the defense of North America.

The entire complex is difficult to believe. No matter how many times you tour the site, you come away with a feeling of awe and wonder.

How far along the contractors are, no one can say definitely because of the various phases being conducted simultaneously. However, officials said that the construction is due to be completed in April of next year. This phase will have cost $35.4 million when finished.

Then, the special electronic equipment devised for the Hardsite will be moved in. This phase, plus the furnishings, will bring the total cost to $88.7 million.

It is not known when the Hardsite will become operational, but original estimates placed occupation date as the fall of next year. When it is operational, approximately 700 men and women will work there. Some will be on a 24 - hour rotation duty basis. Others will work shifts.

In the event of attack, the hole in Cheyenne Mountain will be sealed off and the men and women will live there. How long they will stay there, no one knows; how long they can stay there, no one will say.

But the hole is being made for them and for the defense of this continent.

NEARING COMPLETION—This phase of construction on the 11 buildings under Cheyenne Mountain is nearing completion, but crews are still hard at work erecting the exteriors and connecting the buildings. All of the buildings are connected and you can tour the entire complex without leaving the units.

LAUNDROMAT — When completed the Hardsite will be a completely self-contained unit. Laundromats such as these are located adjacent to dormitories (see photo, page 1). The object is to provide all the comforts of home should the Hardsite have to be sealed off for a length of time.

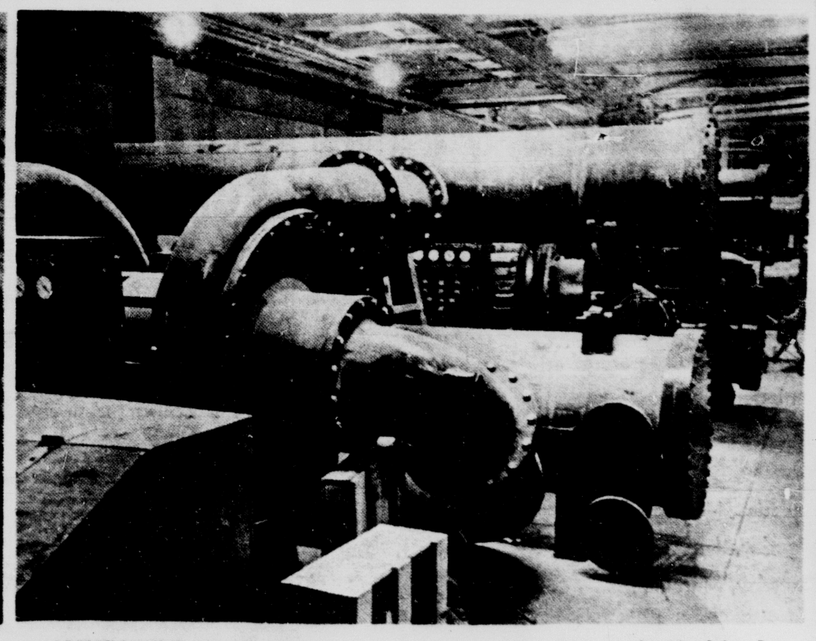
POWER PLANT—These are five of the massive generators which will provide the power to operate the Hardsite in event of an emergency. A sixth generator is out of the picture. The grillwork floor is removable by sections to allow crews access to the undersides of the units. (Gazette Telegraph Photo)



CHILLING UNITS—These massive units are used to chill the water which in turn will provide the air conditioning for the 11-buildings in the Hardsite. Individual air conditioning units are located on each floor of the buildings.

Wey Cleared For Merger of Two Rail Lines

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) has cleared the way for the Norfolk & Western and Nickel Plate Railroads to merge next Friday. This will form one of the largest rail carriers in the nation.

The action permits creation of a new Norfolk & Western system 7,500 miles long.

The enlarged N&W will also lease the Wabash and the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railroads and plans to purchase control of the Akron, Canton and Youngstown railroad.

Final approval for the merger came 3½ years after the two roads filed application with the ICC.

The new system will cover 14 states and the Canadian province of Ontario. It will join properties worth $1.9 billion extending from Buffalo and Norfolk in the east to Chicago, St. Louis and Omaha in the Midwest.

Homestake Water Project Moves One Step Closer to Completion

Another milestone in construction of the huge Colorado Springs-Aurora joint Homestake water development program was recorded Thursday when the first sections of what will be a 50-mile long pipeline were installed near the town of Hartsel in South Park.

The pipe being installed is 66 inches in diameter, each joint 20 feet in length, and is made of reinforced concrete. The 5 and ½ foot pipe will be a part of the 15 million dollar delivery system which will stretch from the Arkansas River to a point south of Eleven Mile Reservoir. Three and one-half miles of the huge pipe has been strung along the right-of-way preparatory to installation in the trench excavated by the contracting firm of Metropolitan-Gill-Tecon of Oklahoma City.

The pipe is being fabricated in Denver and trucked to the pipeline right-of-way. The initial joints were installed adjacent to County Highway 53, six miles southwest of Hartsel. Crews will install the pipe eastward towards the terminus of the 66-inch line at a point adjacent to Eleven Mile Reservoir.

The contracting firm has other phases of the Homestake delivery stem also progressing at a rapid rate. Work has started on a small diversion dam in the Arkansas River near Otero Reservoir, 14 miles north of Buena Vista. The small dam will direct Homestake waters into the 66-inch pipeline at that point.

The Metro-Gill-Tecon crews also have prepared the "bench" route of the pipeline for five miles south and parallel to the river from the dam site to a point where a pump station will be constructed to boost the Homestake waters some 750 feet over and through the ridges lying between the Arkansas Valley and Trout Creek Pass.

Right-of-way work has also included "bench" clearing from the pump station up the ridges to the site of Little Annie, one of two tunnels to be bored on the pipeline route. Some 500 feet of the overall 1800 foot length of Little Annie has been completed. Continuing eastward, the right-of-way for the pipeline has been cleared to the site of the Goddard Tunnel, to be a mile in length, and eastward over Trout Creek Pass. The contractor plans to complete the east portal work at Goddard Tunnel before severe winter weather begins.

The Metro-Gill-Tecon crews plan to work on the various phases of the delivery system through the winter, despite temperatures which can dip as low as 50 degrees below zero in South Park.

The delivery system is only one of three major construction phases of the Homestake program from which Colorado Springs and Aurora will begin receiving water in the spring of 1966. Contractors and the Bechtel Corporation of San Francisco, retained as the supervisory and engineering firm for the two cities, now have 800 men employed on the Homestake projects.

Smith - Quad Construction Company has bored 13,500 feet of what will be a 5 and ½ mile long tunnel through the Continental Divide west of Leadville. This tunnel will bring Western slope waters to the Eastern Slope, direct it to Turquoise Lake from whence it will flow via the Arkansas River to the diversion dam near Otero Reservoir. The tunnel is a 4 million dollar item.

Boulder Mental Health Service Shows Deficit

BOULDER, Colo. (UPI) —Dr. Rosamond Hathaway, director of the Boulder County Mental Health Association, said Saturday mental health services in the county would be reduced next year unless a $17,000 deficit in the program was made up.

Hathaway said the program needed an estimated $94,240 budget next year to meet increasing demands for services.

Cop Shoots Knife Wielding Atlanta Maniac

ATLANTA (UPI)—A 26-year-old man threw down his Bible, stripped off his clothes and ran screaming down the street with a butcher knife Saturday, stabbing a man and woman and two children before police shot him to death.

Patrolman J. R. Spence said he shot Arlin Eugene Pinnell, a roofer who lived with his parents, when Pinnell lunged at him with a butcher knife.

All four of the man's victims were reported in fair condition.

Pinnell's brother said the man was sitting in the living room reading a Bible when "all of a sudden, he jumped up, ran out to the front porch and started preaching."

Then he came back inside, grabbed up a butcher knife and began chasing his mother and father around the house. When they eluded him, he darted back to the front porch and stripped off his clothes.

Then he went running down the street, naked and brandishing the knife. Witnesses said he was "preaching" as he ran.

He ran for a block, barged into a house and stabbed Mrs. Lelia Spencer, 32, and her two children, Morde, 8, and Deborah, 7.

Then he ran directly across the street and into another house, where he stabbed Elalia Haney, 74.

He came back across the street, police said, sat down behind a bush and began carving on his own face with the knife.

Patrolman Spence said that when he arrived, Pinnell hopped up from behind the bush, blood streaming from his face, and announced "you can't kill me."

Spence said he warned Pinnell "several times" to drop the bloody knife and then the man "lunged toward me with the knife (and) I fired." Pinnell died on the spot, shot in the chest and stomach.

Man Dies in Fight Over Dog

GREELEY, Colo. (UPI)— A fight over a black poodle apparently led to the death of a California man sometime Thursday, Greeley police said today.

The victim was identified as Earl F. Bray, 38, of Napa, Calif. Officials said they were holding Jack D. Reynolds, 29, of La Habra, Calif., for investigation in the death.

Detectives said the two men fought with one another late Wednesday over who allowed Reynolds' dog to jump from the car. Following the street brawl just south of here, they returned to the Hoover Motel where they were staying, police said.

Bray died sometime during the night. Police said when they arrived at the men's room late Thursday, Bray had been dead at least eight hours. Weld County Coroner Ross Adamson said death was due to a blood tumor under the skull, possibly the result of a blow to the head.

Officials found bruises on the back of Bray's head and a laceration across the nose. Both men were described as migrant workers.

Peak Region Yesterdays

By DORA FOSTER

One afternoon Mother took us to spend some time with Mrs. William P. Wilson. I remember we went through our pasture and up and down through hollows until we had reached a big unpainted two - story house and that there was in the house a boy about my age who, when I asked him for a drink of water, climbed up onto a chair and to my surprise, without asking his mother who was in the next room visiting with my mother, brought down a glass for me to have a drink of water from a spring near by. I would never have dared to do a thing like that when I was a child his age. Thats about all I remember of that afternoon. The little boy Hugh Crawford Wilson could not talk plain and was often nick named Hel Crawford.

After a few years on the ranch the family moved to a place here on Cheyenne Creek, now Mayhurst. And, Hugh Wilson and my sisters and I made our play houses together although Hugh was often inclined to want his own way in the games. We loved him very much and one day he took a strange notion to help himself to Lucy's play place under the tree. We told him he could hunt his own play place and he sat down on the ground and very stubbornly told us he could get the place by filing on it. We hod never heard of such nonsense of someone taking over someone else's place so we took the matter up with father, all four of us, and the decision was that Hugh was to find his own play place.

After living there a few years they moved to Ivywild and he attended high school there. W. P. Wilson as he was often named took a sudden notion to go to California and one spring moved his family to Long Beach. The last time I saw Hugh was one year ago when he came to visit us at Malibu Beach. All the years from the time he was a child until last summer he lived in Long Beach. One year ago he passed away. We forgave him entirely for wanting to file on land not belonging to him and during all that time his father bought a ranch on Signal Hill a few miles from the center of Long Beach and owned that property until the hill became bristling with oil weels looking much like a huge pin cushion. Hugh took us there one day and told us that his father had kept enough of the intrest there to keep them for the rest of their days.

We knew that W. P. had a cousin Ebb who moved on to the old ranch. But the cousins never thought alike at all. Ebb Wilson's son Bert came over every day on his pony Dolly to attend school. I spoke of Bert in some of my articles in the paper and finally the fact grew upon Bert Wilson's son whom we never knew who lived on the ranch. Why the counsins never spoke of each other was a mystery to us. Consequently we never knew much of anything about Ebb's son Cherryll who came to us the other day full of surprise to learn that he had ever had a cousin Hugh.

We had heard that Ebb's wife was a very queer soman and probably closed down the interest any of Ebb's family had about the Wilsons. It was only through my column in the paper that they knew anything at all about the W.P. family. We were very surprised, my sister Lucy and I, to learn of Bert's boy Cherryll, even though he had been manager for years of the Penny Store here in town. He came out here to see us and tried very hard by visiting with us to make up so much lost time in his family history.

We found Bert's son a tall handsome man who then told in his way of his connection in the Penny store. His story that he left with me here gives only the simple facts that he went to work as a small boy here in town and by going after a spool of thread one day earned for himself a long busy life with Penny Store. When he came the other day to see us we found that his wife with him had been coming to Colorado Springs for 20 years each summer.

One day recently we all drove over to the old ranch on Bear Creek and with the help of Dr. Charles Stewart found the exact spot where the old house had once stood. Dr. Stewart had gotten help in his research from Glen Darby who for many years lived at the Poor House where his father was manager. Cherryll pointed out to us where he had as a small boy used to run across the hills to town past the old mills. Cherryll has now retired and I asked him to give us his life story and we have the following paper that he left for me, full of the facts of his life. He has one son Jack of which he tells and it seems a pity that two families so closely conected as those Wilsons were, should have had no interest in each other.

Both Cherryll and his wife Clara were full of questions about the Wilson family all of which seems now to be almost nothing but history.

This little article left the other day by Cherryll tells of his life and I would like to add that boys used to go to work when they were little and carved out a career for themselves with very little help from their parents. I will add the following which Cherryll left with me and which shows that he has no fancy ideas about his life here in Colorado Springs. Life can be very queer sometimes and the coming back to us of Bert Wilson's son was a great surprise and pleasure.

I believe along with other newpapers that it pays to advertise.

Cherryll's paper:

"Born on Wilson ranch September 26, 1904 attended Lowell school and went to Helen Hunt to 6th grade and graduated from 8th grade. Attended Colorado Springs High School.

"Started at Penny store when 13 years old. Mother sent for a spool of thread at J. C. Penny Co. Mr. Bennett was assistant manager and asked if I'd like a job. Went home changed clothers and cleaned up and went back and the manager didn't recognize me after I was cleaned up but went to work immediately, marking overalls. Attended Blairs Business College nights and took business course. Was made assistant manager at 19 years old and then was transferred in 1929 to Henrietta, Okla., as assistant manager in a new Penny store and was them made manager of store in 1931. Retired from Henrietta store in 1959. One son Jack Herberd Wilson who lives in Phoenix, Arizona has 5 children."

AFA Accounting Center Receives Command Award

"Accuracy, timeliness, and accounting effectiveness" of data submitted to the Air Force Accounting and Finance Center during fiscal year 1964 has earned the most improved command award for the Air Force Academy.

The Superintendent Major Gen. Robert H. Warren, was notified of the Academy's choice as the most improved facility in its size group by Finance Center commander Brig. Gen. Thomas P. Corwin.

The 1964 award is the second consecutive commendation received by the Academy.

Academy Comptroller Col. Hugo Zimmermann received the award plaque from General Warren this week.

The plaque recognizes the substantial improvement of the Academy's "accuracy, timeliness, and accounting effectiveness in furnishing financial data to the Center."

During the fiscal year the Academy was rated on the quality of 52 reports and 25,119 transactions.

The reports are compiled in the Accounting and Finance Division of the Comptroller Directorate from data submitted by many other Academy functions. Much of the basic information is derived from machine listings prepared by the Data Systems Directorate.

Academy officials cited the performance as a demonstration of the effectiveness of team work. Such results cannot be obtained without complete cooperation of all activities, they said.

'Wild Dog' Proves Merely Confused

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A lost dog lived three months on her own, dodging jets, eluding would-be captors, and living on garbage scraps and runway rabbits at Los Angeles International Airport.

Finally, with a well-baited wire-cage trap, animal shelter workers here trapped her. And here's what they found:

"She's a nice, gentle German shepherd," said an attendant. "But the jets must have scared her half to death. She's terribly nervous." At the shelter she calmed down.

Airport police had tried repeatedly to catch her, afraid she might get caught in a jet's intake.

Dr. McKay Is Mentioned in Dentistry Story

An echo of the wide fame Colorado Springs gained for the high percentage of natural fluorides of its water, as discovered by the late Dr. Frederick S. McKay, is seen in the Bulletin Magazine. In reading an article on Philadelphia dentistry Mrs. Helen Thomas, a native of Colorado Springs, came across the paragraph and mailed it to the Gazette Telegraph. The quotation is:

"The Class of 1900 Philadelphia School of Dentistry includes a mild mannered fellow, Frederick S. McKay, who sat up practice in Colorado Springs, Colo., and later made one of the most important discoveries in dental history. The children of that city had a low percentage of tooth decay. The drinking water had a high percentage of natural fluorides. Twenty years of studies by him and others proved the link between these two facts and led to the nationwide program of adding fluorides to water supplies."

Dr. McKay died Aug. 22, 1959. Throughout the years of his research in this discovery he continued to practice dentistry in Colorado Springs, and became widely known throughout the country.

The National Congress of Parents and Teachers evolved from the original National Congress of Mothers, formed Feb. 17, 1897, in Washington, D.C.

UNITED STATES ARMY AIR DEFENSE COMMAND — VIGILANT AND INVINCIBLE

PROFILE OF A NON-COM

(This is another in a series of articles portraying Non-Commissioned Officers of the Army Air Defense Command in Colorado Springs. As in other Army outfits, ARADCOM looks to its cadre of NCOs to play an important part in providing experience and leadership vital to fulfillment of the command's mission.)

By S. SGT. VINCE NAYLOR
ARADCOM

M. Sgt. Clarence L. Thompson holds a key position in the Army Air Defense Command's manpower program. He is operations sergeant for the Personnel Procurement Division — a job that brings him in contact with Army recruiters throughout the nation.

As operations sergeant, Sergeant Thompson is the "Non-Com" responsible for the operation of the ARADCOM Enlistment Option Program. Under this program, a qualified enlistee is given a written guarantee that upon completion of eight weeks' basic combat training he will be assigned to the metropolitan or strategic defense area of his own choice and remain there for a minimum of 14 months.

Sergeant Thompson is responsible for compiling and coordinating a number of reports with both the Department of Army in Washington, D. C., and the Continental Army Command at Fort Monroe, Va. He is in constant touch with recruiters across the nation by message, telephone and personal visits, keeping them advised and up to date on the option program so that they may give a better presentation of the program to prospective candidates. He also answers many inquiries from individuals and organizations from all over the nation pertaining to recruiting activities. He also has the responsibility for coordinating with other headquarters staff sections the appearances of the ARADCOM Choral Group in connection with recruiting activities.

In addition to his duties as operations sergeant, he is the career counselor for ARADCOM headquarters personnel. In this position he must maintain records on each enlisted man in the headquarters, conduct interviews, and deliver Army career presentations. It is also his duty to advise personnel as to the advantages of Army careers and what is available to them in the Army and assist them in making their decision.

Recruiting duty is not new to Sergeant Thompson. He first became a civilian recruiter in 1955 at Jefferson City, Mo. In 1958 he became a career counselor with the 9th Infantry Division at Ft. Carson. He returned to civilian recruiting duty in 1959 in Colorado Springs. His area of responsibility covered Canon City, Gunnison, Leadville and the greater Colorado Springs area. In September of 1962, he was assigned to his present job at ARADCOM headquarters.

Sergeant Thompson's military career started in 1942 at Camp Crowder, Mo. Since then he has seen duty in Europe with General Patton's famed Third U. S. Army, during the latter part of World War II, and a tour in Japan in 1953.

In 1948, he spent a year in Chicago as a military escort for the bodies of fallen soldiers being returned to their families and helped with funeral arrangements. Although escorting bodies is a duty that might not appeal to many men, Sergeant Thompson said it had its rewards in the graditude shown by the families to both himself and the Army for the care given to its war dead.

Sergeant Thompson is highly thought of in his section as a man dedicated to the Army and his job. Lt. Col. George T. Cahill Jr., personnel procurement officer for ARADCOM, says of the sergeant, "He is highly qualified and efficient in his job and is a credit to the section."

Credit and high regard are not only given to Sergeant Thompson by the Army, but also by the community in which he lives. A member of the Widefield community since 1959, he is active in both school and church activities.

In 1959 he was instrumental in establishing Cub Scout Pack 137 at the South Security School. He also helped to organize the Parents-Teachers Organization in both the South Security and Talbot schools. Both Sergeant Thompson and his wife, Lucille, teach a Sunday School class at the First Baptist Church of Security. The sergeant teaches the 11-year-old girls. Formerly, the Thompsons were members of the Skyway Baptist Church, where Sergeant Thompson was a deacon and the president of the Men's Brotherhood. While a member of the Brotherhood, he helped to organize a tent mission at Rock Creek Mesa which has since become a permanent church.

The Thompsons own their home at 105 Amherst Drive in Widefield. They have two children, Kenneth, 13, and Cody, 11. Seargeant Thompson attends night classes in real estate principles and practices at the Colorado University Extension Center and plans a real estate career in the Pikes Peak Region after retirement from the Army.

Your Outdoors

By MARY L. SHIRER
For the Pikes Peak Group of the Colorado Mountain Club

Air mail travels fast and we need not have delays in receiving letters of importance but in the early days of Colorado, mail had to be carried over the mountain country by foot and many were the dangers and hardships. There were deep snows to travel through and sometimes the mail carrier was attacked by a highwayman but the carrier was always faithful in his duties and if it was humanly possible, he got his mail through. There were high mountain passes to get over and in winter with deep snow and bitter cold weather, it was almost impossible but these men were hardened to the severe weather and made the trip without much loss of life.

Berthoud Pass is a mighty pass. It is the crest of a solid wave of granite, two miles high. It is the gigantic gateway to Middle Park, Colorado — a park one-fifth as large as England. The mail was carried over this pass by one man. Eleven months of the year, there is snow on Berthoud.

Only in July are the wildflowers safe. Then comes the terrific thunderstorms. Berthoud is wrapped snug and tight in snow drifts. A blue gray cold settles down on this country. And through it a lone man traveled with the mail on his back.

The pony express was inaugurated April 3, 1860 over a route extending from St. Joseph, Mo. to Sacramento, Calif. This was considered the fastest mail possible.

The experiment was to demonstrate to the nation and postoffice department the value of the central route in binding the western settlements with the "States." Stations had been established at intervals of fifteen miles. More than 600 of the best horses had been procured and attendants numbered 400 of the best.

The only pony express in what is now Colorado was located in the ranch of Jules Bent, later known as Julesburg. William Cody afterwards known as "Buffalo Bill" was the youngest rider, only 14 years old at that time. The early day Methodist minister, John L. Dyer carried mail from Buckskin Joe to Cache Creek by Oro California Gulch a distance of 37 miles. He went on snowshoes three times a week preaching on the side at mining camps. The mail's weight was from twenty - three to twenty - six pounds and the snow was from three to twenty feet deep. He would sink in the snow and had to work himself out.

When famed Davy Crockett was a magistrate he once fined an offender a barrel of bourbon.

Meningitis Outbreak Is Being Probed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The California Health Department declared deep concern Friday over the first two civilian community cases of meningitis apparently linked with a Ft. Ord outbreak that has caused 3 deaths in 84 cases this year.

A spokesman said careful consideration is being given to further control measures which may be necessary to protec' the civilian population outside the Army training base on Monterey Bay, 100 miles south of San Francisco.

Patricia Arsenault, 20, of Millbrae, died Tuesday of meningitis after a weekend visit by her soldier-fiance, Pvt. William Garehime, 21, of Hillsborough.

The health department reported that Type B strain of meningitis was identified Friday in Gerehime under hospital observation at Ft. Ord. The same strain was identified as causing his fiance's death and also in 83 of the 84 Ft. Ord cases.

Veronica Smith, 17, of San Francisco, wife of Pvt. Antonio Smith, 18, entered Letterman General Hospital in San Francisco Thursday night with a diagnosis of meningitis. Smith had come from Ft. Ord on a weekend pass to see his bride of two months. She was reported in satisfactory condition.

Results were not yet available on culture tests of Smith.

The two San Francisco area civilian cases aroused demands by three congressmen for a quarantine of the base where a sharp curtailment in recruit training already has been ordered.

In Washington, Secretary of the Army Stephen Ailes said Friday night the meningitis problem at Ft. Ord appears to be under control and the fort will be kept open. He said the fort does not "constitute a hazard to the recruits or to the civilian community."

Capt. Yore Is Back at Carson

Capt. Joseph Yore, who is assigned as military assistant to the Omaha District area engineer at Ft. Carson, has returned from three months of special duty in property restoration at Anchorage, Alaska.

The captain, who is project officer on the Ft. Carson Chapel Center, worked with the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers which was involved with moving buildings and restoring utilities.

All water connections for Anchorage will be restored before the ground is frozen, he said.

Restoration work included forcing sand into waterlogged soil areas to drain and stabilize the soil and building large earth embankments in slide areas.

Yore said that work on the chapel center is ahead of schedule and that his supervisory work was covered by other Omaha District, Corps of Engineers, personnel assigned at Ft. Carson.

The captain came to Ft. Carson in June, 1963, and expects to remain here until early in 1965. He is a graduate of Rensslaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, N. Y., and of the University of California where he earned a graduate degree in civil engineering.

The Yore family lives at 15 N. Garo, Colorado Springs.

I Remember

By CHARLES S. DUDLEY

Someone brought this picture of the original Antlers Hotel to the Gazette Telegraph office, and I was asked if I remembered it. It is the picture that the Gazette Telegraph published Oct. 1 of this year, except that no carriages, horseback riders or pedestrians are seen in front of the building.

C. S. DUDLEY

I do remember it very clearly. I think it was in it that I had my first elevator ride. Of couse, if there were no elevator in the building I am mistaken. But I am 99 per cent sure that it was in that old building that, as a child, I had my first elevator ride. I remember the figure on the hall carpet matched the figure of the carpet on the floor of the elevator. When I entered the elevator it must not have been quite even with the hall floor, for I noticed that a figure on the carpet was separated slightly from the corresponding one on the hall carpet. But the door of the elevator closed, and I could not watch the separation widen.

The elevator must have moved slowly, for there was a red plush seat along the right wall of the elevator as one entered. It looked like a segment of one of the lengthwise seats in a horse car.

The boy who operated the elevator started the hoisting machine in thebasement and stopped it by pulling one way or the other on a cable that extended through holes in the floor and the ceiling of the elevator, near the door. A split section of rubber hose around the cable enabled him to keep his hand in position while the elevator was moving. By tightening his grasp on this section of hose he operated the controls on the motor or steam engine in the basement. This manner of operating elevators was used throughout my youthful days, at least in many buildings.

The original Antlers Hotel was built by Gen. William J. Palmer, founder of Colorado Springs, in 1882. I was born in 1881. When it was I had that first elevator ride I don't just know, but I was a small child. The fire that destroyed the original Antlers Hotel occurred in 1898. General Palmer was in London at the time. The man who was long his valet there and at Glen Eyrie told me, in an interview, that when General Palmer received the news of the fire he expressed thankfulness that no one had been injured and told him to pack at once, as he was going to Colorado Springs, to build a new hotel on the site of the old one. This he did. It is this second Antlers Hotel that is now to be razed to make room for new modern buildings in a plaza.

'Cook's Tour' Will End Here

A "cook's tour" which took him to air bases throughout the U. S., England, and Alaska, will end this month for M. Sgt. Archie N. Simmons, food service supervisor of the Air Force Academy's Cadet Dining Hall.

Sgt. Simmons is scheduled for retirement after more than 21 years of active and reserve service.

The sergeant has been engageed in food service work since completing his basic training in 1942.

After completing Cooks and Bakers School at Chanute Field, Ill., Sgt. Simmons served short tours at Hammer Field, Calif., and McChord Field, Wash., before leaving for overseas.

Federal Tax Tips

By ROGER E. WARD
Administrative Representative

CASUALTY AND THEFT LOSSES: The recently passed tax law of 1964 has brought about changes in the treatment of casualty and theft loss deductions for Federal Income Tax Purposes. Now, such losses may be deducted only to the extent that the loss, either casualty or theft, exceeds $100. For married couples filing jointly, the $100 floor applies to each separate casualty or theft loss regardless of whether the property is jointly or separately owned. Losses incurred in a taxpayer's trade or business, or losses arising from any transaction entered into for profit will continue to be fully deductible.

HELP FOR OLDER TAXPAYERS: Here's good income tax news for senior citizens. The 1964 tax law contains these tax-saving features for persons age 65 or over: The 1 per cent reduction of medicine and drug costs has been eliminated; gains from the sale of a residence may be non - taxable. Also retirement income credit has been liberalized for certain aged taxpayers. The new minimum standard deduction also provides additional benefits for the aged.

DIVIDEND CREDIT AND EXCLUSION: The new law for 1964 doubles the dividend exclusion from $50 to $100 for single persons and from $100 to $200 for married couples if both have dividends. If you are among the more than two million investors with moderate stock holdings, you will find the new law of special benefit. The 4 per cent dividend credit has been reduced from 2 per cent for 1964 and will be eliminated completely in 1965.

NON - DEDUCTIBLE STATE AND LOCAL TAXES: Effective for 1964, state and local taxes on cigarettes, tobacco and alcohol as well as the cost of automobile license plates and drivers' permits generally are no longer deductible, nor are poll taxes and certain miscellaneous local and state taxes. Real estate taxes, general sales taxes, personal property taxes, state and local income taxes, and gasoline taxes will remain allowable deductions. Taxes which are no longer deductible are among those for which it was most difficult to keep accurate records.

Speed Biggest Cause of State Traffic Deaths

Attorney General Duke W. Dunbar, Chairman of the Colorado Highway Safety Council points out that the State of Colorado Fatal Accident Breakdown Report singles out five violations which were contributing factors in 80 per cent of the fatal accidents from January 1, 1964 through October 4, 1964.

The most frequent violation noted is speed. According to the report, 142 persons were killed in 116 accidents. Speed and its control is one of the most important, most difficult and most controversial problems of traffic safety. It is important because it is the most frequent violation noted on reports of fatal accidents. It is difficult because there is usually no way of knowing definitely whether vehicles were going at an unsafe speed prior to being involved in accidents.

This is not to imply that speed is not a contributing factor in many accidents, but speed of itself may not be the cause of accidents as some contend; the fact is that "speed too fast for existing conditions" is a well recognized factor in traffic accidents.

It seems safe to assume, therefore, that driving too fast for existing conditions is a basic contributing factor in fatal accidents and that 55 per cent of the accidents attributed to speed could have been avoided by regulating speed to existing conditions related to the driver, the automobile, the roadway, and weather conditions.

John Fetler, Book Editor

"The Future of Man" — By Pierre Teilhard de Chardin — Translated from the French by Norman Denny — Harper — $5.

Teilhard was the French Jesuit scholar and intellectual who moved from geology into pure research, and developed his highly individual philsophy in the thinking terms of a biologist. He called himself a geobiologist.

This is a companion volume to his "The Phenomenon of Man," and it is a remarkable concatenation of science, philosophy and religious mysticism, which the intellectual reader will find stimulating because it also—though not consciously — involves the intuition which is ascribed to poets. Teilhard was no ordinary mortal.

One of his main theses is that the modern human being is not the end product but a still evolving creature who will, and must, follow the coherent, predestined pressures of the cosmic life force to create in the future, by his own will, a race of ultra-humans.

On the way to that position he argues that evolution is Darwinian (selection of the fittest) only so far as Man; that with Man it becomes in a new realm of superconscisness, Lamarckian (inheritance of acquired characteristics). In short, that Man is, or is bound to become, the master of his own fate. His philosophy is based on an irreversibility of progress and the inevitability of a planetary order. He stands at the opposite pole from thread-end existentialism.

The book consists of essays and lectures, arranged in chronological order, which involve considerable repetition. But for the lay reader the repetitive process is an aid to understanding.

"The Words" — By Jean-Paul Sartre — Translated from the French by Bernard Frechtman — Braziller — $5.

Satre devotes most of the book to knocking himself Since, in some quarters of Europe and America, he is held in considerable awe as an oracle, this comes as a switch.

There are two parts to his "Reading" and "Writing"

In the first, the author describes his childhood going to great lengths to make the point that he was a bookish little monster — not sincerely bookish, but a coy pretender using fake precocity to gain attention.

With sonorous chords of psychiatry sounding in the background, he drums away at his fatherless state. By his self-analysis, this meant he had no entity as an individual, no secure hold on reality. So he devoted his efforts to playing the role of pampered grandchild to his maternal grandfather. Charles Schweitzer.

The later part of the book seems to be an existentialist self-flagellation, in which he mocks his own devotion to writing and to the literature about him.

The style is choppy, often epigrammatic, sometimes aphoristic. It is filled with Gallic gestures and extravagances. But it does have force and vitality.

As Sartre never has been known to be bashful, this volume will be followed by others in the autobiographical vein.

The author relates that when his boygish ego had met some deflating incident, he would retreat to a mirror and make faces at himself. It may be surmised that he still is at it. — Miles A. Smith

"Marriage Lines" — By Ogden Nash — Little, Brown — $3.95.

"A Seizure of Limericks," — By Conrad Aiken — Holt, Rinehart — $2.95.

Nash's verses, full of his rhymes, are subtitled "Notes of a Student Husband."

That is his way of saying that these verses were collected in conjugual life. And there is no small flick of the author's eyebrow in that word "Student."

For while some of these poems are like valentines and frosted confections, there are others which register the male's eternal bafflement at feminine vagaries. One of them is a darkly resigned acknowledgement of male frustration in shrew's unilateral argument — with a concluding line, "In real life it takes only one to make a quarrel."

Poet and novelist Aiken has produced some limericks that occasionally have the Nashian touch of moidered woids and contorted grammar and all of them are lighter than air.

Not every meringue is fluffy, and there are items in each of these little books that fall uffly. But on the other mitt, there are frequent twinkles of wit.

"The Brigadier and the Golf Widow" — By John Cheever — Harper — $4.95.

Cheever works in strange vineyards and ferments a bitter wine.

We have here 16 magazine pieces. At a time when many writers are choosing their characters from among tramps, derelicts and beatniks, Cheever works at a different level — the blue ribbon slums of suburbia, exurbia and New York's Upper East Side.

They are the moral slums of country club drunks, adulterous commuters, mink, wearing crones, children shoved into the clutches of sitters and private schools, neorotically shaken corporation executives, overeducated females, snobbish spongers of well dressed double-crossers and double crossed.

In a contrasting pace, he presents several overseas stories—a sorry widow in Rome, with a foolish adolescent son; a matron fleeing into the expatriate circuit of the jolly set, to escape a ludicrus, jerring publicity at home; a simple-minded Italian peasant girl who is brought into America's strange system of mores.

Cheever's short stories are in an entirely different key from his two Wapshot books, which are about as subtle as a pie in the face. Here he works in a calmer tone, a more sohpisticated — and all the more deadly — web of blue notes.

Cheever is a left - handed moralist who turns disillusionment back upon itself; and like Goya in his last years, shows us the inner horrors which man has brought upon himself. This collection of skilled sketches demonstrates his mastery as an interpreter of the terrors within society.

"Lyndon's Legacy" — "A Candid Look at the President's Policymakers" — By Frank L. Klukhohn — Devin — Adair — $4.95 — Perhaps one of the most important things about this book is that Kluckholn himself has been advisor to the First Secretary of Defense; Special Assistant; Assistant Secretary of Security and Consular Affairs from 1955 to 1961 in the State Department. Also, for almost 20 years he was a New York Times foreign and Washington correspondent.

It may therefore come as a surprise to many people when Kluckholn changes that:

1. The publicly avowed goal of President Johnson's policymakers is the liquidation of the United States as a sovereign nation.

2. The official policy of the government under Lyndon Johnson is total disarmament by about 1970; that this is fast being accomplished on the premise that the Communists are "mellowing" and really want peace and justice.

3. The "advance planners" of the Johnson administration publisly declare that their goal is one-world government under the U. N. And, says Kluckhohn, this means no more United States of America.

The book charges U. S. unilateral disarmament financing with Alliance for Progress tax money of wholesale socialism in Latin America, and how the men around Lyndon Johnson, unelected men with strange backgrounds really make the policy; "how they are speedily dismantling the foundations of our nation."

Under fire in this book are such personages as Dean Rusk, Walt Rostow, Robert McNamara, McGeorge Bundy, Adam Yarmolinsky, George Ball, Harlan Cleveland, Paul Nitze and Arthur Schlesinger Jr. The author examines their words, policy papers, and their declared goals. He ends the book with a discussion of ADA, saying, "the announced policies of the ADA, as they are being followed by the President of the United States and by his advisers, surely represent gambling with this nation's future as we have never seen it before." He says: "Perhaps President Johnson feels that he needs these men to help him win the liberal vote in the big cities where elections can be decided. Perhaps he is afraid to buck the press claque they influence and which cooperates with them. He knows this claque has destroyed other prominent politicians. Perhaps he feels that, as the first President from the Confederacy since the Civil War, he can ignore the South and get its vote anyway. Perhaps the glorification of John F. Kennedy by individuals whose ideology news media. . .have made it, in his eyes, too dangerous to discard the advisers who set JFK's policies (and whom he inherited.) The fact remains that these men whom we never elected, today have an overwhelming and highly dangerous influence on our lives and futures."

"What Happened to My Party — In 1930, Upton Sinclair ran for governor of California as a Socialist candidate and received 60,000 votes. In 1934, he ran for governor of California as a Democrat and polled almost one million votes, nearly winning the election. Sinclair's principles had not changed in the interim, only his tactics had been altered.

This example is one of many from Phillip M. Crane's new book, "The Democrat's Dilemma" (published by Regenery Co., 114 W. Illinois St., Chicago 10, Ill.; $4.95). Crane's mission is to historically document the takeover of the Democrat Party by individuals whose idology is alien to the ideas of Jefferson and Jackson. He performs his mission competently.

The book traces the formation and development of such socialist organizations as the Intercollegiate Socialist Society, the League for Industrial Democracy, the Americans for Democratic Action and others. The views of the individuals who have guided these groups are meticulously recorded, backed by reputable references.

As the American socialist movement became less idealistic and more practical, the leaders saw their greatest opportunity in working through the established political parties. The Upton Sinclair example quoted above is just one example.

The success of this strategy is best illustrated by the recent declaration of Norman Thomas — the perennial Socialist Party presidential candidate — who said that he would no longer run, now that his program had been adopted and implemented by the major parties.

Crane's treatise on the takeover of the Democrat Party is sound and restrained. He makes no unproven assertions. The reader is invited to sift through the author's research by a preponderence of footnotes. No conclusions are implied — all are proven within the context of the material.

Although the book's preoccupation is with the Democrat Party, the reader will have no difficulty realizing that most of that party's platforms have been adopted by the Republicans also. All of which bears out George Washington's famous warning against the entire concept of political parties.

In fact, the author could well have gone back to Washington for a solution to the problem he poses. There is no remedy suggested in the book — except a vague hope that members of the Democrat Party will recapture it from the socialists.

The obvious solution lies with taking away from the politician the power to control our economy — so that any organization that seeks to infiltrate our government will be powerless to affect our lives. Crane's book is evidence of the need for this.

And if any reader believes that the author is alarmed about nothing, he need only recognize that the current Democratic vice-presidential candidate is himself a guiding light of the Americans for Democratic Action. — Brown.

AMAZING RECORD — Ralph Ranne has a job many people with two arms would find difficult. He maintains a vast film library at Ft. Lauren Bacall Wants To Stop Dubbed Voice

NEW YORK (AP) — Actress Lauren Bacall has filed a court suit to try to prevent the broadcast of a television show in which, she charges a singing voice was dubbed-in in place of hers.

Her part is that of a "singer on the skids," she said in the suit filed in New York City Friday. And if shown, the program would give the impression "that I am incapabile of singing well enough . . . to portray even a down-and-out singer," she added.

The program, "Mr. Broadway — Something to sing about," is to be shown in about a month. The producers were ordered to show why they should be allowed to broadcast the program, as filmed.

The Ministry of Interior said tht 24-year-old king and his Danish wife will begin their tour at Thrace on Oct. 19. The ministry didn't say how long the tour would last.

County Voters Will Elect Two Commissioners Nov. 3

By GLENN URBAN
Gazette Telegraph
Political Writer

El Paso County voters will elect two county commissioners in the general election — those of the 2nd and 3rd Districts.

The county is divided into three commissioner's districts for representation purposes, but citizens in all districts vote on each candidate.

A candidate must live in the district which he wishes to represent — thus a man living in Security and wishing to run for commissioner would have to seek office for the 2nd District.

His party selects him on a county-wide basis — he is designated by vote of the party at the county assembly, or is selected in the party primary by a county-wide vote.

Commissioners serve four-year terms, and except in case of death all three are never elected in one election. The commissioners, sitting as a commission, organize themselves, electing their own chairman and decided which shall be responsible for roads and Bridges, and which shall be responsible for welfare.

The other one is responsible for the other administrative duties of the commission.

At this time, Keith McBurney is chairman, and holds office for two more years. He is a Republican.

Charles Smith is roads and bridges commissioner, and Rodger Fay is welfare commissioner. Both are Republicans, and both seeking to stay in office, Smith to be reelected and Fay to be elected as he now is serving out an unexpired term to which he was appointed by the governor.

In the 3rd District, Smith is facing Charles Bickley, Democrat.

Each man was unopposed in the Sept. 8 primary election, and the vote they drew may or may not be an indicator what will happen next month.

In the primary, Smith drew 5,626 votes and Bickley got 2,839. There was a proportionate larger Republican vote for each office in the primary.

In the 2nd District, four men are squared off. One is the Democrat, one is Republican, one an Independent and one a write-in candidate.

The four are Rodger Fay, Republican; L. F. (Red) Quaney, Democrat, Floyd M. Minson, Independent, all to be on the write-in vote. Gordon's name will not be printed on the ballot.

A primary election often has such a number of candidates, but is seldom that the general election sees so many men seeking one office.

In essence, this is a battle between three Republicans and one Democrat. And it is the same number of Republicans in the race as the Republicans had candidates when the season began.

When the political season opened this year, the Republicans had three men seeking the post:

Fred Monk held the seat and was seeking reelection.

Fay, of Security, announced his candidacy about a month before the county assembly. He is a businessman.

Joe Gordon, constable for the two justice of the peace courts in Colorado Springs, also announced his candidacy early.

In the county assembly, Monk won top designation, Fay also was designated, and Gordon failed to get the necessary 20 per cent of the vote to be named a candidate.

Then, just before the state assembly and conventon, Monk died. Gov. John A. Love later named Fay to fill the vacancy. Gordon petitioned onto the ballot and so he and Fay faced each other in the Sept. 8 Republican primary election.

Fay won 3,419 to 2,639.

The Democrats named L. F. (Red) Quaney of Widefield as their candidate. He got 2,819 votes in the Democratic primary.

On Sept. 9, the day after the primary election, the race for the seat was between Fay and Quaney.

But Gordon wasn't through. Encouraged by his showing in the primary after his defeat in the county assembly, he decided to run as an independent, seeking write-in votes.

Then Minson entered. He is running as an Independent, although he was registered in the poll book of his precinct as a Republican.

Minson, who had not entered the race earlier, got on the general election ballot by petition.

This kindof a race makes the experts wary of attempting to predict the outcome.

The total Republican vote in the primary was 6,058, compared to the total of 2,819 received by Quaney.

At that time registration was much less than it will be by election day. At the close of business last week, registration figures in the office of the county clerk and recorder, Mrs. Harriet Beals, showed these new registrations: Independent 23,097. Republican — 16,062. Democrat — 11,757.

County Health Nures Slate Meet in Denver

County public health nurses from throughout Colorado will hold their annual meeting at the Colorado State Department of Public Health building, 4210 East 11th Ave., Denver, from Oct. 26 through Oct. 30.

Purpose of the five - day conference will be to bring the nurses up to date on rapidly-developing public health programs, explained Mrs. Bernice diSessa, director of nursing for the State Health Department.

County public health nurses serve in those areas of Colorado without organized local health departments. Most of them are stationed in sparsely populated rural areas.

Program participants will include medical specialists who will speak on such specialized subjects as ear surgery, diabetes, and cleft palate surgery. In addition, the nurses will learn about special education services from consultants at the State Department of Education, interviewing and counseling from a consultant on retarded children, and legal aspects of nursing from Richard Schmidt, legal advisor for the Colorado Nurses' Association.

The morning session on Thursday, Oct. 29, will be devoted to tours of Craig Rehabilitation Center, the Asthmatic Center at National Jewish Hospital, Sewall House Rehabilitation Center, Fort Logan Mental Health Center, and the out - patient department and psychopathic unit of Colorado General Hospital.

Dr. Roy L. Cleere, state health director, will address the closing session Friday, Oct. 30, on "Plain Public Health in Colorful Colorado."

Parents Urged To Assure Happy, Safe Halloween

Parents can take steps now to make sure that their children enjoy a safe and pleasant Halloween by careful selection of costumes, according to the Colorado State Department of Public Health.

"Too often, painful burns and serious injuries turn this gremlin holiday into a horrible nightmare," said Albert J. Klimaszewski, accident prevention consultant for the Department.

Now is the time, when store counters are filled with eerie costumes, that youngsters should learn to make their masquerade outfits safe from head to toe, Klimaszewski said.

He urged that particular attention be paid to the material in costumes to make sure it is flameproof. A mere spark can ignite flimsy fabric and outfits with billowing skirts and baggy sleeves. Fibrous - type wigs, beards, and shaggy sweaters also should be rejected for safety sake.

There's potential danger, too, in dark - colored costumes that cannot be seen on a spooky Halloween night. Klimaszewski said trick - or - treaters should wear light - colered outfits or, at least, a white cap, scarf, gloves, or handkerchief, tied in arm - band fashion.

"It's also a good idea for youngsters to carry a flashligh' Klimaszewski said. "It will help them see where they are going, and it will signal motorists of their presence."

Masks are more a liability than an asset to a Halloween costume, according to the accident prevention consultant, because they restrict vision. He suggested a painted false face instead.

"No one want a repetition of the Seattle, Wash., tragedy that occurred when a child's mask slipped, blinding his view of an onrushing automobile," Klimaszewski said.

He also discouraged such costume accessories as magic wands and swords fashioned from pointed sticks, metal, or plastic. To avoid injuries, such items should be made of cardboard. And falls will be prevented, he said, if children wear sensible skirts and heels.

"For personal safety, younger children always should be accompanied by an adult, and older children should travel in groups," Klimaszewski said. "Children also should be reminded not to enter the homes of strangers."

He pointed out one source of danger, usually overlooked, is the neighborhood pet that tends to become excited and skittish at the sight of strange faces and costumes. Children should be warned not to run from a dog but to stand pat, and speak firmly to the animal until he grows calm.

"This Halloween should be fun," Klimaszewski concluded. "It's meant to be. And the only trick to keeping it safe is to help your children recognize its dangers."

Surgeon General to Speak At CU Dedication Rites

Dr. Luther L. Terry, surgeon general of the U.S. Public Health Service, will be the principal speaker at dedication ceremonies for the new $250,000 addition to the Webb - Waring Institute for Medical Research at the University of Colorado Medical Center.

The ceremonies are scheduled for 3 p.m. Friday, and if weather permits will be conducted outdoors on the medical campus adjancent to the Webb Building In the event of bad weather, the program will be moved to the auditorium of the Denison Memorial Library.

Plans for the dedication were announced Saturday by Dr. Robert L. Stearns, Institute president, and Dr. Roger S. Mitchell, Director of the privately endowed research organization which has been located on the CU medical campus since 1953.

About 150 invited guests are expected to attend the ceremony. Dr. Mitchell said anyone wishing to attend may do so by making reservations through the Webb - Waring Institute offices at the Medical Center to insure that seating accommodations are provided.

Dr. Stearns will preside, and other speakers will include Mayor Thomas Currigan; Dr. Joseph R. Smiley, President of the University of Colorado; Dr. John J. Conger, CU Vice President for Medical Affairs and Dean of the School of Medicine; and Dr. Mitchell.

A $250,000 addition to the Webb Building at the southwest corner of the Medical Center complex was completed this summer, adding fourth and fifth floors to the structure. The project also included remodeling of the three lower floors of the building. It was financed through private contributions supplementing a $100,000 from the health research facilities of the National Institutes of Health.

Dr. Mitchell said the new space is being utilized for research laboratories, animal quarters, sterilizing facilities and a conference room to permit expansion of the Institute's program of scientific investigations mainly into respiratory and pulmonary disorders.

The Institute now operates on an annual budget of approximately $275,000 of which $85,000 represents private funds. It has close faculty and teaching links with the CU School of Medicine. Dr. Mitchell and other key members of the Institute staff hold faculty appointments in the medical school. The Institute's researches in biochemistry, genetics, immunology and pulmonary physiology are closely inter - related with other investigations in these fields being pursued by physicians and scientists in various medical school departments and laboratories.

The Institute bears the names of the late Drs. Gerald B. Webb and James J. Waring, distinguished Colorado physician-scientists who were among the nation's pioneers in the scientific attack on tuberculosis.

Founded in 1923 at Colorado College in Colorado Springs, the Institute, then the Colorado Foundation for Research in Tuberculosis, moved to the CU Medical Center in 1953 to occupy a one - story and semi - basement building adjoining Colorado General Hospital. It was expanded to three floors in 1960 and now has added another two floors to accommodate its active program of basic research and laboratory investigations.

The Institute is administered by a volunteer board of trustees headed by Dr. Stearns. Other officers of the board are Mrs. John W. Stewart, Santa Barbara, Calif., and Henry W. Toll, Denver, vice presidents; and Morris A. Esmiol, Colorado Springs, secretary-treasurer.

Last of the groups, arriving on the 28th, are three Nicaraguan Army officers.

They include: Col. Edmundo Rocha-D, commander of the Nicaraguan Military Academy; Lt. Col. Benjamin Buitrago Reyes, sub director of the Academy; and Maj. Ricardo Lopez-Palacios, commanding officer of the Fifth Company, Second Battalion.

All the officers will be escorted by Spanish speaking members of the Academy staff during their tours, will see the Academy film "At the Ramparts" with a Spanish soundtrack, receive briefings on the academic, military, and physical training programs, and tour area facilities.

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

In All Innocence!

DEAR ABBY: I am a 17-year-old boy. I live with my mother and grandparents. Tonight at the dinner table, I said "navel." My grandfather said he didn't want to hear any more dirty or sexy talk out of me. Believe me, Abby, I don't see anything dirty or sexy about a navel. My mother is on my side and she is getting tired of my grandfather saying to me, "You're talking dirty." This happens all the time. Any suggention? —T. T.

DEAR T: I'm afraid the "dirt" (if there is any) is in your grandfather's mind, but let your mother handle grandpa and provoke as few complaints as you can.

DEAR ABBY: We parents are properly concerned about the safety of our children as they walk to and from school, and visit friends outside their immediate neighborhoods. A relative in Omaha, Nebraska, told me of a plan now being successfully implemented through their PTA. It is called the "BLOCK PLAN." A home - made sign, "BLOCK HOME," is prominently displayed in the window of one home in every block. Children have been instructed that this home is an island of safety where they will be welcome should they become sick, or injured, or besieged by molesters, bullies or dogs. (Each house must be approved by the PTA, of course.) The plan costs nothing, requiring only the cooperation of good people who are interested in the safety of children. If you see the merit of this plan, I hope you will print it in your column where it will get nationwide publicity, and move other communities to copy it. Sincerely, —LOVES CHILDREN

DEAR ABBY: Our apartment building is so close to another apartment building that you can almost touch it. Directly, across from us are three ladies (all over 40) and their kitchen window is right across from ours. Well, those three women walk around making their breakfasts without their blouses on (just their bras). And they sit down and eat breakfast that way. They can see us having our breakfast at our kitchen table, and they don't make any effort to cover themselves up. They look over at us and go right on eating. We can't help watching the show. It's too hot to pull our shade down. I've never seen anything like it. And neither has my husband, and he's been in the service, and has lived in Arkansas. He always says, "My, what if we had company?" My mother and father are coming to visit us soon, and they would die if they ever saw a scene like that. Should we try to get the message to these ladies before my parents get here? — EMBARRASSED

DEAR EMBARRASSED: You could give them the message, but they probably wouldn't cover up for the Duke and Duchess of Windsor. Pull your shades down and get an air-conditioning unit.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I were having a heated discussion on spanking children. I say a child should be spanked on his bottom. My husband insists that a slap in the face is much more effective. He said his mother used to slap him in the face and it did him more good than if she slapped him on the bottom. I say that nobody, not even a child, should be slapped in the face. What do you say? — THINK I'M RIGHT.

DEAR THINK: It all depends on what you want to accomplish. If you want to insult and humiliate someone (even a child), a slap in the face will do it. But if you wish to show disapproval, a spanking is the answer. Personally, I agree with you. No one should be slapped in the face (and any blow in the region of the head can be dangerous)—so, I say, bottoms up!

Personnel Gets Credit for Top School Lunches

School lunches are tasty, nutritious, colorful, and appealing because they are prepared by people trained in nutrition, menu planning, and the preparation and serving of large quantities of food.

Miss Pluma Reeve, District 11 supervisor of school lunchrooms, emphasized this point in calling attention to the third annual observance of National School Lunch Week, October 11-17.

She credited the low cost of lunches, 30 cents in elementary and junior highs and 35 cents in high schools, to the efficiency of the lunchroom personnel. "This is supported by the fact we have only one worker for every 280 lunches served per week," she said.

Miss Reeve pointed out that the 51 lunchroom workers have a total of 150 years of food service experience in addition to special training at workshops every summer.

This past summer, the supervisor and seven workers attended the Colorado School Lunch Workshop at Fort Collins.

This week District 11 lunchrooms will serve the following menus:

Church Organist Serves For 70 Years

ATLANTIC, Iowa (AP) — Seventy years ago, as a girl of 9, Clara Otto sat down at the Zion Lutheran Church organ to play for a wedding.

She did such a good job that she has been the church organist ever since.

At a special service Sunday, Clara, now Mrs. Schelm, will be honored for her 70 years as the church's organist.

The Rev. O. R. Harms of St. Louis, president of the 2.6-million member Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, will be present.

Mrs. Schelm estimates she has played for more than 5,000 church services, weddings and funerals. She still plays for both Sunday morning services and an evening service once a month.

Plane That Makes Its Own Fuel Is Good Possibility

Among the many objects drifting around in outer space someday may be a plane which makes its own fuel right out of thin air.

But the problems that exist in developing such a craft—it could go to the Moon when enough liquid oxygen is accumulated in its storage tanks — are anywhere from 100 to 1000 times as difficult as were those problems facing the scientists who made the atom bomb in World War II.

A group of University of Colorado Chemical engineers are trying to solve one of those many problems. Their job, of course, is too complex to fully understand without years of study in physics, chemistry and engineering.

The research work was started at the University in January 1961, with a $117,940 grant from the Air Force to Prof. Paul L. Barrick. The original grant ran out last Dec. 31, but work is continuing under the direction of Barrick and Asst. Prof. Lee F. Brown. Barrick received a $72,600 grant from the Air Force and Brown received $8,820 from the National Science Foundation.

Generally, the job concerns changing the liquid fuel to be used in the plane - par-hydrogen-into hydrogen's other form, ortho - hydrogen. The conversion process creates cooling, which is necessary in the liquification of air.

The liquid oxygen — which is condensed from the atmosphere scooped into the plane during flight — will be used to burn along with the liquid hydrogen in powered flight.

The conversion from para to ortho and vice - versa has been done many times in laboratories. It involves re - spinning - or changing the direction of spin of one of the two nuclei in a hydrogen molecule.

According to Brown the problem exists in determining how to change the spin of on nucleus with simple, lightweight, reliable methods and equipment.

Solving the problem of fast, effective conversion of atmosphere—or gasous oxygen — to liquid oxygen will enable the plane to gain most of its fuel weigh in the far eraches of the atmosphere. This lessens the problem of getting away from the strong pull of the Earth's gravity at ground level and burning up extreme amounts of fuel in the process.

The low fuel takeoff weight also will aid aerospace engineers in designing the plane—a rocket with wings—so that it may take off and land in the same manner as do conventional aircraft at airports.

The Space Plane also could be used as a tanker in space which would supply other liquid hydrogen - oxygen - powered craft during space rendesvous operations.

The liquid oxygen supply also would lessen the problem of carrying large amounts of breathing oxygen aboard at takeoff, because the manufactured liquid oxygen created from the atmosphere can be returned to its gaseous form by heating for breathing.

ORGANIZERS EXPECTED

GUADALAJARA, Mexico (UPI) — Forty of the 84 organizers of the U. S. "People to People" program are expected here Oct. 30 and 31 to attend the organization's first meeting outside the United States.

Notables who have indicated they will attend include former President Eisenhower.

Dozen False Alarms Turned in Last Month

In addition to its regular duties, the Colorado Springs fire department had more than its share of false alarms last month and the licensing of bicycles.

Fire Chief Fred H. Lausch said 12 false alarms were turned in during the month, 10 of them from boxes. This is probably an alltime high for one month.

Firemen licensed 136 bicycles, which is also a record for a single month. This was probably due to children getting their transportation ready for school. Bicycles can be licensed at any city fire department station.

In addition to the false alarms, the department had 87 fire alarms, had 19 resuscitator calls and spent 1,399 man hours in drill, study and training.

Additionally, Lausch said, 4,178 radio transmissions were handled, five boats were inspected, trucks traveled 3,541 miles and cars 1,526 miles.

Ending of Train Service Said to Create Hardship

SALIDA, Colo. (AP)—Discontinuance of passenger service on the Rio Grande Railroad's Royal Gorge route would wreak a hardship on mountain communities, the Colorado Public Utilities Commission was told Friday.

The views were presented by several witnesses at a PUC hearing in Salida on a proposal by the railroad to discontinue its two daily trains between Denver and Grand Junction via the picturesque Royal Gorge.

Witnesses testified that:

1. Salida would lose $121,000 a year through loss of payrolls when 15 railroad employes are dismissed because of the discontinuance.

2. Hospital services in the Leadville area would be endangered.

3. The railroad has done little to improve service over the past half century.

Witnesses included R. E. Carroll of Salida, chairman of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen; Don Hardy, publisher of the Canon City Daily Record; Sister Mary Ellen, administrator of St. Vincent Hospital at Leadville; Ray J. Williams, a Pueblo motel operator, and Archie Reeve, former mayor of Canon City.

Hardy said that in the past 52 years the Rio Grande has managed to cut only one hour from the running time on the Royal Gorge route between Canon City and Denver. This, he said, was despite the advent of diesel engines.

Hardy said that mail and express service from Pueblo west would suffer with the loss of the trains. He called the possibility of adding mail trains "a poor substitute."

Carroll suggested that the railroad put on an extensive advertising campaign and start touring trips with open observation cars. "This is a new generation," he told the PUC, "one that has never been on trains."

The hospital administrator said that train service is now used for transport of vital drugs to Leadville and also to send tissue to pathologists at Grand Junction for analysis.

Passenger trains, she said, are also used to transfer patients to other hospitals.

Meanwhile, the commission has ordered the Rio Grande to continue passenger service via Royal Gorge at least until Dec. 8, by which time a decision is expected.

Garden City to Get Beef Packing Plant

GARDEN CITY, Kan. (UPI)—A proposed million dollar beef packing plant will become a reality in the next few days.

President Don Von Schriltz of Producers Packing Co., a cooperative, said today that contracts were let wednesday.

The plant will be constructed about three miles east of Garden City. The major contract for building and installation of equipment was awarded to N.F. English Co., of Hutchinson, Kan.

The contract for refrigeration went to Packers Refrigeration and Air Conditioning, Inc., of Omaha. Amounts of the contracts were not disclosed.

The plant will be completed next August 1, Von Schriltz said. He is from Healy, Kan.

Producers was organized in response to requests by cattle feeders in southwest Kansas and southeast Colorado. Consumers Cooperative Association, with headquarters in Kansas City, Mo., helped in forming Producers.

Forecast of Corn, Grain Crop Released

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department today estimated the year's production of corn for grain at 3,564,368,000 bushels and of all wheat at 1,285,962,000 bushels. For corn this was a decrease of 2 per cent from a month ago and for wheat a decrease of less than 1 per cent.

The corn figure compares with 3,640,267,000 bushels forecast last month, 4,081,791,000 last year and 3,670,215,000 for the five-year (1958-62) average.

The new wheat estimate compares with the September forecast of 1,289,982,000, last year's crop of 1,137,641,000 and 1,252,847,000 for the five-year average.

The winter wheat estimate was unchanged from last month's 1,018,929,000 bushels and it compares with 904,828,000 last year and 1,019,570,000 for the average.

All spring wheat was estimated at 267,033,000 bushels. Last month it was put at 271,053,000 compared with 232,813,000 last year and 199,893,000 for the average.

Robert Vaughn Tries to Follow Mother's Advice

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Says Robert Vaughn: "The only advice my mother ever gave me was to be a big star or else get out of the acting business. It wasn't worth it otherwise."

Vaughn just might make it. At least he's off to a good start as the super-spy-super-lover on NBC's "The Man From U.N.C.L.E." This is not Uncle Sam, but a super-national agency designed to stamp out nefarious doings by international troublemakers.

Many critics pointed out the series seemed bottled in bond, and there are indeed similarities to the Ian Fleming novels: Outrageous plots, susceptible beauties, a super-evil agency named Thrush (James Bond's nemisis is Smersh). But then, Bond borrowed from Sam Spade, Spade from Sherlock Holmes, etc. And the late Fleming had a hand in shaping the series.

The similarity doesn't bother Vaughn, the intrepid Napoleon Solo of U.N.C.L.E. "I never read the Fleming novels," he says, "but I did see the two movies ('Dr. No,' 'From Russia With Love') and I hope we are compared to them."

Nor does Vaughn seem dissuaded from fulfilling the positive side of his mother's advice. His hopes for the series: "To make me the biggest star in the business."

He figures this is his best chance. He started acting when he was 11; both his parents were in the business — "but working actors who had to worry about where the next job was coming from."

That has never been a concern of Vaughn's.

"I got my first contract with Hecht-Lancaster and Columbia two months after I got out of college," he says. "I've been under contract or working ever since. (He's now 31.) The parts have grown better and the pay higher. So except for that first two months, I haven't really suffered."

But he nearly got sidetracked from his aim. He drew an Academy Award nomination for his drunk in "The Young Philadelphians," and that seemed to type him as a character actor. Then he spent a miserable season last year as second banana to Gary Lockwood's "Lieutenant," groaning when the show was dropped.

Col. Schroeder Retires Here

Lt. Col. George R. Schroeder, 1710 Baylor, moved his sights from North American Air Defense Command current operations to a world perspective after his September retirement ceremony at Ft. Carson.

The retired Colonel is now the district manager of World Book Enterprises for Colorado Springs after 23 Army years—the last five at NORAD.

He received the Joint Services Commendation Medal from General John K. Gerhart, NORAD commander - in - chief, at the retirement ceremony.

Colonel Schroeder's son Groff age 10, decided at the retirement retreat parade that he wanted to try for the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, his father said. Other future soldiers in the family are Billy and Roger.

The Schroeder Army career began when he was drafted in April, 1942, from a radio script writer's job in California. He was commissioned from artillery officers candidate school later that year.

His first overseas tour was with the 401st Artillery Battalion in Fifth U. S. Army operations from Africa to Italy. He was sent to Korea after World War II moving later to Okinawa and Japan.

He returned to the United States as an instructor at Fort Bliss, Texas, and was assigned to NORAD in 1958 after other United States tours of duty.

The colonel has been Cub Scout neighborhood commissioner. He and Mrs. Schroeder are past presidents of the Will Rogers Elementary PTA and the family attends First Congregational Church.

He attended the University of Minnesota. Mrs. Schroeder is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Groff, 111 Alameda Lane, San Clemente, Calif.

CC Alumni Plan To Discuss Love and Personal Freedom

Throughout the United States this week alumni of Colorado College are reading a 2,400-year-old Greek book in preparation for a discussion about "love and personal freedom" at homecoming here Oct 17.

The book is Plato's "Sym - former Colorado College students who as undergraduates spent a year in the college's seminar on Freedom and Authority.

Attendance at annual Freedom and Authority reunions has been on the increase in recent years as alumni of the independent liberal arts college here come to regard homecoming as a return to the world of ideas.

This year the college expects some 60 alumni of the select siminar dealing with individual freedom and the kinds of authority that restrict it.

Homecoming at Colorado College Oct. 15 - 18, naturally will include the traditional activities of class reunions, a football game and the annual alumni meeting.

Alumni of the Freedom and Authority seminar have been holding reunions at homecoming since 1950. Attendance has increased steadily since 18 gathered for the first reunion.

In addition to returning alumni, the discussion reunion this year will be attended by some eight Colorado College professors who teach, or have taught, sections of the seminar. Among them will be President Lloyd E. Worner, who helped to establish the seminar in 1950.

Taught by professors from various academic disciplines, the seminar is made up of select juniors and seniors who meet three times a week to talk about the ways man has faced the basic problem of freedom vs. authority down through history.

Over the years, the Freedom and Authority seminar has become so popular with honors-caliber students that it has grown into four sections. Each section, taught by a different professor, is made up of 14 students.

Colorado College professors who have taught the seminar have come to regard it as a joint quest by students and teachers alike into the nature of freedom and the kinds of authority that restrict it.

Alumni of the Freedom and Authority seminar this year will be returning to the Colorado College campus from various parts of the United States and abroad for their annual reunion. The discussion topic is "The Quality of Love and Personal Freedom."

A "real treat" is in store for you with the best in dance music, and entertainment at this semi - formal charity affair. Hollywood screen and TV star, Jackie Cooper, will be at the helm along with many other special guests and celebrities from the local area, the state, and possibly from Hollywood.

Dancing will begin at 9 p.m. The NORAD "Commanders" orchestra will spark the Ball with their famous sounds of the 'big band' era. The "Commanders" boast of a rich collection of popular orchestrations and original compositions contributed by the biggest names in show business.

As part of the NORAD "Cavalcade of Music" Band, the "Commanders" have appeared on the Bell Telephone Hour, at the Hollywood Bowl, on Today's Show, Tonight's Show, at the New York Worlds Fair, in Carnegie Hall, on the Steve Allen Show, and have been on the Mutual Radio Network weekly with the "Partners in Defense" Show for the past four years.

Along with the "Commanders" the "Noradiers" a newly formed dance group will make their debut at the Ball. By alternating these dance bands, a full evening of continuous dancing is being planned.

Everett Conover, the eminent and nationally known toastmaster of Colorado Springs, will be the master of ceremonies. As usual, the appearance of Everett Conover at any type of function can only assure everyone of an entertaining evening.

His emcee work has won him the title of "Quip - master of the Rocky Mountain Empire". His humor has been enjoyed by audiences from coast-to-coast.

Throughout the country, Conover has been lauded for his toastmaster wit, and especially for his famous ego deflating talk "Stop, Look and Listen".

"Quip-master . . .raconteur . . . .humorist, have become synonymous with Everett Conover.

Conover is presently the President of the Conover Investment Company, Vice President of the Conover Motor Company, and Vice President of the Security Savings and Loan Association all in Colorado Springs.

Demo Women Ready to Hit Campaign Trail

sWASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Lee Metcalf, wife of the Montana senator, will be among a group of Democratic women notables who will hit the campaign trail in support of the party next week.

Mrs. Metcalf will be responsible for Colorado, Wyoming, Montana and North Dakota, along with Mrs. A. S. (Mike) Monroney, wife of the Oklahoma senator, and Mrs. G. M. Hostetler, member of the Maryland Democratic Committee.

The Democratic National Committee announced Friday that the women will visit 35 cities in 19 states from Maine to California. The travel plans were drawn up by the Women's National Democratic Club for wives of Cabinet members and members of Congress and other female Democrats.

Sixteen ladies have been formed into eight teams for the tours, which start from Washington on Monday and wind up next Friday night.

Mrs. Anthony Celebrezze, wife of the secretary of health, education and welfare, and Mrs. Burch Bayh, wife of the Indiana senator, are assigned to Utah, Idaho and the Spokane and Seattle areas of Washington.

Mrs. Frank Church and Mrs. George Dixon, wives respectively of the senator from Idaho and the newspaper columnist, will tour New Mexico, Arizona and southern California.

Iowa, Nebraska and South Dakota are the touring grounds for Mrs. Stewart Udall, wife of the interior secretary, and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., wife of the undersecretary of commerce.

Democrat Solon Says Frying Pan Could Be Junked

LAMAR, Colo. (AP) — Colorado's $170 million Fryingpan-Arkansas reclamation project might be adandoned if Barry Goldwater is elected president, a Democratic senator said Friday.

Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W. Va., told Arkansas Valley Democrats that Goldwater has recommended a "timetable for a staged withdrawal" of the federal government from a wide variety of fields, including public power and agriculture.

Such a timetable, Randolph said, presumably would include the trans-mountain water diversion project. He said this might be "one of the hundreds of projects of investment in the future of America which would be eliminated by a Goldwater administration."

Randolph said that southeastment might also withdraw from operation and maintenance of John Martin Reservoir, about 25 miles west of Lamar on the Arkansas River.

He said the reservoir has provided "irrigation benefits over the past 15 years of more than $13.5 million for the farmers and cattlemen . . . and nearly $19 million in prevented flood damages."

Randolph said that southeastern Colorado stands to benefit from the Johnson Administration's recently passed "War on Poverty" program.

He noted that while nationally 21.4 per cent of U.S. families are living on less than $3,000 a year—the so-called poverty level figure—the total in Colorado is 18.3 per cent.

"But in southeastern Colorado," he added, "the picture is not a happy one."

Randolph said that Prowers County has 28.5 per cent below the $3,000 level, Bent 33.8 per cent, Baca 33 per cent and Las Animas 37.2 per cent.

Custer and Costilla counties, he said, both have substantially more than half their families living on annual incomes of less than $3,000.

GAZETTE-TELEGRAPH
Your Freedom Newspaper
Ever striving for the Pikes Peak Region to be an even better place to live

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Solid Growth or Pulp Expansion

Everywhere you look today, politicians, intent on keeping the public happy and in a cheerful mood, are talking in terms of "economic growth." It is almost as though "growth" had become a religion, a sacred ritual, a panacea for all ills.

Economic growth always begins with an act of investment. Thus, for growth to ensue, capital must be found by means of which new tools can be provided, new plants constructed, men hired and new products or services offered to the public.

The difficulty here is that the very people who talk most about economic growth, the politicians, are the ones who, through constant taxation and constant attrition of the purchasing power of dollars, are engaged in making real growth difficult if not impossible.

The solution wherein it is made to appear that we can have our cake and eat it too, is called "inflation." Since we are not accumulating capital dollars at a rate sufficiently steep to insure investments and hence, economic expansion, the solution appears to government men to lie in providing more dollars through government expansion of currency and credit. This is inflation.

But the dollars pumped into the economic stream by government, wherein investments can be made, are not full-bodied dollars. They are anemic dollars which introduce a kind of pernicious lukemia to the market blood stream. These extra dollars have no relationship to existing goods and reserves of wealth. They are essentially spurious dollars, but their effect is contagious for they help to weaken all dollars in use.

These dollars are not necessary for economic growth and, indeed, they do not really provide economic growth. They provide distortions and destroy the ability of men in the market to reasonably calculate their own behavior.

When spurious dollars force prices up, they do not all rise at the same rate of speed. Nor is it possible to predict where they will rise, the degree of rise, nor how quickly other prices will catch up with them. Thus, businessmen cannot distinguish between a price that will probably endure and one that will be subject to a sudden shift. They cannot tell how customers will react since they do not know what is apt to appear to stimulate customer action.

A characteristic in times like these is that profits will be overestimated. Some businessmen will actually imagine they are making profits when, in point of fact, they will be in process of eroding their own capital. They will pay taxes on capital gains when, if inflation were included in their calculations, they should be claiming a capital loss.

Through this type of procedure, induced by political meddling, inefficiency is rewarded and efficiency penalized. Because everything seems to be booming, the widening area of bankruptcy and impoverishment will become unintelligible. As the spiral rises, politicians, sensing that all is not right, but unable to discover the flaw in the structure, are apt to demand price controls and wage stratification. This will not cure inflaton. It will merely hide the effects of inflation, and further distort the picture.

In the end we will discover that we have poured billions of dollars into new plants and in the production of goods which the market place cannot absorb and for which no real demand exists. Like the manufacture of excessive military hardware to provide for overkill, the creation of spurious dollars provides for overspend.

Thus, inflation, seen by politicians as the readily available avenue to stimulate economic growth, is actually the avenue to economic distortion, the destruction of values and a final stagnation and possibly a collapse.

The solid way to provide for real economic growth is to encourage government participation with real dollars and to discourage government participation in any and all market place activities. Economic growth, when it is real, is a good thing. But inflationary economic growth will produce enormous structures which will be soft and lacking in backbone and sinew. When pressures arise, as they invariably do arise in any market, the pulpy growth will fall of its own weight and lack of tensile strength.

But so long as the public generally can be lured by economic promises and the suggestion of a paradise of easy money, so long will we court disaster and in the end face up to a reality no one cares to see.

These Days

Whatever Happened to The Cuban Menace

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

The forgotten issue of the 1964 campaign is Cuba. Even New York's Senator Ken Keating, who was talking about the Soviet build-up in Cuba in 1962 at a time when President John F. Kennedy was pooh-poohing the "armchair" allegations of the Republicans that something dangerous was going on just ninety miles away from Florida, has been chary about setting his own record in foreign policy matters against the record of his opponent, Bobby Kennedy.

True enough, Goldwater has drawn his own inferences from the fact that John F. Kennedy did not raise the issue of the 1962 missile crisis until several weeks after Keating and Senator Capehart of Indiana had indicated that something nasty was going on in Castro-land. And Bill Miller is meditating a speech on the subject of Cuba as this column is being written. But in general the Republicans who are campaigning this year have not been particularly concerned with a menace that is much closer to the United States than anything going on in Cyprus or the eastern Congo or in the Gulf of Tonkin.

This, on the face of it, is amazing. For Cuban refugee sources, which include the south Florida groups which monitor what is said on the air in Havana, are just as certain in early October of 1964 that the Russians are turning Cuba into an offensive fortress as they were in 1962 when they were feeding their material to Keating and Capehart in hopes of provoking John F. Kennedy to action.

The 1962 information about the Soviet build-up in the Caribbean which Keating, Capehart and Clare Luce used so tellingly came from Fidel Castro's own publications, "Hoy" and "Oliva Verde" which openly boasted that Cuba had the missiles.

THE EVIDENCE

To take advantage of the fact that one only had to be able to read and speak Spanish to know what Castro was up to, a citizens committee for a free Cuba, headed by the capable Daniel James from Mexico City, was set up in late 1962. Ever since then, the evidence of a continuing Soviet militarization of Cuba has been available. Paul Bethel, who later took James's place as executive director of the citizens committee, has been just as capable as his predecessor in uncovering "hard" facts about what goes on. A former career foreign service officer in Havana, Bethel knows both the Cuban refugee and the underground worlds.

The big difference between 1964 and 1962 is that the Goldwater Republicans have not been as much on the ball about Cuba as Keating and Capehart were at a time when Kennedy was making light of the issue.

Mr. Bethel's 1964 information includes a full story of the Soviet commandeering of Castro's naval forces. Monitored radio messages have corroborated refugee stories about the arrival in Havana of a big Soviet naval mission charged with taking control of Castro's "fishing fleet." One of the Soviet missions is to make "oceanographic studies" of the Caribbean bottom.

RED MISSIONS

The idea is to uncover likely spots where submarines carrying devastating atomic missiles can hide out beyond the reach of sonar or other types of detection. Protected behind reefs and keys, the Soviets could sneak under any early warning system which the U.S. might rig up to guard itself against atomic attack.

Mr. Bethel's monitored sources have also supplied material about the transportation inside Cuba of liquid oxygen, a missile propellant, and the arrival of 1,000 Soviet 17-year-olds for training in tropical warfare. Soviet amphibious tanks and huge 26-wheeled truck-trailers have recently been unloaded at Matarzas, a port to the east of Havana. Mr. Bethel points out that the prime use of a 26-wheeled truck-trailer is to transport ballistic missiles. "There is no doubt," he says, "that there are medium-range missiles on Cuba."

It won't be long, says Mr. Bethel, before the Soviets have submarine pens and other naval installations completely operational on our southern flank.

If the Republicans were on their toes, they would be using current information about the Cuban build-up as Keating and Capehart used similar information in 1962. But somehow, though Goldwater says Lyndon Johnson is "soft on communism," we get no specifications of exactly where the "softness" lies. The killer instinct is lacking in this most lackadaisical of campaigns.

View Of Government Schools

That there is a great deal wrong with the compulsory tax-financed school system is pretty generally admitted these days.

Leonard E. Read, president of the Foundation for Economic Education, Inc., points out the principal reason in an article "Nuclear Giants & Ethical Infants" which the Gazette Telegraph is reprinting from the Freeman in this issue.

The title was taken from a 1948 statement by General of the Army Omar Bradley, who said in part: "Ours is a world of nuclear giants and ethical infants. We know more about war than we know about peace, more about killing than we know about living."

Mr. Read's thesis is "that government's intervention in education is, to a marked extent, the cause of a dangerous and grotesque imbalance between these two distinct types of knowledge" (technical know-how and general wisdom or understanding).

To those who believe the government training program is good as well as those who have doubts about whether it is of value, we recommend a reading of Mr. Read's discussion. It will give a clearer insight to the question of what is wrong with the schools.

How To Get 'Em Down on the Farm

For a close-to-home example of the fakery in foreign aid and the debauchery inherent in the welfare state, consider the farm labor spectacle.

Braceros will not be available after Dec. 31 under Public Law 78, the act of Congress which has made workers from Mexico available in large numbers.

Congress has been pressured into a refusal to extend the program by labor union bosses who want to control all sources of labor supply, and possibly by others who recognize what seems to be a paradox: millions of unemployed Americans at the same time thousands of foreign laborers are imported.

The way the member-hungry union bosses see it, without Mexicans, farmers would be forced to hire domestics, who would be ripe for union exploitation. Labor union membership has been on the decline, and the bosses see a great opportunity to swell the union ranks with farm workers.

And what the union bosses want from the "liberal" establishment now in control of federal affairs, they have an excellent chance of getting. Their numbers may not be increasing, but there are still 17 million of them, and what is more important, they are organized as no other large "non-partisan" group for active politics; they are literally rich and eager to lay the cash on the line for their favorite politicans. It is a matter of bribing the politicians to do them favors at the expense of the remainder of the population.

The way the bracero sees it, a chance to work on U. S. farms is a golden opportunity which he never expects to come his way in his native land. But it does enable him to get the cash to improve his condition at home — cash to buy land, livestock and machinery. And it introduces him to advanced farming methods which he can employ gradually on his own parcel.

Very likely the bracero never thinks of his job among the gringos as a form of foreign aid, but it accomplishes what the advocates of foreign aid claim they are promoting —an opportunity for those in foreign lands to improve their lot through U.S. help, thus making less enticing the false promises of the better life under communism.

The bracero type of foreign aid is the best possible. Cost of the "aid" is borne by the benefited farmer, not the taxpayers. It does not have the debasing stigma of charity. It enhances the self-respect of the recipient, who improves his standard of living through his own hard work. It instills a healthy pride and encourages ambition.

There really is nothing paradoxical about U.S. farmers begging for tens of thousands of workers while millions of their fellow-citizens are unemployed. It would be a paradox only if those millions were in need. They are not, because they are supported by the labor of others. They are encouraged to stay on the dole by government guarantees for their keep; by unprincipled politicians who buy their votes though promises of even greater handouts and constantly assure them that they are the helpless victims of a society which has little need for unskilled labor, and in any case nobody should be expected to do that kind of work.

In this great egalitarian age, anybody who can't get a job at the top is excused from any work at all if that's the way he wants it.

Get rid of the braceros, say the union bosses, and the fields and orchards will be crawling with homegrown workers — provided they get pay equal to that of skilled industrial workers. It is not only an impractical vision, it is an impossible one. Farmers make money. That's a fact and a significant fact for the rest of us, because making money is their business, and if they didn't there wouldn't be any. And farmers are convenient, maybe even absolutely necessary, to have around. But they can't stay in business paying skilled wages for unskilled work, nor can any other industry.

There's one sure and certain remedy for the farm labor problem, and it would go a long way in solving many other problems as well. It would be a major step in establishing the Great Society — a proud, self-reliant, productive, prosperous society. The unfailing remedy is: Cut off the welfare checks for every able-bodied male.

'JOB CORPS'

To the Editor:

Rainbow Falls Park and Trout Hatchery opposes Pike National Forest's selection of a site of President Johnson's job corps. This site, which is approximately 500 yards south of my home, is not the proper place. This beautiful valley, known as Rainbow Falls Park Valley, has been dedicated ever since 1874 to recreation. General Palmer and William A. Bell on their plat showed their entire valley, wrote restrictions concerning the care of trees, wildlife and fish. The wonderful camp grounds that have gone up and the three more proposed in the area of the big site are all in accordance with these dreams of these fine gentlemen, but not this one. The reason it is wrong is simply that these 200 young men will now be living within the bounds of this beautiful recreational area. This area is and has been an esthetic, beautiful valley for fishing, camping, hiking, hunting, pondering, praying for all of God's people in a God's land. Young people of proper appreciation of nature untouched, uncorrupted, are now to be for the first time surrounded by men and boys who need excellent attention by supervisors to keep in hand.

All of us know that these boys need help. President Johnson and Congress have accepted the depressed area of Appalachia and the Tennessee Hills as a challenge. I agree with them. Whether it is the Bronx or Harlem, we are for assisting these boys. Congress is not sure, but President Johnson says this is his idea, please go along. They did. Now to see if it works.

Pike National Forest, with all of its thousands of square miles, need not put these men right in the middle of thousands of campers. Young girls and boys and parents, the finest youth of our nation, wander through its beautiful forests and now to be subjected to this temptation. This is not the spot for an anti-poverty rehabilitation center. These men cannot pass army educational standards. They will be illiterate. They will need much help. Let us help them in the proper area.

Do you think these men should be put on a train in Appalachia, sent to Colorado Springs for a ranger to pick up in a truck loaded up for Rainbow Falls Park Valley, 10 miles north of Woodland Park, Colo.? We don't think so. Thank goodness Congress left it up to the governor of each state to say yes or no. Colorado has naturally been chosen because of its beautiful mountains, as Washington's number one choice. More job corps sites have been chosen for our beautiful state than any other in the nation. Please let Governor John Love, Capitol Building, Denver, know that we love Colorado, too.

OUT OF HAND

To the Editor:

Well, folks, we can't write our congressmen about this big raise they gave to themselves, can we? And the poor people that really did need something done never got a penny; disabled veterans, social security and medicine for people that can't afford a doctor, and when they do get a raise it's five per cent. What can they do with that? Don't the young people know that they should want to pay in social security? After all, we all did, and still will for a number of years to come and then the next generation pays ours while now we pay for their folks.

Well, they can't blame our President for anything. And if anyone votes for any of this congress they better have their heads examined. Things are really getting out of hand here in Colorado, and the people are letting this bunch that run us get away with it.

Do you know you can't quit your job and leave town to even draw your unemployment any more? Why? Because they don't want Colorado money to get out of their pockets and state. After all, one that quits his job in Colorado gives it to another and sometimes one wants to get out of here and go home but may have to draw unemployment for a month until he gets located.

Well, enough said, I am no letter writer. Chenoweth is terrible.

HAPPY VISIT

To the Editor:

Yesterday we enjoyed a visit to your Ghost Town. We are on our way to Springfield, Mo., where I hope to meet Mr. Hunt, editor of "Over the Ozarks." For the past eight or nine months he has been including my verses in the Springfield Daily News. I am taking this view of mine on Ghost Town to him.

We live in Middletown, Ohio, and have been most impressed with your wonderful country.

Our visit in Colorado Springs will always remain a delightful memory.

CONGRESSMAN

To the Editor:

I saw in the other paper this morning that our present congressman, Chenoweth, said he doesn't keep up with the national issues that are discussed in the Presidential race.

What kind of a congressman is he, anyway? Isn't he supposed to know what's going on in the world and the nation?

I have noticed his opponent, Frank Evans, talks about national issues as well as local questions.

Tyrants

By GEORGE BOARDMAN

I received a particularly interesting letter from a lady who almost objected to the fact that I refer to elected officials as tyrants. As she wrote, her disagreement vanished and she explained that tyranny does exist outside of government, and I agree.

There is the tyranny of the loud voice and another less obvious type — a sort of fearful thing which almost forces you to accept social ineptness because it is very quiet and you may not wish to hurt the feelings of the offender.

For a few years I worked for a man who continually bragged about the long hours he put in, but he had a couch in his office and a closed door policy which permitted him to take naps for 30 minutes or so several times every day, after which he emerged fresh and rested, wondering why anybody should ever be tired.

Then there's another sneaky little deal where a person gives you the impression they never take a vacation. They'll tell you the truth if you ask but, over a period of years, they give you the idea they stick right with their job 52 weeks out of every year.

Of course, the natural-born tyrant who continually attempts to use everybody for his best advantage is a tough customer to handle and when you encounter one of the people, just be mighty pleased if they're not mixed up with government in some way. You can do business with tyrants of this type by watching your step all the way, but don't ever bother explaining it to that adversary who wants to use you because his howls of innocence are mighty tiresome. Invariably, a person of this type has a very bad memory except when his memory can help his cause.

I've also known a few ladies who were first-class tyrants, using a variety of weapons and methods on husbands and everybody else with whom they come in contact and you can be happy when they do not go for a political career, also. After viewing the Hollywood scene for some 30 years, I decided that even the most alluring tyrant isn't worth it.

I've known tyrants who are heads of families, wondering why their kids avoid them when they can. They never miss an opportunity to start scolding or lecturing or otherwise attempting to impose their will upon the other members of the family.

There's a funny thing about tyrants, political, family or otherwise. They are usually extremely bright and could accomplish a great deal more, in fact, by not trying to use other people constantly, but the urge to hold power, to control others, is evidently a very real disease and not many tyrants ever get over their misfortune.

Of course, there is also the ulcer tyrant and he's usually a tough one to handle but I've just promised Dawn that I will never use the ulcer I have evidently acquired, to tyrannize her or anybody else. In fact, I will do my best to get rid of it.

I've also known a few heart patient tyrants — so have you: "Don't argue with your father, son, remember his bad heart" — and you can go with this for weeks on end and this is a little tough to handle when the tyrant has really been plagued by heart trouble, sometimes caused by his tyranny in the first place.

Yes, Ma'am, you are so right. There are a lot of tyrants but as long as they are not backed by the horrible force of government we have a chance to avoid the effects of their desire to hold power over others and that is why I don't usually mention the private enterprise type of tyrants.

Tyranny takes various forms. I knew a young lady who inevitably rushed from her bedroom half clad when her father had important guests. He finally gave up and sent her to the school in Hawaii she wanted to attend. I don't think the father would have voted for her performance even as the lesser of two evils but he'll probably vote for one tyrant or the other in the next election. Actually, tyranny is a rather interesting subject and I have a degree of sympathy for tyrants if they're not in government. Since they are in government, my sympathy is for me — I didn't elect them.

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

Allen-Scott Report

State Still Hounds Otepka

ROBERT ALLEN

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — Otto Otepka, veteran State Department security officer who incurred the ire of superiors for giving embarrassing information to congressional investigators, is again under surveillance.

The Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, headed by Senator James Eastland, D-Miss., has ascertained that Otepka's home phone is apparently tapped, and that he is being "tailed" by government agents. These covert activities are being closely checked by the Senate probers.

Meanwhile, the State Department's long-pending case against Otepka has again been left dangling in the air.

The hearing on the charges against him once more has been postponed — this time until November 17, several weeks after the election. There has been no public announcement of this latest delay.

Members of the Internal Security Subcommittee are indignant over this politically-motivated stalling and are considering making public more than 10,000 pages of secret testimony on security risks in the State Department, including Otepka's strenuous but much-hampered efforts to ferret them out.

This highly explosive testimony is under lock and key in the subcommittee's vault, and if Senator Thomas Dodd, D-Conn., has his way will stay there until after November 3.

Dodd opposes publication until after the election so Otepka's dynamite-loaded case does not become a thorny issue that the Republicans could use against the Johnson administration. Dodd has told other committeemen he favors releasing this testimony after the balloting.

MISSING RECORDS

One of the most sensational disclosures in the Senate committee's files is a list of 163 State Department security risks, 15 of them with the rank of ambassador or higher.

In digging into the records of these apparently unmolested security risks, the probers are looking into the recent State Department order to field security officers to get rid of "old investigative files." Information so far uncovered by the subcommittee strongly indicates much laxity or worse in the handling of the department's security records, as follows:

The central files in Washington are not only poorly guarded, but in a chaotic state, thus severely handicapping individual checks, particularly of those seeking employment in the department.

An inadequate classification system has resulted in the loss of considerable important information, and the offices in which the security files are kept are so overcrowded that much valuable material has been stored in warehouses where the protection is either weak or nonexistent.

In October 1960 three cubic feet of security records, containing over 300 portfolios on individuals and organizations, were "inadvertently" sent to the District of Columbia incinerator by a file clerk.

A number of important files, containing classified FBI reports, have been removed by unauthorized personnel and never returned. Some of these records were discovered in a trunk that a janitor had turned over to a storage company. Subsequently, the latter sold the trunk and its secret security records at a public auction.

The State Department's explanation for the directive to field security officers to dispose of "old investigative files" is that the central files in Washington are being reorganized for economy purposes. Under this reputed reorganization, the department proposes to keep all its subversive data.

Urban Renewal Again

By RUFUS L. PORTER

THE WINE OF LIFE

Life is a wine quite often divine,
But sometimes bitter as gall.
But drink it we must as we gnaw the crust
Of time that consumes us all.
So lift it up and savor the cup—
Then dash against the wall.

I need not reserve my judgment longer. After the announcement by the Western International Hotels Corporation of their plans for the Antlers Plaza, and after studying the pictures of the mock-up displayed in the Gazette Telegraph, I doff my hat to the new owners of the Antlers area and wish them every success.

I also take my hat off to Dick Moore for his very poetical discourse on the memories aroused by the crash of the falling Antlers building — a discourse that inspired the above poem (?).

There comes a time in the life of every building when it needs must be rehabilitated or razed. And that time had been reached by the Antlers Hotel. Now, to rehabilitate an old building at great expense, and in addition have an even greater expense forced upon them by an autocratic zoning commission, when the hotel had been operating in the red for several years, would have been folly on the part of the owners. To sell or to abandon were their only choices.

And it is far better to remove an old building that has been abandoned than to have it fall into a sad state of disrepair. It is better that the Antlers be razed now than to wait until the roof caves in and the walls fall out. Our cherished memories of the grand old edifice will remain untarnished by the sight of its slow dissolution.

As for the new buildings that are to rise where the Antlers once stood, they certainly look attractive enough on paper to "take the place of" the Antlers. There is no doubt that we will all be pointing to them with pride as soon as they are completed, even as we wipe away a tear for the dear departed Antlers.

If downtown Colorado Springs is dying, as some contend, we have plenty of evidence that it is going to take its good old time about it. Sure, many of the old buildings are dying — and few tears have been shed over most of them — but newer and finer buildings are rising in their places. Who can picture the old look of the downtown area of a quarter of a century ago and deny that the new look of today is an improvement?

Certainly, the old look was picturesque and homey, in a small town sort of way, and it suited well the mood of the city of those times, when tourists and health were the main industries and growth was frowned upon.

But it would not suit the mood of the new Colorado Springs that has blossomed since 1950. A hustling, bustling, growing city cannot remain static in its outlook or its image. The status quo is for the birds, or for sentimental humans who do not want to face the future.

Urban renewal, who needs it? Government-sponsored urban renewal, that is, which harms everybody and benefits a few political favorites. Colorado Springs is having her face lifted by private enterprise in the approved American fashion by men who hope to profit from their investment. This leads us to the conclusion that if a town or city deserves renewal, it will be furnished in the only manner consistent with good morals and a happy ending for all.

Much of the urban renewal that has been accomplished by the government has been wasted on blighted areas that will not respond to treatment, or on slum dwellers who soon make slums of the new buildings. In fact, many of the urban renewal projects completed by the government and its planners a few years ago are already being condemned and their "renewal" planned. This is getting to be a continuing thing that will cost us all our shirts if we allow it to follow its natural course, which is more and more of the same.

Speaking of the Antlers, who knows what happened to the row of huge century plants that used to sit on brick pedestals along the curb in front of the building? They had been there since the hotel was built, but they disappeared long ago.

Nuclear Giants And Ethical Infants

LEONARD E. READ

(The Freeman)

The inevitable consequence of governmental intervention in the market is imbalance. That is, when government deviates from its proper role of keeping the peace and involving a common justice, the result is shortages and surpluses. Merely as examples: presently, we are experiencing a wheat glut — by reason of support prices; France has a housing shortage —because of ceiling prices. Surpluses and shortages are phenomena of the rigged market, never of the free market. The free market always moves toward equilibrium — balance is its built-in tendency.

There is governmental intervention in the field of education. We should, therefore, be able to detect surpluses and shortages, that is, an imbalance in types of knowledge. There can never be a surplus of knowledge, but there can be — and is — a superfluity of technical know - how relative to general wisdom or understanding. My thesis is that government's intervention in education is, to a marked extent, the cause of a dangerous and grotesque imbalance between these two distinct types of knowledge. In any event, this is the issue here explored.

General of the Army, Omar Bradley, helps us to focus attention on the kind of imbalance here in question:

We have many men of science; too few men of God.

We have grasped the mystery of the atom and rejected the Sermon on the Mount.

The world has achieved brilliance without wisdom, power without conscience.

Ours is a world of nuclear giants and ethical infants.

We know more about war than we know about peace, more about killing than we know about living.

General Bradley's is an astute and, I believe, an important observation. This imbalance in types of knowledge flowing from our vaunted educational system is at once startling and ominous. For never in human history have a people spent as much time in classrooms as the present generation of Americans. Never as much money spent for education! Never a greater hue and cry for the expenditure of additional billions to finance more of the same! But, significantly, never so much grumbling about the educational results. Quite obviously, there is a common awareness that something is out of kilter, even though there is very little certainty as to what's at the root of it.

Is it not clear that our educational emphasis is more on accumulating know - how than on gaining wisdom or understanding? Our know - how in the fields of mathematics, physics, chemistry, and other sciences has made possible the hydrogen bomb, as well as the putting of monkeys and men into orbit, and sending TV sets to the moon. Observe the nature of quiz shows and the kudos we heap on masters of current events and the obeisance we pay to those who can recite the encyclopedia. We know how to make clothes out of sand, airplane wings from sea water, utensils from oil. If we don't make silk purses out of sow's ears, it is only because —well, who wants a silk purse? We have know - how galore, giving us enough power to destroy every living thing. Know - how is power, and we tend to worship power.

Important To Know Why As Well As To Know How

But where is the understanding to balance the know-how? A break - through in know-how appears to have edged wisdom off the driver's seat. For, are we not, as a nation, on the same reckless course that has brought about the fall of one civilization after another? Self-responsibility — amidst an abundance of know - how and a paucity of wisdom, understanding, conscience, ethics, insight — has given way to government responsibility for our security, welfare, and prosperity, reminiscent of the Roman Empire's later days. Unwisely, we increase the curbs on individual initiative. The theme that we can spend ourselves rich has, among "nuclear giants," switched from heresy to orthodoxy; inflation is dreaded and cursed by the very people who, in an utter lack of understanding, promote it. Feathering the nests of some at the expense of others has, in our know - how society, become the chief political preoccupation. Among the "well - educated," the number who think of rights to life, livelihood, liberty as deriving from the state, not the Creator, is growing, and integrity gives way to popular acclaim. The directive of one's behavior is less and less what conscience dictates as right and more and more what the gods of fame and fortune decree. A little knowledge may be dangerous, as the saying goes, but a rapidly expanding know-how, unless balanced by a commensurately expanding wisdom, assuredly spells disaster.

Perhaps we can better assess our present position by taking stock of our beginning. To illustrate: The Bible, filled with much understanding and wisdom — in a very real sense an educational launching pad for Western civilization —was compiled some eighteen to twenty-eight centuries ago. The writers had little of the know-how we possess. Perhaps they never dreamed of, let alone knew, the multiplication table. Of higher mathematics they were unaware. Zero wasn't invented until centuries after their time. There wasn't a B.A. or Ph.D. among them; indeed, could any Biblical writer have passed one of our eighth grade examinations? Know - how — as we use the term — was not their primary objective, but understanding principles was. They were men of insight and integrity.

To Practice Virtue

The first stage of wisdom requires that we understand the virtues and how to live them. Integrity, that is, fidelity to one's highest conscience, is foremost and basic. Next is humility — in the sense of freeing oneself from be - like-meness. These prime virtues, if understood and practiced, impart rare wisdom: a sensitive and acute realization that a human being is a man and not a demigod. Without this wisdom, man tends to behave as demigod. And therein I believe lies the key to educational imbalance.

No one has ever seen a demigod, except perhaps in the mirror. Thus, a demigod is an error of the psyche, nothing more. But this error must not be discounted; it is widespread and unbelievably powerful. To assess its pervasiveness, merely note the millions of individuals who actually believe that the rest of us would fare better were we a reflection of themselves. Each of these millions would have us live in the kind of housing he has in mind, work the hours he prescribes, receive the wages he thinks appropriate, exchange with whom he decrees and on terms he proposes, but, more particularly, he wants us to be educated as he thinks proper! Bear in mind, however, that not a single one of these millions is a demigod in the judgment of any other person than himself. Perhaps he may never think of himself in such egotistical terms; he merely performs as if he were a demigod: He would mold us in his own image! I repeat, this is an error of the psyche, nothing more.

My hypothesis: Our educational system, to a marked extent, stems from this error of the psyche. If this be demonstrable, then we can account for some of the faults we are finding with the system, the hassles over integration and segregation, prayers in schools, and so on. We will then perceive why we are putting such an emphasis on the acquisition of know - how to the neglect of understanding or wisdom: we will become aware of the corrective steps that must be taken if know - how is to be balanced with wisdom; and we will have the background for not thrusting ourselves further down a dead-end road.

Between You And Me

Let us begin an examination of this hypothesis by reducing the problem to manageable proportions: a consideration of only two individuals, you and me. While it is easily demonstrable that I know very little about me and you about yourself, I know more about myself than anyone else does, and I acknowledge that you know yourself better than I know you.

The most important admission to be made at the outset is that you and I are not alike. Our inheritances differ as do our environments. My aptitudes, faculties, potentialities, likes and dislikes, yearnings, inhibitions, ambitions, capabilities and inabilities to learn about this or that, are not at all like yours. As to our common ground, each of us has a moral obligation not to impair the life, livelihood, or liberty of others. Beyond this, we must resort to the broadest and more or less irrelevant generalities: we are Americans, we belong to the human species, and so on. We aren't as "two peas in a pod"; we are at variance in every particularity. We not only differ from each other, but we don't remain constant ourselves; each of us is in perpetual flux, changing in every respect daily, aging in some ways, growing in others.

In short, we must keep in mind that you and I are unique specimens of humanity; we are peculiarly distinctive; that is, each of us is an original, the first and only creation of its kind in cosmic experience; that nothing identical to either you or me is possible; that neither of us has ever been, is now, or ever will be, duplicated. You, as much as I, are a physical, mental, moral, perceptive, political, and spiritual entity — a singular entity —and any carbon copy is out of the question.

Before moving on to the next phase of this analysis, I must ask that you make an extravagant assumption in this you-and-me situation, namely, that I am as knowledgeable and as wise as the most powerful political leader in the nation. Otherwise, I run the risk of my hypothesis being disregarded by reason of my own acknowledged shortcomings.

A Voluntary Process

Let us now examine my possible educational relationships to you. At issue are two opposed roles that I might assume. The first and, to me, the proper role is to let you draw on such know-how and understanding as I may possess and as you may determine. Education is a seeking, probing, taking-from process and the initiative must rest with the seeker. As great as is my stake in your better education, I must concede that your progress depends on your desire to learn, that this inquisitiveness into the nature of things is a truly spiritual experience—the spirit of inquiry — that this is wholly volitional and that you are the sole possessor of your volitional stimuli. These, as related to you (or your children), are exclusively yours; they do not, they cannot, rest with me or any other person. Mine is, at best, only an exemplar's role: it is to improve myself to the utmost and thus to persuade solely by precept and example. If it turns out that I have something in store which in your view — not mine — may lift you (or your children) up another notch, then my self-interest is served by obliging you. Arranged in this pattern, the student selects his teachers.

If you — regardless of who you are — will confine your evaluations to the you-and-me situation, that is, if you will exclude any thought of anyone but the two of us, you will readily agree that my role, as above portrayed, is a proper one; it isn't possible for any rational person to conclude otherwise! In short, you would not have it any other way. And, further, I am quite certain that when you are at liberty to glean from me or any others as you may choose, you will obtain for yourself as balanced an educational diet as is possible for you. As with food for the flesh, so with sustenance for the intellect and the spirit: you will be led naturally to select those bits of know - how and wisdom from first this and then that person — a balancing of these two types of knowledge which will gratify those needs peculiar only to you among all mankind. You will gravitate in due course toward that balance of know-how and wisdom needed for the fulfillment distinctive to your own person. In other words, you will learn more of what you want to learn if you are free to choose what you want to learn than if you are not free to choose what you want to learn. This is self-evident; it needs no proof.

Authoritarian Approach

My second possible role is that of demigod — the currently in vogue and the role here in question. Not that I am a demigod — no one is — but let us assume that I pose and behave as one: I shall compel your (or your children's) classroom attendance, write your curriculum in accord with my notions of your needs and force it upon you and, lastly, I shall coercively extort the financial wherewithal from all and sundry to defray the costs of imposing my own peculiar brand of knowledge upon you. In short, I shall attempt, as would a demigod, to cast you in my image.

Bearing in mind our countless differences, what would you think of my program for making you (or your children) a carbon copy of me? Even conceding that I am as well-balanced in know-how and wisdom as our country's most powerful political leader?

In any event, is it not evident that the approach of the demigod — an error of the psyche — is antagonistic to the advancement of wisdom even though some chunks of know-how might be rammed into your reluctant head? Your and my creative peculiarities are so diverse that they cannot mesh; mine cannot be forcibly impressed upon yours without misshaping both yours and mine. It is somewhat analogous to taking a male die and a female die, each made of pliable, delicate material — but not matching — and pressing them together by an external pressure. The uniqueness of each would be destroyed.

Coercion Is Not Creative

Wisdom has its genesis in creative phenomena. Coercion, clearly, is not a creative force; it is, by definition, repressive and destructive. Physical force can no more be used to stimulate the spirit of inquiry or advance wisdom or expand consciousness or increase perception than it can be employed to improve prayer — and for precisely the same reason. Acquiring understanding or wisdom springs from the volitional faculty as does wishing or exercising judgment or contemplating or praying.

Let me repeat, there is not a single demigod on the face of the earth but, unfortunately, millions of human beings behave as if they were God; the you - should - believe - and-behave - as - I do variety is all about us; indeed, there may be but few persons who have completely shed themselves of this holier - than - thou trait. However, unless these persons go beyond the believing, behaving, talking, writing stage, their image - molding affliction does no more damage than an offensive TV ad: we can tune them out! Their misconception wreaks no more havoc than does other error, as long as their passive image - molding is not activated by coercion.

The you - and - me situation, as above portrayed, will evoke but little disagreement. But get set for a shock! For unless you are one of a very few — a fraction of one per cent — who has thought this problem through to a conclusion, what follows will tend to offend. While I shall do no more than to multiply myself in the role of image-molding - by - force several million times, the mere multiplication —nothing more — will give us a situation that coincides with long - established and generally approved American custom. To question "the establishment," in any instance, is to affront the mores, a risky business. However, we should never fear taking a hard look at any rut we may be in.

So, here it is: If it is evident that the forcible casting of you (or your children) in my image is wrong, let me suggest that government schooling, practiced here for well over a century, is precisely the same thing, except on the grand scale. Instead of your being cast in the mold of one who has the know-how and wisdom of our most powerful political leader, tens of millions are and have been cast in molds shaped from nondescript plebiscites, each mold being patterned after nothing better than the compromises produced by political committees; all molds shaped by collectives, no member of which has any more sense of responsibility toward any particular individual than does the collective itself. Self - responsibility is not the trait of a committee or collective.

Education And Force

Lest you get the idea that I have made some sort of a shift from the you-and-me arrangement to government schooling, let me hasten to add that the two are identical with respect to the compulsions involved:

1. Compulsory attendance
2. Government prescribed curricula
3. Forcible collection of the wherewithal to defray costs.

Were these three compulsions removed, schooling in the U.S.A would automatically be restored to, shall we say, free market schooling.

I readily concede that a great deal of first - rate education goes on in our government school systems; but I must insist that the first - rate production is in spite of, not because of, the coercive or governmental aspects. Untold millions of their day - to - day relationships, are on a voluntary, not a coercive basis; to a large extent the students are selecting their teachers. But wherever coercion insinuates itself into schooling, that is, the up-bringing process, be it government or private, an imbalance of know-how and wisdom will become evident. Wisdom will decrease, not increase, when the reliance is on duplication by force, wisdom cannot be grafted onto a carbon copy.

The Seen And The Unseen

While it is easy enough to see how wisdom suffers under schooling systems that feature coercion, it is difficult to understand why know - how thrives so well. Perhaps part of the explanation has to do with that which can be seen and that which cannot be seen — with the distinction between sight and insight. That which can be seen — the multiplication table, for example — can be and is "learned by heart" by those who are compelled to attend classes. Insight, however, the mother of wisdom, is of a different order and cannot be so induced. But — here's the rub— neither can invention (from which stems our enormous know - how) be so induced.

How, then, can coercion stimulate the know - how type of inventiveness? No one can be coerced to invent, for inventiveness belongs to the creative order. Nor is compulsory invention attempted. Instead, billions of dollars are forcibly collected from all of us — limiting our individual pursuits — and used to pay for government's know-how pursuits: science, war hardware, moon machinery, and so on. No government regime is capable of inducing wisdom and would not know what to do with it in any event. An expansion of know - how and the power it gives is what's politically attractive. Further, inventors are as creative if paid by coercively collected funds as if paid by voluntarily contributed funds. He who pays the fiddler calls the tune. Government calls for know - how and gets it. Compulsion — government intervention in the educational market — accounts, in no small measure, for the imbalance of know-how and wisdom.

The Result Is Conformity

Some, at this point, will counter with the argument that we have many private educational institutions and that the students from these are no more distinguished for wisdom than those graduated from government institutions. The point is conceded. But so - called private institutions in a statist society are not, in fact, strictly free market in character. Not only must they liken themselves markedly to "big brother" and devote much time teaching about the economics and philosophy of statist institutions, but they are licensed and regulated and increasingly financed by their statist "competition." So called private institutions differ from government institutions in that they are not financed exclusively by tax funds, and the government influence on them is exerted by privately as distinguished from governmentally appointed citizens. In most important respects the "private" and government institutions are strikingly alike today — a drab conformity. In a society where education is preponderantly statist and where so much of the nation's resources are converted to know - how pursuits, the situation could not be otherwise.

Where Did It All Begin?

Finally, it would seem appropriate to inquire how we in the U.S.A. got off on the wrong foot; how did we, in the first place, ever acquire an educational system that turns out graduates who acknowledge its many faults but who, instead of looking for something out of kilter, merely insist on remedy by expansion?

History reveals the original "reasoning" to have been somewhat as follows: America is to be a haven for free men. To accomplish this, we must have a people's, not a tyrant's government. However, such a democratic plan will never work unless the people are educated. But free citizens, left to their own resources, will not accomplish their intellectual upbringing. Therefore, "we" must educate "them"; compulsory attendance in school, government dictated curricula, forcible collection to defray the costs.

Of course, the early proponents of government education never put the case in these concise terms. Had they done so, they would have discovered, at the outset, how illogical they were. Imagine: We will insure freedom to "the people" by denying freedom to them in education, for if their education is entrusted to freedom they will remain uneducated and, thus, will not be able to enjoy the blessings of freedom! Illogical? How can we ever expect a people brought up on coercion to be free of demigod mentalities? Does a coercive educational system have the intellectual soil and climate where freedom and wisdom may flourish? The answers lie all about us.

Some of our forefathers did behave — indeed, even as you and I — like demigods, but "for the good of all," mind you! And in the name of doing good —occasionally erring as do we all — they hooked up coercion to the spirit of inquiry and got for themselves and their posterity a grotesque imbalance of know - how and wisdom. Assuredly, any light coercion produces is not in the form of wisdom.

The Key Is The Individual

Once on this coercive trek toward nuclear giants and ethical infants — toward know-how in everything and understanding in nothing — how do we back out of it? The steps are simple enough to designate, if not to take; but reaching our goal may take a bit of time. How long? Nothing less than the hours or days or years you and I and others need to recover from our demigod pose—nothing less than the time it takes to reject compulsion and to accept liberty in education. How, any rational person must ask, can a people be free or wise unless they are brought up in, steeped in, believe in, and understand that growth in wisdom presupposes freedom of the individual to pursue what is wise? As the present imbalance between know - how and wisdom has its genesis not with government but with the individuals who make government what it is, so a balancing of these two types of knowledge rests with individuals — with those who can see as imperative the practice of freedom in education.

A MORAL CHALLENGE TO U.N. AND U. S.

HENRY C. WOLFE

Author and Lecturer on International Affairs

A month before World War II, I traveled from the Soviet Union westward into Estonia. Crossing the border was like leaving a vast slum and entering a beautiful well - kept garden. Kingisepp, the Soviet frontier station, was dusty, poverty-stricken and repelling. On the Estonian side, Narva was lovely, clean and inviting. I had literally passed from one world into another.

Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania were the three sturdy little Baltic republics which won their independence in 1918 after the Tsarist empire collapsed. Each of the three was a member of the League of Nations. Each had long been inhabited by an ancient people with its own language, culture and folklore. None is related to the Slavs.

When Europe plunged into World War II, the Soviet Union took advantage of the confusion and moved into Estonia and Latvia. Later, Lithuania was also subjugated. The occupations of the three republics were among the most brutal in recorded history. Many people were summarily murdered; families were broken up and deported. Men, women and children were jammed into freight cars in the dead of winter and shipped off into the Soviet Union either to die of hunger, cold or suffocation on the trains or perish in the wastelands of the arctic or Siberia. Some fine people I knew in the Baltic states disappeared and have never been heard from since the Russians herded them into packed east-bound trains.

I knew all three nations from visits extending back as far as 1922. The Balts were hard-working thrifty men and women devoted to freedom and free enterprise. They were farmers, tradesmen, fishermen and industrial workers. They had their own universities, intellectuals and professional people. Estonia and Latvia were largely Lutheran, Lithuania mainly Roman Catholic.

Whereas there was unemployment and poverty in most European countries, the Baltic states were prosperous and had little, if any, unemployment. I never found a slum area in any of the three capitals: Tallinn, Riga and Kaunas. Indeed, Tallinn, with its red tile roofs and old towers and city walls looking down on the Gulf of Finland, seemed like the setting for a fairy tale.

Since the Balts are religious, freedom - loving people, proud of their ethnic and cultural heritage, they have never surrendered to Soviet imperialism. The Kremlin, in consequence, is following the cruel procedure of deporting Balts from their home communities and replacing them with Russians, carrying out, meanwhile, a genocidal policy.

While these crimes are being perpetrated, the United Nations is engaged in a campaign of extreme anti - colonialism in Africa. Granted the Africans' right to freedom, the hysterical so - called anti - colonialism of considerable segments of UN membership is responsible for great injustice, bloodshed and danger. Not unexpectedly, this UN extremism is exploited by the Russian and Chinese Reds.

Many of the alleged emergent nations in Africa are not nations in the true sense of the word. In too many cases, their borders enclose mere quarreling tribes made up of backward illiterate natives unable to support themselves. Frequently the wretched peoples are simply pawns of local power - hungry dictators.

Yet on the floor of the UN Assembly, where demands are pressed for immediate "Uhuru" (independence) for primitive African tribes, we hear no voice raised on behalf of the long-civilized Baltic nations.

To boot, we have the revolting spectacle of Khrushchev's Soviet Union, the world's most bloated colonial power, denouncing the "Western imperialists." That includes us, of course. Such blatant hypocrisy and cynicism threaten to destroy the moral foundations of the United Nations.

It is not only for the sake of the three Baltic states, but even more for the sake of the free world and the UN itself, that the Western powers should speak up. What happens to the three oppressed peoples is important to every human being who values decency and freedom. Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania present the United Nations and the United States with a moral challenge that cannot be evaded.

THE QUESTION REMAINS

(Industrial News Review)

The intimately related tax and spending problems grow more clouded.

A short time ago the powerful House Ways and Means Committee voted to increase social security payments and to increase social security taxes by 5 per cent to meet the bill. There are excellent arguments in favor of this move in view of the slow but steady rises in living costs that have characterized the "creeping inflation" of recent years. But, the pros and cons of that aside, this increased tax will go a long way toward offsetting the reduction in income taxes that went into effect this year.

We are facing an ancient truism — you can't have your cake and eat it too. And the government, despite the occasional lip service that is paid to the cause of economy, continues to operate on a "spend more, owe more" basis. The disastrous end result of this kind of policy has been seen the world around in the post World War I era. So, an old and increasingly important question remains to be answered: Will we learn from the tragic experience of others before our own economic sins catch up with us at home?

The spenders in Congress have just voted a heavy increase in their salaries although they have failed miserably to show any ability to balance national expense with national income.

Wit and Whimsy

A young boy, jingling two pennies in his pocket, walked up to a farmer and pointing to a tomato hanging lusciously from a vine, said,

Boy — I'd like to have that tomato. How much will you charge me for it?

Farmer — Five cents.

Boy (hopefully) — But I have only two cents.

Farmer — Well, you can have that one over there. (pointing to a small, immature specimen).

The boy plunked the two cents in the farmer's palm and said,

Boy — Okay, I'll buy that one and come back in a week for it.

Town Hall Opens Oct. 19 With Ray Middleton

The Junior League opens its Town Hall series Monday, Oct. 19, with Ray Middleton, star of the American musical theatre. The lecture will be held at 10:30 a.m. in the Fine Arts Center.

Middleton has appeared in such Broadway hits as "South Pacific," "Annie Get Your Gun," "George White Scandals," and "Roberta."

A graduate of the University of Illinois, Middleton studied at the Juilliard School of Music. He began his career in opera and concert work, but was lured to Broadway by Jerome Kern for "Roberta" in 1933.

Following a long run in New York, the show then took to the road, and after this tour ended, Middleton went to Hollywood where he starred in such movies as "Hurricane Smith," "The Lady from Louisiana," and "Girl From Alaska."

He has appeared on the Ed Sullivan Show on television and recently took part in some readings of the works of Shakespeare with the Helen Hayes Equity Group.

For his Town Hall appearance, Middleton will do a number of dramatic readings from America's literary classics, plus several original tales, and all interspersed with song favorites of today and yesterday.

Reservations are still available for the series. For further information, call Mrs. Charles F. Bennett, 632-4444.

Budding Jelly Entrepreneur Is 'Bugs' Over Entomology

By ANN TYNER BROOKS
Gazette Telegraph Staff Writer

Junior jelly merchant John Hetzler, age 9, 1843 W. Cheyenne Rd., is more interested in bugs.

Questions about his business (he makes Cheyenne Canon Wild Choke Cherry Ichigo) were soon overwhelmed with references to his tarantula.

We discovered, however, that he picked about 50 gal. of choke cherries this summer in his yard and in Cheyenne Canon. With his mother, Mrs. Lowell Hetzler, he made them into 15 gallons, 288 jars, he said, of jelly. Hetzler, who does his own bookkeeping, plans to continue in the chokecherry business as long as he can.

The jelly is sold at Wilson's Grocery and Market, 1st St. and Elm St., Broadmoor.

Hetzler said he is saving the money he makes from his project to go to college. He plans to become an entomologist.

At this point Hetzler, who had been licking a label for one of his jars, wondered if we would like to see his butterflies. He emerged with two large frames. Each butterfly, moth, ant or beetle was carefully mounted on a pin. He does all his own mounting, he said. He said his largest specimen, a moth, has a six-inch wingspread. He then pointed out the others, in order of declining size.

Between bugs, we managed to learn that his favorite subjects in the fifth grade at Canon Grade School are math and science.

Hetzler told us with pride that he and his collection appeared on local TV Wednesday. His collection, he said, was displayed at the Colorado Springs Public Library during September. He brought out a book of pressed butterflies, and showed us how one could see the blue on the wings of one, if the light was just right.

He also collects rocks, and excitedly showed us an uncut diamond.

As we left, we were urged to look at another acquisition, a black widow spider peering out from a coffee can.

Changes in City Building Code Being Studied

The Colorado Springs Contractors Board is reviewing the new edition of the Uniform Building Code and determining what changes will be recommended for City Council approval.

Perry C. Tyree, city superintendent of inspections, said the board is trying to determine what changes should be made "in order to meet the peculiarities of the region."

He said the board had four meetings on the 1964 Building Code Edition, which is published every three years, and that probably two additional meetings will have to be held. The 1961 version of the code is now the guide.

One recommendation being considered is the reduction of light and ventilation requirements in cellars from 10 per cent of floor area to five per cent.

Another recommendation, Tyree said, is "consideration of grading and excavation requirements, which is a new chapter in the new code book, and will control, in general, excavation, backfill and other allied requirements."

Still another new chapter being considered, he added, concerns glass and glazing in "hazardous" places like in showers, bottom of stairways and assemby occupancies.

In addition to its session on the 1964 edition of the Uniform Building Code, the board has been meeting at least twice monthly lately because of the building boom in Colorado Springs.

Tyree said that three times as many requests for new licenses for contractors have been considered by the board, plus many code interpretations and variances from present ordinances.

Colorado Judges To Gather Here For Conference

The University of Denver Training Center for the Control of Juvenile Delinquency will help update Colorado district judges on the latest concepts in juvenile delinquency matters at the Colorado Judicial Conference, here Tuesday and Wednesday.

The conference, sponsored by the Colorado Supreme Court, will focus on new district court jurisdiction effective in January, 1965.

Under Amendment No. 1 to the state constitution, pased in 1962, district courts will be responsible for all juvenile delinquency, probate and mental health cases which were formerly under the jurisdiction of the county courts.

"We hope to prepare these judges for their new jurisdiction by bringing in experts to brief them on current ideas in these fields," John F. Healy, judicial administrator with the Colorado Judicial Department, said.

The DU center, directed by John R. Ferguson, will provide a program Tuesday focusing on the sociological and psychological concepts of juvenile delinquency. Also under discussion will be the practical application of juveninle deliquencly jurisdiction in the courts.

Chief Justice Robert H. McWilliams of the Colorado Supreme Court, will introduce the all-day program at the Broadmoor Hotel.

Tom Adams, director of delinquency programs of the Western Interstate Commission on Higher Education, Boulder, will speak on "Juvenile Delinquency — Its Causes, Methods of Control and Rehabilitation."

"Juvenile Court Philosophy, Law and Practice: A Model for Modern Courts," will be discussed by Judge John Farr Larson of the State of Utah Third District Juvenile Court.

The practical operation of Colorado district courts in juvenile jurisdiction will be the topic of Judge Zita Weinshienk of the Denver Municipal Court.

The session will close with a discussion by Colorado district judges led by Judge Larson and Judge Weinshienk.

The DU Training Center for the Control of Juvenile Delinquency was established in 1963 under a grant from the President's Committee for Juvenile Delinquency and Youth Crime. The University of Denver was one of 12 colleges and universities in the nation to receive the support to set up a training project for a coordinated community and interagency approach to juvenile delinquency prevention.

The DU center will also cooperate with the Colorado Supreme Court in a similar conference for newly elected district judges in November.

World's Smallest Missile Now in Mass Production

Redeye, the world's smallest guided missile, is now being produced for the U. S. Army and Marine Corps by General Dynamics - Pomona.

The new weapon is designed to be carried into combat on a soldier's back and fired from his shoulder. Redeye attained its name from the infrared heat seeking device it employs to "home on the heat of an aircraft's engine.

The infrared sensor is mounted in the nose of the solid propelled missile, which is fin stabilized and aerodynamically controlled in flight.

Redeye's launcher, which outwardly resembles the bazooka of World War II and Korea, is about four feet in length, three inches in diameter and, including the missile, weighs about 28 pounds.

The missile will for the first time, give the individual infantryman effective anti-aircraft defense against low - flying enemy aircraft. Because it is readily transported and can be carried anywhere a soldier can take a rifle, Redeye is an ideal limited warfare weapon for areas such as Viet Nam.

Target detection and tracking are accomplished visually by the gunner. When the aircraft is within range of the missile and the infrared seeker has "locked on" the target, a simple squeeze of the trigger fires the missile.

Recent test firings have been highly successful and soldiers using Redeye after only brief training have scored direct hits on a variety of unmanned drone aircraft.

Delivery of production line missiles will be made to the U. S. Army Air Defense Board at Fort Bliss, Texas, where troop testing will be conducted when available. As is normal in all missile programs, development work is continuing at General Dynamics - Pomona.

Although the missile is electronically complex, it has been designed for simple, reliable operation in the field. It can be made ready to fire within seconds.

The missile, ready for issue in the battle area, will come encased in a fiberglass launcher equipped with carrying strap and sight that also will serve as a carrying case. In combat, the launcher will be discarded as soon as a missile is fired, although the launcher can be reused if desired.

Redeye will be employed under an all - arms concept. A Redeye team of two men will be organic to company - sized combat units. Training will start when sufficient production missiles permit. Troop training also will be conducted at Fort Bliss in a short but intensive course.

In addition to its solid propellant rocket and guidance system, Redeye will have a conventional high - explosive warhead. Due to the small size of the missile, the warhead itself is relatively small but flight tests have shown it can destroy the type targets which the system was designed to combat.

The majority of NATO Allies are also interested in eventual use of Redeye.

SHOULDER - FIRED REDEYE — The shoulder-fired Redeye will enable ground troops to retaliate against low-flying aircraft. The new surface-to-air guided missile is now in production for the U. S. Army and Marine Corps at General Dynamics / Pomona. Redeye's launcher tube houses a composite missile of solid-fuel propellant, infra-red guidance system and high-explosive warhead. Redeye is man-transportable, weighs about 28 pounds, and is nearly four feet in length and three inches in diameter.

Carson Will Show Billy Graham Film

"Mr. Texas" will be shown in Ft. Carson's Chapel at 7 p.m. today.

This Billy Graham film traces the title of Jim Taylor, "Mr. Texas," from the rodeo circuits of Southwest to big time speculations in cattle and oil.

These were his only concern until he came face to face with God.

This film has been called the world's first "Christian western," according to Chaplain (Lt. Col) James R. Barnett, division chaplain.

It will be presented again on Oct. 18 at 6:30 p.m. in Chapel 3 and at 7 p.m. Oct. 25 in Chapel 1.

Dependents and civilians are welcome to attend, says Chaplain Barnett.

Mrs. Goldwater to Be Honored Guest At Republican Women's Luncheon Here

The people of Colorado Springs will have a rare opportunity to meet one of the nations most prominent women when Margaret (Peggy) Goldwater, wife of the Senator, comes to this city Oct., 21.

Mrs. Goldwater will be guest of honor at a luncheon, open to the public, at 12:30 p.m. in the Broadmoor International Center, sponsored by area Republican women. Tickets may be obtained for $3 at Republican Headquarters, 10 S. Tejon St. This will be her only appearance in the city.

Stephen Shadegg, in his biography of Barry Goldwater, "Freedom is His Flight Plan" quotes Mrs. Goldwater as saying of her husband, "I've never had a dull moment or any kind of unhappiness which he caused. I think I'm one of the luckiest girls in the world."

Margaret Johnson, 20 years old and a student at Mt. Vernon Seminary in Washington, D. C., met Barry Goldwater while visiting Phoenix in 1930 with her parents and older brother.

When she returned to the East, Peggy finished the school year at Mt. Vernon and began studies at the Grand Central Art School in New York City. "She was a serious student with a particular interest in fabrics and designing," says Shadegg," and this led ultimately to a job with David Crystal organization."

"Before the end of the year her employers offered to promote her to designer."

"In the apparel business," says Shadegg, "the manufacturer risks his entire success on the cleverness of the designer, and Margaret must have had a real flare to earn the confidence of this outstanding quality house."

Her father, Ray Prescott Johnson, executive vice-president of Borg - Warner Corp., suffered a stroke and died in 1932, and it was decided that Margaret would close her New York apartment and rejoin the family.

Peggy did not return to New York. She opened a dress shop of her own in Muncie which was commercially successful. "A life of ease and luxury was open to her," writes Shadegg, "but the social world did not appeal to Margaret."

"The Johnsons were doers. From a financial standpoint there was no necessity for Peggy to work. But unproductive idleness was incompatible with family tradition.

"Peggy's dress shop was not a plaything subsidized by the family fortune," says the author, "It made money because its owner had talent and determination."

After a great deal of correspondence by letter and telephone and visits to Muncie, Barry and Peggy were married at Grace Episcopal Church in Muncie Sept. 22, 1934. Their first child Joanne was born in 1936. "I wanted a boy," Peggy told Shadegg, "Barry wanted a girl. This time he got his way. The Goldwaters have three other children: Barry, Jr., 26, Mike, 24, and Peggy, Jr., 20.

Author Shadegg quotes her as saying, "These years of Barry's being in politics have separated the family. I know he's doing what he must do. But at times I'm frightened."

"And she smiles," says Shadegg, "and quotes one of her husband's oft - repeated statements: 'We have to pay rent for the space we occupy, and Barry won't let the rent go unpaid.'"

Because of the demand for tickets, the luncheon will be held in the International Center instead of the Ballroom as planned. Tickets may be reserved by calling Mrs. John Hays, 634-1639; Mrs. Paul Borchert, 633-2808; or Mrs. Arnold Taylor, 633-2810.

The bidding:

Pass	Pass	Double	Pass

Opening lead: King of ♡

Today's hand is a part score contract of definite interest where a careless declarer went set looking for a favorable trump distribution instead of counting eight tricks and trying to take them.

West, holding 15 high card points, opened with one heart. East offered an unsound raise, but he decided to seize the only opportunity he was going to have to assert himself. North declined to quit and repeated his take-out double, whereupon South dutifully responded with two spades. It is true that a pass of the two heart double would have proven profitable, but such action could hardly be recommended.

The defense cashed three heart tricks winding up in the East hand and he shifted to the played ace, king and a small club, and the defense played another diamond. Since four tricks had been lost, South tried to hold his trump losses to one trick, leading to the ace and returning the ten which he ducked. This lost to the king and, since another trump trick had to be yielded, the contract was down.

Declarer could have taken his tricks, and run, in the following manner: After winning the king of diamonds, the ace is cashed and a diamond ruffed in the closed hand. Dummy is reentered with the ace of clubs and the last diamond ruffed in the closed hand. This is a relatively safe procedure. If East's play of the suit plus the fact that diamonds had not been bid makes it highly improbable that either defender has five of them. The king of clubs brings the total of tricks up to six, and the enemy is now given the ball with a low club. No matter who leads, there is no way to prevent declarer from making two trump tricks.

Day-Fossinger Ceremony Held in Ellicott Church

Miss Sharon Merlene Fossinger became the bride of Winfred Charles Day recently in the Ellicott Evangelical Church. The Rev. Paul Tapey officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Candelabra and flowers grown by the bride's grandmothers, decorated the altar and the church. Berton Jay Lamm and Vancel Fossinger were the candlelighters.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Murrill Fossinger of Ellicott, was escorted to the altar by her father.

Her gown was of imported lace over satin, with sequins on the bodice. She wore a strand of pearls and pearl earrings, which were a gift from the bridegroom. Her illusion veil was caught to a crown of pearl also worn by the bride's mother and grandmother when they were brides. She carried white carnations on a white Bible.

Karen Fossinger, maid of honor, wore a street length dress of pink nylon over taffeta, and carried a pink carnation bouquet. Melody Tapey, flower girl, was dressed in a pink crepe dress, with matching hair ribbons. She carried a pink basket of flowers.

James Day was his brother's best man. Richard and Jerry Day were the ushers.

Traditional wedding music was played by Mrs. James Day at the organ. She also accompanied Miss Bonnie Fossinger who sang "Because" and Miss Janet Fossinger who sang "The Lord's Prayer".

The guest book was kept by Miss Patty Day.

Mrs. Lawrence Rebel, Mrs. Dean Weaver, Mrs. Milton Lamm and Mrs. S. R. Stoudt assisted at the reception. Mrs. Weaver also baked the wedding cake.

The bride's mother wore a gold satin brocade sheath and the bridegroom's mother chose a light blue dress with silver metallic threads. Both wore corsages of pink carnations.

All four of the bride's grandparents were present. They are Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Stoudt of Ellicott and Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Fossinger of Tructon.

For the honeymoon the bride wore a brown corded suit with pink corsage and brown accessories.

The bride was escorted to the altar by Lt. Col. Kenneth R. Pearce. She wore a gown of Chantilly lace over satin fashioned with a fitted bodice and long tapering sleeves. Tiers of tulle and lace enhanced the front of the full skirt and a panel of lace detailed the back. Her fingertip veil of silk illusion cascaded from a crown of seed pearls and crystals. She carried white glamelias, white carnations and ivy on a white Bible.

Miss Joyce Clemens was maid of honor. Miss Becky Laughter was bridesmaid. Both wore pink gowns, matching headbands with short veils and pink shoes. Their cascade bouquets were of pink carnations.

Glen Richter served as best man. Denny Juranek was groomsman. Don Fuller and Rene Mundorff, who also was candlelighter, ushered.

A reception was held at the home of Joyce Leeman, the bridegroom's sister. Decorations were pink and white floral arrangements, candles and wedding bells. Miss Patti Gilbreth attended the guest book; Mrs. Mary Jo Bronstein, sister of the bridegroom, presided at the gift table assisted by Miss Nancy Pearce; Kay Smith cut the cake, and Pamela Bates served punch.

The bride's mother wore a two piece royal blue knit dress with an orchid corsage. The bridegroom's mother was unable to attend.

Following a wedding trip o Denver, Glenwood Springs and Aspen, the couple will make their home in Albuquerque, N.M The bride selected a two piece grey wool knit dress and a pink carnation corsage for her going away outfit.

IMPORTANCE OF VITAMIN A
By GAYNOR MADDOX

Q—I read that one of the major lacks in the average American diet is vitamin A. Just is vitamin A and where do we get it?

A—Vitamin A is essential for growth, vision and healthy skin. One of the best sources of it is a yellow pigment, called carotene, found in carrots and squash. Carotene is found as well in green leafy vegetables where its yellow color is masked by a large concentration of the green pigment, chlorophyl. Milk, butter, cheese, ice cream and margarine also contain some vitamin A.

Q—Should I thaw frozen fish before cooking?

A—Not necessarily. Just allow a few extra minutes of cooking time, advise food specialists of the U.S. Department of Agriculture and Interior. However, when fish are to be either breaded, fried, or stuffed, you'll find it more convenient to thaw them first to make handling easier. Thaw frozen fish in the refrigerator in their original wrappings. Cook thawed fish immediately for best quality. Be sure you don't overcook it. Cook fish just until it flakes easily with a fork.

Davis-Ganatta Ceremony Held at USN Center

North Chapel, Naval Training Center, San Diego, Calif., was the setting for the recent wedding of Miss Velma Jolene Ganatta and Joseph C. Davis. Chaplain Stolzenboch officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Coulter of Fountain and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charlton Davis, also of Fountain.

Baskets of flowers and candelabra formed the background for the ceremony. Mrs. Reupprecht, organist, played the traditional wedding march and the "Lord's Prayer."

The bride's uncle, Harry Huff of Huntington Beach, gave his niece in marriage. She was attired in a floor length gown of white shell lace over taffeta. The fitted bodice had long sleeves which came to points over the hands, and a sweetheart neckline outlined with scallops of lace and seed pearls. Her bouquet was of white carnations centered with white gardenias, carried on a white Bible. She wore a teardrop pearl necklace which was a gift from the groom.

Mrs. Darlene Frazer was matron of honor. She was dressed in an aqua ballerina length dress and her flowers were carnations.

George H. Frazer was the best man. The bridegroom and his attendant wore white dinner jackets with yellow carnation boutonnieres. Danny Ashley was usher.

The mother of the bride wore a two piece off-white brocaded dress with white accessories. Her corsage was of gardenias.

Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Frazer. The three tier wedding cake was decorated in yellow and white and was topped by a bride and bridegroom figurine.

Mrs. Danny Ashley poured the punch, Mrs. George Frazer cut the cake, and Mrs. Harry Huff, aunt of the bride, assisted in serving. Mrs. Duane Huff, cousin of the bride, presided at the guest book.

The bride attended school at Fountain. The bridegroom is now serving in the U.S. Navy. They are making their home at 241 "G" Street, Apt. E, Chula Vista, Calif.

Ham leftover from that weekend roast? You might like to team it with diced oranges and celery for a salad. Serve with French dressing or mayonnaise and, of course, salad greens.

MR. AND MRS. DENNIS LEE WILSON

D. J. Heffernan to Address Theta Sigma Phi Chapter

Methods of obtaining and handling various phases of publicity will be discussed by David J. Heffernan, Public Information Director of the United States Air Force Academy when he speaks before members of Theta Sigma Phi, national organization for women in journalism and communications at their October meeting at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the home of Mrs. A. G. Kearns, 635 N. 30th St. Miss Donna Logan will assist the hostess.

Mrs. Loy Holman, president of Theta Sigma Phi in the Pikes Peak Area, is eager to have all members of the organization in the region attend this meeting and to join in activities of the group. Those wishing to attend are asked to call the hostess at 634-7033 by noon Tuesday.

It was voted at the last meeting to have regular meetings on the second Wednesday of each month, and hostesses and assisting hostesses were designated for each meeting of the year. Hostesses will select their own programs. Also it was decided to eliminate telephoning all members preceding each meeting, and members were asked to watch for announcements, in local newspapers the Sunday preceeding each meeting date.

Theta Sigma Phi members selected as their project last year giving a series of talks on various phases of journalism before the journalism class at Palmer High School. In order to give students some idea of what they would encounter in the professional field, talks were given on: Interesting People One Meets as a Reporter; Society; General Assignments; Court House Reporting; Feature Writing; Writing for Children; and Essential Preparations for Publishing a Book.

Miss Logan was asked to contact the journalism department at Wasson High School to see if they were interested in a similar project. If they are, Theta Sigma Phi members again will appear before the class to present informative talks.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Ladies:

For those of you who make your own contour sheets, may I suggest that you contour only "one" end of the sheet?

Reason?

This may sound lazy or too economical but it really isn't, and I'll tell you why: If only one end of the sheet is fitted, it may be used for either a top or bottom sheet.

Put the fitted end of the sheet over the head of the mattress, draw the sheet down tightly to the foot of the bed and tuck it in securely.

Remember, most of our weight is naturally at the top and middle of the sheet. The weight of our feet is much less so the sheet is not as likely to be worked loose at the foot of the bed.

This is also a laundry - saver for those who like to change sheets twice a week . . . just remove the bottom sheet, reverse the top sheet and use it as a bottom sheet.

Also, by alternating these sheets, one time as a top sheet, next time as a bottom sheet, the wear will be distributed more evenly.

Something else . . . since only one end of the sheet is fitted, it's twice as easy to fold, eh?

Those of you who buy ready-made sheets can purchase top-fitted sheets and use them for both top and bottom.

I make my own sheets and I have tried this method. It works, gal. — Heloise

Now we have a really delightful tray for serving our guests. —Anne Nymann

Dear Heloise:

Before doing my weekly cleaning with the vacuum cleaner, I like to spray my favorite room deodorizer into the exhaust of the vacuum sweeper.

By the time I am through vacuuming, the pleasant fragrance has been spread all through my house. — Lois Neugrand

Dear Heloise:

If you have a single sink and your dishpan covers the drain when you are washing dishes, preventing the water from escaping . . . set a cake rack under the dishpan.

The water drains out beautifull. — Pat Hildebrand

Dear Heloise:

For ivy and philodendron ing up planter sticks . . .

I make an extension for the stick by straightening out the hook end of a wire coathanger. Then after wetting the planter stick thoroughly, I push the hanger into the planter stick.

The other end of the coat hanger can be bent into any desired shape . . . long and narrow, triangle, square, etc.

My ivy is now growing up the hanger and looks ever so pretty. — Mrs. Davey Stephens

Dear Heloise:

You know the adhesive tape over the hole of cleanser cans, and how those tapes stick to you or a wastebasket?

Why not put the tape right on the bottom of the can when you pull it off the top??? — Mrs. Charles L. Long

Why not indeed? Guess this takes care of that sticky situation, doesn't it?? And wasn't that a letter of "truth?" — Heloise

Dear Heloise:

For those who are no longer wearing bouffant hairdos, put to use the lacy, frilly sleeping caps as pajama containers.

I use my cap as a throw pillow on top of the bedspread by day, with night clothes tucked in to puff it up. — Helene Townsend

Beef Brisket Is Popular

Brisket is popular among men folk because it's very tasty and tender, too, when cooked slowly.

Brisket may be purchased fresh or corned. The latter process deepens the color so the brisket of corned beef is a bright pink when cooked. Fresh brisket is braised or cooked in water while corned brisket (corned beef) is cooked in water. If there are leftovers, it's wonderful for sandwiches.

Tasty Snack

Cook smoked sausage links by broiling, panbroiling, panfrying or in a small amount of water. Cut links into 1-inch pieces. Place on wooden picks with stuffed olives and pickled onions.

If your youngsters enjoy peanuts, you might like to add half a cup of the chopped roasted nuts to a sweet muffin mixture based on two cups of flour.

Notre Dame Defense Too Much for Falcons

By LOY HOLMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Editor

The legendary Four Horsemen from Notre Dame's past have been reincarnated as bullish "horses" on defense and they came back Saturday afternoon to haunt the battling but under - manned Falcons of the Air Force Academy with a 34-7 victory before an over-capacity crowd in the AFA's Falcon Stadium.

The visiting Fighting Irish, showing tremendous physical strength which has boosted them to No. 1 in the country in rushing defense, used this asset to turn what had been a close game into a rout in the fourth and final quarter of play before a stadium record gathering of 44,384 including some 20,000 Notre Dame partisans.

Coach Ara Parseghian's Irish continued to hold fast with a giant defensive line, limiting the Air Force runners to but 37 yards. In beating the Air Force, Wisconsin and Purdue, Notre Dame has allowed only a total of 67 yards for an average of little over 20 per game.

But it was the pass defense—previously the only route the Falcons were able to use effectively—that finally broke the game wide open for the visitors. Three interceptions of quarterback Tim Murphy's passes turned into touchdowns.

The key play of the game, however, was a touchdown pass from Notre Dame quarterback John Huarte to end Phil Sheridan in the third period which was allowed despite an obvious infraction by the ND line. Set back to the AFA 20 on a great defensive effort by Falcon end Joe O'Gorman and a penalty after getting as far as the seven for a first down, Huarte set his team for a third down play.

But as they lined up, the Notre Dame left guard appeared to jump before the sanp. The Air Force defensive unit let up momentarily, but the play was allowed with Sheridan taking a swing pass on the left sideline and working his into the end zone through a relaxed AFA defense.

At the time, it was a crucial decision — or lack of same — as ot gave Norte Dame a 21-7 lead and forced the Air Force to go to a desperate, dangerous offense in effort to try and catch up. As a result, two passes were stolen in the fourth period and each were returned to inside the AFA 10 for easy scoring opportunities.

As it turned out, the Falcons took the early lead on still another interception with defensive halfback Jeff Jarvis picking off a Huarte aerial at the 24 and returning it into the end zone. Notre Dame tied the game before the end of the first period on a 46 - yard breakaway run by halfback Nick Eddy, and Huarte gave the Irish a 14-7 bulge at halftime going over from the one after a drive of 62 yards.

Besides Huarte's pass to Sheridan, other scores by the winners came on a second TD run by Huarte of one yard and a nine-yard pass to Jack Snow, both following the late interceptions.

The questionable play on the third touchdown was the key to opening up the scoring for the Irish, although the magnificent Norte Dame line left no question as to the control of the all - important scrimmage line. Not only did they stop the Falcons cold in running but also swarmed over Murphy in the latter part of the game when he tried to pass his team out of deep field position.

Still, although the odds were long, the Air Force definitely had a chance to stay in with the fifth ranked Irish until their third TD. They had been picking the Notre Dame secondary defense apart with spot passes to the flat area, and very possibly could have come back to score again. But this forced Murphy to switch from the short passes and go for the "bomb" in an effort to catch the Irish on the scoreboard — and, of course, this was how the alert ND defense snatched off the last two interceptions that both set up scores.

It was just before this that the Air Force defenders had stopped the Irish for a second time when they were threatening. The first came in the second period when they held for four downs at the 21, and then in the third quarter they held Notre Dame after gaining to the AFA 8, as a fine defensive play by end John Puster forced Eddy to fumble and the swift Cadet pounced on the ball at the 26.

Other than the first period score in the intercept, the closest Air Force could get to the goal line was at the Irish 29 in the first quarter. This came on two long passes by Murphy, a 34 - yarder to end Fritz Greenlee and 14-yarder to Jim Greth, that carried them from their 27 for 43 yards. But that threat died for lack of a first down.

In the second period the AFA got barely past midfield once, and in the third quarter only to their own 40 as the burly Irish defenders turned back everything the Falcons had to offer.

In all, the winners piled up 340 yards in total offense to 160 by the Falcons, and the hard-running Notre Dame backs rambled for 218 yards to but 37 for the AFA. Murphy's 11 for 21 passing was about the only thing keeping the Cadets alive. Huarte hit on 7 for 15 attempts in the air for 93 yards, with Snow catching five. That brought Snow's receiving total for the year to 20.

The Air Force moved well against the Fighting Irish in the opening series after the kickoff, but finally stalled out just past mid - field and Ken Jaggers punted out of bounds at the six. On the third play by the Irish, Jarvis came between the ball and Snow and he ran the intercept 24 yards into the end zone. Bart Holaday added the point.

Notre Dame also has to punt after the kickoff, reaching their own 40, but this time the Falcons were unable to march out of their own end of the field. A short series brought the Irish to the AF 46, and then Eddy, a 195 - pound sophomore from Tracy, Calif., slipped off a tackle at the line of scrimmage on a counter play, sped to the left sideline and out - ran the Air Force secondary to the goal flag. Ken Ivan's PAT knotted the score at 7-7.

The Falcons held early in the second period when Notre Dame drive to near their 20, but the visitors came firing right back down field and moved 62 yards in 13 plays for their only sustained drive of the game. Two passes, 18 yards to Snow and 14 yards to Sheridan, were key plays in the series. Huarte slammed over right end on a keeper from the one after the AFA had drawn the first penalty of the game, a one - yarder of half the distance to the goal.

Murphy again started shooting passes and worked his team past mid - field as time was running out in the half. And from the ND 45, they ran the same type pattern that scored against Colorado State U. last week with Greth far behind the safetyman, but the pass was too hard and over-thrown.

Notre Dame established a firm grip on control of the line, starting with the third pediod, and went from their own 36 after the kickoff return to the AFA 8, getting three consecutive first downs on runs right through the middle of the Cadet line. But Puster's fumble recovery ended the threat, at least temporarily.

Murphy again went to the air however, and a shot over the center was picked off by Notre Dame's Tom Kostelnik at the 48 and returned to the 37. They rammed into the AF 7, but appeared stalled out on a loss to the 15 by O'Gorman's fine tackle of Eddy and a penalty set the Irish back to the 20. Then came the controversial TD pass to Sheridan, with the left guard obviously off - sides just before the snap.

Desperation long passes by Murphy in the fourth period with the first falling into the arms of defender Tony Carey, who caught it at the 48 and returned the ball to the 8. In four plays the Irish were in, with Huarte going the last yard on a sneak over right guard.

And then from his own 13, Murphy winged one to the 33 and it was gathered in by Nick Rassas who returned it to the AF 8. On the second try, Huarte spotted Snow behind the defense in the end zone and the big 6-2, 215-pound speedy split end reached up and caught it easily for the final score.

There was a little pushing between players on the field in the final minutes of action, but not enough to mar this first meeting beween the two schools in football.

Next week the Falcons will remain at home for a third straight Saturday, playing host to University of Missouri which defeated Kansas State 7-0 this weekend.

Disputed TD Play by Fightin' Irish Protested on the Field by Air Force

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writ

"That was a lot of football team," a resigned Ben Martin sighed in the dressing room Saturday, immediatelly following the Air Force Academy's 34-7 defeat by Notre Dame before a record crowd at Falcon Stadium.

"We just couldn't do anything out there this afternoon," the Falcon coach said. "They simply neutralized us with their muscle."

"We had a few things going for us the first half," Martin said. "But after halftime — nothing. It's a real frustrating feeling not to be able to do anything."

The AFA coach explained that the pressure exerted by the Notre Dame forward wall was staggering. "We didn't really block them," he said. "We just delayed them. At times it was just like they took our whole line and pushed it back in Murphy's (Jim) lap."

Defensively, Martin revealed that the Air Force staff had hoped that the heralded Irish passing combination of John Huarte and Jack Snow was a little less than publicized. "We were thinking that maybe Huarte to Snow wasn't what it was supposed to be," he said. "But it was. That Snow is really a fine one. He just got open and the ball was there."

However, the Falcon coach hastened to add that he felt the Air Force major defensive failing was an inability to pressure the Notre Dame quarterback. Huarte had ample time to allow his receivers to maneuver themselves open most of the afternoon.

A good deal of the post game conversation in the locker room concerned a disputed call (or, more appropriately, a lack of one) in the third period that led to the Irish' third touchdown. With the ball at the Falcons' 20, a Notre Dame lineman moved forward and then retraced his step. When the play unfolded, Huarte threw to end Phil Sheridan on the east sidelines and the latter carried it in.

The Falcons heatedly protested the lack of a penalty call on the play at the time and from the sidelines it did appear that there may have been a momentary letdown in the Air Force defense as a result of an anticipated flag.

There's no sense in complaining about that now," Martin said in retrospect. "But at the time it might have meant something."

In the Notre Dame dressing room, head coach Ara Parseghian also discussed the play. "Our man did go forward, and then came back," Parseghian said. "Whether he was set for the full count or not, I don't know. But there was no contact made."

Parseghian praised the Falcons as "a real aggressive football team, full of spirit. We knew they'd be a 60 minute team," he said. "I told the boys they would be a lot like us. They're an all male school too and they have the kind of spirit I like to think we have."

Complimented on the excellent play of his Irish, the Notre Dame coach said, "We think we have a team that'll play 60 minutes of football, too. I was a little concerned at halftime today, though. I thought the boys might be getting tired."

Parseghian credited his defense with "doing the job" Saturday. "The interceptions wi t"They broke the game open."

Parseghian went on to say that Notre Dame had a very critical situation in the third quarter when the Irish fumbled away the ball after having driven to the AFA four yard line. "That fumble was real critical at the time," he said. "If we didn't score on the play, we were going a relaively easy position to kick and that would have made the score 17-7. They'd have to get two touchdowns then."

The Notre Dame coach had praise for both of the quarterbacks Saturday. "I'm impressed with Murphy," he said. "He gets rid of the ball fast. That's the mark of a good quarterback."

And of his own star signal-caller — "Huarte's very similar. He gets rid of the ball quickly too."

Following the two quick touchdowns early in the fourth period which put the contest out of reach, the immense crowd, which had been rippling with excitement earlier when the Falcons took a brief 7-0 lead, began to filter out of the stadium. There was a noted disappointment in the air, but it was tempered by resignation to the fact that on this afternoon the Air Force had simply met too much football team.

As Martin explained in a typically terse description of the events of Saturday, "We were just overpowered."

Cowboys Stop Buffs' Late Surge, 14-10

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — Oklahoma State drove 63 yards for a touchdown early in the fourth quarter, then stopped a frantic Colorado threat which reached to Cowboy nine-yard line to take a 14-10 Big Eight Conference football victory Saturday.

Colorado's late surge came after Glenn Baxter's 20-yard punt set up the Buffaloes on their own 43-yard line. Colorado drove for a first down on the Oklahoma State 13 and quarterback Bernie McCall picked up four yards to the nine.

But Oklahoma State's defensive line met the challenge and dumped the Buffaloes back to the 20 where the Cowboys took over three plays later.

Oklahoma State's winning drive came after Colorado kicked off following its go-ahead touchdown in the third quarter. Baxter's 26-yard pass to Lynn Chadwick and his eight-yard pickup on a fake field goal attempt were the big plays in the march.

Fullback Walt Garrison plunged over from the one-yard line for the touchdown on a fourth down play.

Missouri Topples K-State

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Missouri scored early and held off stubborn Kansas State to get its first Big Eight football victory 7-0 in a hard hitting offensive battle Saturday.

K-State dominated the rest of the first half after the Missouri touchdown. Missouri turned back three scoring threats and kept the Wildcats well in check in the last half.

It was Kansas State's first conference defeat. Missouri now stands 1-1 in the conference and 2-2 for all games while Kansas State has won one in the league and is 1-2 for the season.

Doug Weaver, Kansas State coach, is a former assistant to Missouri Coach Dan Devine. Both coaches played it close to the vest. Gary Lane, Missouri quarterback, threw only one pass and completed it for seven yards. K-State completed only two passes.

Kansas State's Doug Dusenbury, the nation's leading punter, fumbled a fourth down pass from center in the first period. His hurried, low punt was blocked and Missouri took over at the K-State 33, scoring in nine plays.

Miami Nips Kent State

OXFORD, Ohio (AP) — Quarterback Ernie Kellermann scored one touchdown and passed 36 yards for another Saturday to lead Miami University to a 17-14 victory over Kent State, its third straight in Mid-American conference football.

Western Tumbles A-State

GUNNISON, Colo. (AP) — Quarterback Jim Novak flipped two scoring passes Saturday as unbeaten Western State pleased a home-coming crowd with a 20 to 14 victory over Adams State.

The contest in sporadic rain left the Mountaineers with a 2-0 record in the Rocky Mountain Conference and Adams State's Indians at 0-1.

The Indians scored first and last, moving for 288 yards in total offense to Western's 283. But Western struck strongly in the second half as Jerry Carpenter, 160-pound Canon City transfer from Northeastern Junior College, scored twice.

Carpenter grabbed an 8-yard pass from Jim Novak and a 10-yarder from Chuck Stuart.

Tulsa Gridders Storm Past Houston, 31-23

By ED STAATS

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Jerry Rhome, the Tulsa Hurricanes' one-man storm, scored one touchdown and engineered three others to defeat the University of Houston, 31-23, in a football game Saturday night.

Rhome led Tulsa from a 15-15 halftime tie to a 31-15 lead which Houston eventually narrowed to eight points in the last quarter.

Quarterback Rhome, a senior from Dallas, hit 13 of 25 passes for 209 yards as he continually found his favorite target, end Howard Twilley.

On the third play of the game Houston took a quick lead when Dick Post took the handoff and went 55 yards to score.

Tulsa's first scoring opportunity came when Post fumbled and Eddie Dukes recovered on the Houston 46. Eight plays later Rhome plunged over from one yard out and Tulsa led 7-6.

IRISH MASCOT—Bouncing about in front of the huge Notre Dame cheering section at Saturday's game in Falcon Stadium was a student dressed as an Irish leprechaun. He seemed to have brought luck to the Fighting Irish as they buried the Air Force under three second half touchdowns for a 34-7 victory in the two schools' first meeting on the gridiron. Shown behind the school's mascot are some of the nearly 20,000 who made the trip here from the South Bend, Ind., and Chicago area to cheer for the Irish.

Palmer, Colts Battle To Scoreless Tie

By MORRIS FRASER
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

PUEBLO — Ol' Dad Time sometimes is fickle about which football team he likes. After spending 47 minutes and 50 seconds making up his mind Friday night, he finally lighted on Palmer's bench and it earned the Terrors a scoreless tie with Pueblo South.

South and Palmer battled all night fruitlessly, with scoring drives rare as a white Model T. Then with 21 seconds to go, the Colts took possession of the ball on the Terror 32. Fullback Verle Davison hurled two passes to end Mike Rosales, only to see both efforts slip out of the flanker's chilled hands. Then Davison switched targets with 10 seconds on the clock, hitting halfback Ron Lawlis inside the five. Lawlis fell to the ground with the ball less than two feet from the end zone as the gun sounded.

Those three plays were the most thrilling seconds of an otherwise stodgy game, with the only penetration before the final quarter being South's first-quarter exploit which ended on the Terror 16.

The turf in Public School Stadium was green on the edges and brown as Farmer Brown's cow in the middle and both teams played as if "Keep Off the Grass" signs rimmed the sidelines. Neither posed serious threats to scoring until the last minute.

The first half lacked punch, although both sets of defense performed creditably. Palmer had only one first down and South had two at the intermission. The Terrors had 48 yards rushing and the Colts managed 102 in the first two quarters, most of South's being the 57 yards picked up by Davison.

South's defense was able to contain the potent Palmer ground game to 98 yards, and stole 11 more yards from the total yardage as Larry Williams tossed Palmer's only complete pass to Dean Ledger for minus yardage.

Palmer's rushing defense still maintained some semblance of its normal self, gaining kudos for its work in stopping the speedy Colt backfield. Except for a 35-yard breakaway by Davison, the South offense was stalled with ease.

The longest drive either squad mustered was an 11-play, 34-yard push by South over the third and fourth quarters. Palmer's longest sustained carry was in the fourth quarter, when the Terrors marched from their 24 to their 47 in seven plays.

Palmer punter Claude Spears had a busy night as he lofted seven punts for an average of 33.9 yards. One boot sailed on a line 55 yards into the South end zone.

Palmer goes after its first win in the South Central League (the Terrors have one loss) Saturday as Pueblo Central hits town.

Syracuse Downs Unbeaten UCLA

By HERBERT G. PELKEY

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Syracuse's defensive spiders spun a web of frustration over UCLA Saturday and big Jim Nance powered his way to two touchdowns to give the Orange a 39-0 football victory over the previously unbeaten but outclassed Bruins.

Syracuse dominated the play throughout the cold, snowy afternoon, holding the Bruins to a minus four yards on the ground and only 45 yards through the air.

Nance, who accounted for half of the Orange's 296 yards rushing, tallied on an 18-yard burst in the third period and a two-yard plunge in the final quarter.

The longest run of the day was turned in by sophomore sensation Floyd Little. He returned a punt 90 yards for a touchdown in the second period, the longest punt return in Syracuse history.

The Bruins' Larry Zeno, who entered the game as the nation's total offense leader, was completely throttled by the Syracuse defense. Zeno, rushed on virtually every play, lost 15 yards on the ground and was able to complete only two of 10 passes. Two of his tosses were intercepted.

An alert Syracuse defense accounted for two of the Orange touchdowns. inebacker Murray Johnson picked off a Zeno pass early in the third quarter and raced 35 yards for a touchdown. Charley Brown scored on a 54-yard interception in the fourth period.

Virginia Tech Dumps G W

BLACKSBURG, Va. (AP) — Virginia Tech, on the run in its first three games, opened defense of its Southern Conference championship Saturday with a solid 33-0 victory over George Washington flavored with the unexpected return of injured star Bob Schweickert.

Schweickert, entering midway in the first period, stiffened the dull-starting Gobblers and guided them to the first of five touchdowns. Sharing the long gains with fullback Sonny Utz, he ran 22 yards for the opening score and passed for another before the half.

Georgia Stops Clemson, 19-7

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) —Georgia's Bulldogs used a strong running game to build up an early lead and then turned the game over to an aggressive defense to stop Clemson's Tigers 19-7 in an intersectional football game Saturday.

Purdue Defeats Wisconsin

By DALE BURGESS

LAFAYETTE, Ind. AP — Purdue mixed sharp passing, hard running and a sticky pass defense Saturday for an unexpectedly easy 28-7 footbal victory over Wisconsin in the Big Ten Opener for both teams.

Godon Teter, 180 - pound junior halfback, rammed over two touchdowns on short runs, young quarterback Bob Griese passed seven yards to Bob Hadrick for another and guard Bill Howard wrapped it up on a 23-yard dash with an intercepted pass.

Wisconsin got its only touchdown on the prettiest play of the game, a 24-yard pass from left-hander Harold Brandt to end James Jones.

Griese kicked four extra points for the Boilermakers and Jesse Kaye one for the Badgers.

Purdue grabbed three Wisconsin passes in the last quarter as the Badgers realized they had no chance on the ground against the massive Boilermaker defense platoon.

Mantle's Homer Gives Yanks 2-1 Win

Jim Bouton Beams Over Mick's Homer

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Jim Bouton threw his arms around Mickey Mantle in the New York Yankee dressing room and yelled:

"Oh, he belted that ball good."

Mantle had just led off the last of the ninth inning with a first swing homer off St. Louis reliever Barney Schultz that gave the Yankees a 2-1 victory Saturday and a 2-1 edge in the World Series.

A happy Bouton beamed.

"I've got a little boy going to be a year Oct. 26. His name is Michael George. The first thing I'm going to do is change his name to Mickey."

Mantle said he hit one of Schultz' patented knuckleballs.

"But it wasn't a good one, I don't think. It didn't seem to break all the way," he said as he fingered a baseball.

Mantle said just before he went up to bat, Manager Yogi Berra walked over to the runway leading to the Yankee dressing room and said:

"I'll just stand here to get a head start."

He didn't have to wait long.

"I had to hit that," said Mantle. "I had the horns."

Up to that point, Mantle had figured as one of the goats of the game, making an error on Tim McCarver's fifth inning single that led to the St. Louis run.

Bouton, who allowed only that unearned run in the fifth, said he had walked back into the dugout after snuffing out a Cardinal threat in the ninth and said:

"C'mon boys I don't want to go out there again." I had a feeling Mickey might hit one. But you always get the feeling he can put one out of there anytime. That one was way out there.

"That guy has got to be the greatest ball player that ever lived."

Bouton, who last pitched Sunday, said, "I was surprised I did as well as I did considering the long layoffs. But I never thought of the possibility of coming out."

Berra said if Curt Flood had collected a hit in the top of the ninth — which would have driven in at least one St. Louis run — Bouton would have been relieved by either Steve Hamilton or Pet Mikkelsen.

Berra said Al Downing, who had relieved in the first game and was tabbed the Yankees' No. 1 reliever for the Series, was not in the bullpen because he would have to start Sunday's fourth game.

Whitey Ford, the loser in the opener, was scheduled to pitch, but Berra said, "Ford's heel is bothering him. He warmed up today and it hurt him."

Ford injured his right heel in a play at first base about three weeks ago.

While Mantle, Bouton and Berra were the main centers of attention in the noisy clubhouse, Joe Pepitone still managed to attract a crowd. Pepitone had hit the dirt once and was driven back twice on close pitches thrown by Cardinal starter Curt Simmons.

"I didn't know how I got out of the way of the first one," said Pepitone. "It was right at my head."

Pepitone said he had said some words to Simmons when the pitcher singled in the fifth inning.

"When he got down to first, I said, 'You're pitching me a little close aren't you'," Pepitone related.

Simmons' answer, according to Pepitone, was:

"I'm not throwing at you, I'm just trpiny to keep it tight."

ROUND TRIPPER DOES JOB FOR YANKEES—Yankee third base coach Frank Crosetti congratulates Mickey Mantle as the latter rounds third en route home on lead-off ninth inning homer to give the Yankees a 2-1 victory over the Cardinals in the third world series game. Walking away to the dugout is Cardinals third baseman Ken Boyer. It was Mantle's 16th series homer and broke the previous mark of 15 held by Babe Ruth. (AP Wirephoto)

New York Takes Series Lead Over Cards Via Mickey's Record Blast

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Mickey Mantle's record-breaking 16th World Series home run on reliever Barney Schult' first pitch in the ninth inning, a tremendous blow off the upper deck in right field, gave the New York Yankees a 2-1 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals Saturday and a 2-1 edge in the Series.

Jim Bouton left nine Cardinals stranded on the bases while he matched pitch for pitch with Curt Simmons in a fine battle until Mantle ripped into the first ball dished up by Schultz, the 38-year-old knuckleball artist.

It was a typical Yankee crash finish to a bitterly-fought third game as Mantle smashed Babe Ruth's home run record with one swing of his bat.

Mantle, his legs taped tightly against further injury, had been batting right-handed against Simmons, a lefty. But he switched to the left side when Manager Johnny Keane of the Cards brought in Schultz to start the ninth.

Keane had lifted Simmons for a pinch hitter in the top of the ninth after Phil Linz' error on Tim McCarver's hopper and Mike Shannon's sacrafice brought the potential tie-breaking run to second base. Carl Warwick batted for Dal Maxvill and walked, so Keane sent up Bob Skinner to swing for Simmons.

The best Skinner could manage was a high fly to Roger Maris in center and Curt Flood left both men on base with his fly to Mantle in right.

The chilled throng of 67,101 at Yankee Stadium roared in anticipation as Mantle came out to lead off the Yankee ninth. He had walked once and doubled in the sixth.

The Mick tore into the first thing that Schultz threw and the ball drilled its way to a crash landing against the facade of the upper deck in right, well over 400 feet away.

Ruth hit 15 home runs in 41 games, distributed over 10 Series. This was Mantle's 12th Series and 61st game. It is doubtful if any he ever hit gave him more satisfaction than this blow that put the Yanks in the driver's seat against the Cards.

Al Downing, 13-8, will pitch for the Yanks Sunday against Ray Sadecki, 20-11, the young lefty who beat Whitey Ford 9-5 in the opener Wednesday in St. Louis.

Ford, the Yankee ace lefty and pitching coach, was scheduled to pitch the fourth game but reported that an injured heel was bothering him, and Yankee Manager Yogi Berra went to Downing.

It was a heart-breaking defeat for the Cards, who threatened four times in addition to scoring a run in the fifth inning with the help of Mantle's error on McCarver's single.

McCarver got to second when Mantle let the ball get through him, took third on Dal Maxvill's infield out and scored on a base hit by Simmons, a blow that Clete Boyer got a glove on but couldn't hold over third base.

St. Louis had a man on third in the sixth, seventh and ninth but never could get him home. With the bases full in the sixth, Shannon hit into a force play.

With Maxvill on third and one out in the seventh, Bouton got Curt Flood to fly out and made Lou Brock ground out. In the ninth there were men on first and third with two out when Flood again flied out to Mantle.

The Yankees' other run, in the second, resulted from a single by Elston Howard, a walk to Joe Pepitone and Clete Boyer's double to the left field corner.

Simmons knocked down Pepitone, the central figure in a controversial hit batsman in St. Louis Thursday, with his first pitch and finally walked him. The walk put Howard in position to score on Boyer's double.

Mantle received a wild reception as he rounded the bases and charged into the Yankee dugout. Berra was one of the first to greet him.

"Yogi grabbed me in the runway before the inning started," said Mantle. "He told me 'You'd better go up there and hit a home run.' After that what else could I do?"

Mantle said he hit a knuckler that didn't break. Schultz confirmed this in the Cardinal clubhouse.

Bouton mixed a change-up pitch and a sharp curve with his blasting fast-ball as he kept pitching himself in and out of trouble throughout the chill, cloudy afternoon.

The 25-year-old right-hander threw with wild abandon, losing his cap regularly as he stumbled off the mound toward the first baseside after almost every fast-ball. At one stretch he lost the cap five times in a row while throwing to Flood in the third.

Bouton used 123 pitches and Simmons threw 111 in his eight-inning stretch. It was the first Series win for Bouton, beaten 1-0 last year by Los Angeles' Don Drysdale in the third game of the Dodgers' four-game sweep.

Dejected Schultz Mourns Fatal Knee-High Pitch

By TOM PENDERGAST
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Quiet, dejected Barney Schultz sat alone in the St. Louis Cardinals' dressing room after Saturday's 2-1 World Series victory by the New York Yankees.

He was sitting facing the wall as teammates faced the other way, talked to reporters. A towel was around his neck and his head was bowed.

"Just think," he mumbled to no one in particular. "You throw just one ball—and it's gone."

He was referring to the knuckleball he hurled knee-high to Mickey Mantle in the last of the ninth. The switch hitting Mantle, batting left-handed against the right-handed Schultz, parked the ball high in the third tier in right field to win the game for New York.

"That ball I threw was right down the well," Schultz said. "It was knee-high and across the plate. It didn't break."

"The Yanks have an advantage whenever Schultz goes in," said Cardinal Manager Johnny Keane. "They know he relies mainly on the knuckler and a fast ball—so there's not much suspense.

"Still, Barney's one of the best. I'll still go with him in a pinch. After all, only one home run was hit off him all the time he played in the regular season. The Yanks have hit two off him in the series, but he's still a good pitcher."

Curt Simmons, the Card left-hander who was replaced by Schultz in the ninth with the score tied 1-1, said he felt good about his pitching during the game.

"It was a tough break for Barney," said Simmons. "He's a fine pitcher. After all, he's delivered countless times this year—and he certainly helped bring us the pennant."

Keane said he litfed Simmons for pinch-hitter Bob Skinner in the Cards' ninth with two on "because we had to make an offensive move. After all, Skinner's long fly to deep right center would have been over the pavilion roof in Busch Stadium back in St. Louis."

Skinner's fly advanced Tim McCarver from second to third, but with two out, Curt Flood flied to right.

Asked if Schultz' knuckler to Mantle had anything on it, Keane managed a grin.

"Yes, I guess it did—when it came off Mantle's bat.

Duke's Aerials Tumbles Maryland

By PHIL CORNER

Durham, N.C. (AP) — Duke's Blue Devils turned a fumble and an intercepted pass Saturday into two second half touchdowns and a 24-17 victory over Maryland in an Atlantic Coast Conference football game.

Fullback Mike Curtis, whose one yard plunge late in the second quarter tied the score at 10-10, saved the game for Duke with a key interception in the fourth period.

He snatched a Maryland pass on his nine and raced to the Terp 31. Two plays later quarterback Scotty Glacken hit end Chuck Drulis for a touchdown from the 21 to put Duke ahead 24-10.

AUBURN, Ala. (AP) — Jimmy Sidle, trying to pull Auburn from behind despite the pain of a pulled shoulder muscle, tore the other shoulder loose Saturday, but the Tigers went on without him to defeat Chattanooga 33-12.

Oregon State Upsets Huskies

By MATT KRAMER

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Oregon State's hard-charging defense set up a touchdown and a field goal, and then blunted every Washington threat for a 9-7 upset in the Pacific Athletic Conference Saturday.

It was the third loss of the season for Washington, which had been rated as a possible Rose Bowl team earlier.

The victory was the third of the season for Oregon State and pushed the Beavers into position as a Rose Bowl contender. It was the first conference game for the Beavers, newly admitted to the loop.

A pass interception by Dan Espalin gave Oregon State the ball on the Washington 39 early in the first period and Oregon State pushed over from there.

After Washington drove 66 yards to take a 7-6 lead, Oregon State used another interception to set up a field goal.

Taking the ball on the Washington 19, Oregon State drove to the one. Stopped there, Oregon State drove back minutes later for a 23-yard field goal by Steve Clark which proved to be the winning margin.

Tennessee Pulls Squeaker Over BC

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Sophomore quarterback Art Faliffa rallied Tennessee for a 16-14 come-from-behind victory over Boston College Saturday in an intersectional football game.

Galiffa, a 173-pounder from Donora, Pa., picked up a faltering Tennessee that had made only one first down in the first half and drove it 63 yards after the third quarter kickoff for the game-tying touchdown.

Galiffa completed five passes in a row in the march, the payoff being a two-yard to halfback Hal Wantland for the six-pointer. Fred Martin converted.

The victory gave Tennessee a 3-1 record and Boston College now is 1-2.

Martin kicked a 25-yard fourth period field goal which proved to be Tennessee's margin of victory.

Midway in the last stanza, Tennessee linebacker Tom Fisher intercepted quarterback Ed Foley's pass on the BC 22 and dashed in for what proved to be the game-winning TD.

The game was in doubt until the final whistle as Foley riddled Tennessee's secondary with passes. The junior field general from Woburn, Mass., completed 16 of 33 passes for 222 yards.

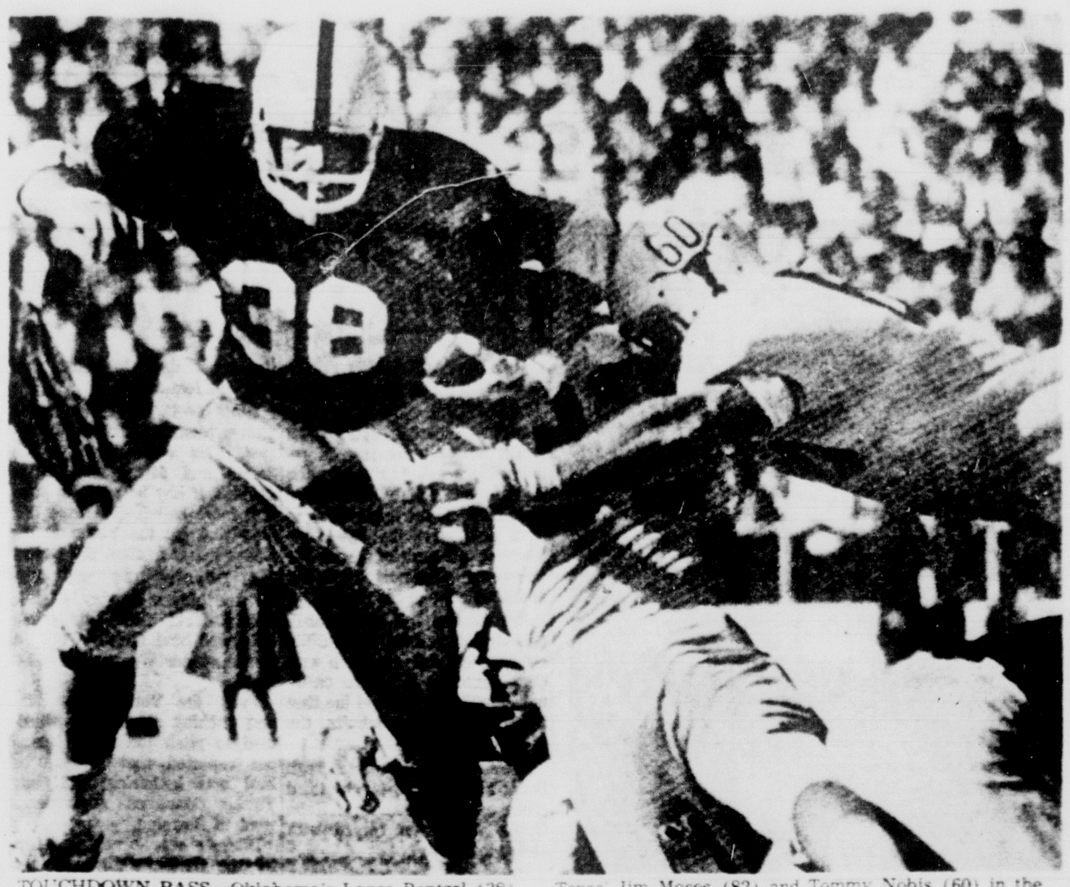
He put the Eagles ahead with a 17-yard TD toss to end Jim Whaley in the second period.

Iowa Rolls To 21-20 Win Over Indiana

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. AP — Iowa rolled to a seemingly comfortable lead on Gary Snook's passes and a pair of Indiana fumbles and then stood off the Hoosiers' furious comeback for a 21-20 victory.

It was the unbeaten Hawkeyes' opening game of the Big Ten football campaign and a bitter third straight conference loss for Indiana.

Indiana, down 21-6 going into the fourth period, fought back two touchdowns and gambled on two-point conversions, making the first but missing by inches on the crucial go-ahead try.



TOUCHDOWN PASS—Oklahoma's Lance Rentzel (38) receives this pass from quarterback John Hammond and scampered for a touchdown and was tackled by Texas' Jim Moses (82) and Tommy Nobis (60) in the first quarter of play Saturday in Dallas. (AP Wirephoto)

Top Ranked Texas Maintains Win Streak; Dumps Oklahoma 28-7

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

DALLAS (AP) — Texas, the nation's No. 1 team, used two fumbles and an intercepted pass to get three touchdowns, then drove 60 yards under the power of Harold Phillipp for another Saturday to smash Oklahoma 28-7 and roll on undefeated and untied through 15 games.

For a half the jittery Sooners gave Texas one of the roughest afternoons in the history of this 64-year-old intersectional game, taking 59 yard in the first period after twice repulsing Texas drives to the shadow of their goal posts.

Carl McAdams intercepted a pass to set up the Oklahoma touchdown, running from the 22 to the 15. Lance Rentzel and Jim Grisham hammered to the two and Rentzel then circled end for the touchdown.

But Texas tied it up early in the second period when Olen Underwood recovered a fumble on the Oklahoma 44. Phil Harris' 23-yard run was the big punch, placing the ball on the Sooner 10. Marv Kristynik executed a graet fake and handed off to Ernie Koy, who ran untouched to the score.

Texas shot into the lead in the third period when linebacker Timmy Doerr intercepted John Hammond's pass and scatted to the Oklahoma 23. Philipp raced to the 14 and after a five-yard penalty set, Texas back, rammed to the 15. Harris took a pitchout and raced to a touchdown.

The Longhorns nailed it down earlyin the fourth period with a 60-yard march featuring the running of Philipp, who whipped up 30 yards down to the five. Phillip gouged out one and Hix Green crashed to the four. Philipp then smashed over.

Kansas Gridders Trounce Iowa State

By JACK DONOVAN

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Coach Jack Mitchell, hanged in effigy by Kansas students last week, received an overwhelming vote of confidence from his team Saturday in a 42-6 trouncing of Iowa State.

Fullback Ron Oelschlager, playing his first game of the year after being injured in preseason practice, ran 73 yards for a touchdown the first time he carried the ball and started Kansas to a 28-0 first quarter lead.

Mike Johnson, Sandy Buda and Gale Sayers added other first period touchdowns. Sayers ran 43 yards for his score, passed seven yards to George Hornung for a second quarter touchdown, and returned a punt 73 yards to set up a third period score.

Quarterback Tim Van Galder, who broke a collarbone before the season started, also participated in his first game and passed Iowa State to a second quarter touchdown.

Van Galder's 33-yard pass to Tony Baker was the big gainer in a 72-yard march climaxed by Tom Vaughn's one-yard smash for the score.

Ohio State Pulls Suprise By Downing Illinois, 26-0

By JOE MOOSHIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Ohio State, employing a versatile attack which included tackle eligible pass plays, reverses and a strong passing game, crushed second-ranked Illinois 26-0 Saturday to take undisputed hold of the Big Ten football lead.

A stunned capacity homecoming crowd of 71,227 saw Buckeye Coach Woody Hayes, often criticized for his unimiaginative offense, pull out all stops and keep intact his record of never having lost to Illinois.

Not since 1950 has Illinois defeated Ohio State here.

Twice the Buckeyes pulled back their end to make tackle Jim Davidson eligible for passes — and twice Davidson responded with catches for 17 and 20 yards from quarterback Don Unverferth.

Ohio State showed little respect for Illinois' great pair of linebackers — Dick Butkus and Ron Hansen — as the Buckeyes turned to calling power plays for pounding through effectively.

Sander scored two touchdowns, plunging across from the one in the second period, and carrying five times in succession in the third quarter to move the ball from the Illinois 20 into the end zone, his final smash covering four yards for a touchdown.

Unferverth started the scoring when necessary with fullback Willard Sander, 215-pound junior for the fourth-ranked Bucks when he rolled out 24 yards for a touchdown in Ohio State's first scrimmage play. The scoring play was set up when the Bucks' John Fill returned a pass interception 48 yards in the first period.

Stanford Tops Rice, 34-8

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Stanford's ball-hawking Indians turned five second-half pass interceptions into scores Saturday, shocking favored Rice 34-8.

Linebacker Jack Chapple broke a 7-7 deadlock when he grabbed a Walt McReynolds pass and rambled 37 yards to score.

Four more interceptions followed in rapid succession.

Braden Beck booted a 20-yard field goal six plays after Jack Lodato intercepted a Ronnie Waldo pass at Stanford's 15 and returned to the 47.

John Wilbur, on a tackle eligible pass, took Terry DeSylvia's 10-yard throw for a touchdown three plays after Guy Rounsaville intercepted a Waldo pass at the Rice 27 and returned to the 15.

Next, defensive end Rounsaville grabbed a McReynolds pass at the Rice 22 and raced in to score the fourth touchdown against the Southwest Conference team which hadn't had its goal line crossed in two prior games.

Finally, Beck booted a 31-yard field goal six plays after reserve Roger Clay grabbed a McReynolds pass at the Rice 28.

Cornell Bombs Penn, 33-0

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — Marty Sponaugle, a Pennsylvanian, led four Cornell touchdown drives Saturday as the Big Red Smashed out a 33-0 Ivy League victory over Pennsylvania in their 71st football meeting.

It was the first time Penn and Cornell ever had played here after 70 years when their annual game was a late-season fixture in Philadelphia.

The Big Red also gained an unprecedented fourth straight victory over Penn and gained its first triumph of the season after a loss and a tie in non-league games. Penn now has lost two in the Ivy League after its season-opening victory over Lehigh.

Sponaugle, a junior quarterback whose home is Lancaster, Pa., led Cornell on scoring drives of 48, 59, 58 and 21 yards in the second and third quarters.

He scored the first touchdown on a 23-yard run and passed nine yards to Gabe Durishin for the second. Bill Abel, Sponaugle's sophomore substitute, led a fourth-period, scoring drive.

Penn was held in check by Cornell's sturdy defensive platoon, which yielded only 81 yards on the ground and 85 on passes.

Vanderbilt Slips Past Wake Forest

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Dick Lemay, a junior tackle from Columbia, Tenn. kicked three field goals Saturday night to give Vanderbilt a 9-6 football victory over Wake Forest.

The drab, chilly contest turned into a fourth quarter thriller which saw the deamon Deacons explode for a touchdown when it appeared the Commodores had it won with two field goals.

Lemay put Vanderbilt ahead with field goals of 45 and 39 yards in the second and fourth periods, but the Atlantic Coast Conference team broke loose for the tying points on a 75 yard drive in four plays. Eddie McKinney missed the conversion, his first failure in ten tries this season, as he did three earlier attempts for a field goal.

With less than a minute left, Lemay booted his third field goal from the 16-yard line when a Vanderbilt drive was stopped.

It was the first victory of the season for the Commodores, who still have not scored a touchdown in four games.

SPORTS FANS!

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

By Bob Foss

What was the greatest college football team in history... Well, take a look at the record of Army of 1944 and 1945 ... In those two years, Army—led by the legendary Doc Blanchard and Glenn Davis—won 18 straight games without a loss or a tie, and they AVERAGED 50 points a game for those two seasons while holding their opponents to an average of only four points a game! ... No other major team ever dominated their opponents like that before or since.

Did you ever wonder who was the smallest man ever to play big-time pro football? ... That honor goes to Buddy Young who was a star runner in the 1940s and 1950s ... Buddy was only 5-4!... But he was a regular for six years in the rough, tough National Football League.

• • •

Did you know that a touchdown in football was not always worth 6 points? ... Back at the turn of the century, a TD counted for only five ... Touchdowns weren't worth six points till 1912.

Arkansas Sails Past Baylor

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Quarterback Fred Marshall galloped decisively around the ends and Arkansas raced with him to a 17-6 Southwest Conference football triumph over Baylor before 41,000 fans Saturday night.

The senior from Memphis, Tenn., spiralled outside Baylor's line for 117 yards rushing and 10 pass attempts in Arkansas' fourth straight victory.

Marshall directed the Razorback attack to a quick first quarter touchdown and drove Arkansas inside the Baylor 10-yard line six other times. The Baylor defense, aided by penalties, threw back four of those efforts.

The Bears managed one lightning touchdown and were busy with defense most of the rest of the way.

The Razorbacks marched 72 yards in 17 plays after the opening kickoff and tailback Jackie Brasuell scored from the one. Baylor rallied to score in two minutes on a 14-yard pass from quarterback Terry Southall to Lawrence Elkins, but the conversion failed and Arkansas was in command the rest of the way.

Tom McKnelly kicked a 32-yard field goal for the Hogs in the third period. Marshall scored the last touchdown from the one at the end of a short 15-yard drive set up by Ken Hatfield's 39-yard punt return.

Air Force Harriers Top Irish

A strong Air Force cross-country team surprised Notre Dame here this morning, as the Falcon harriers dumped the touted Irish, 23-36.

Falcon ace Jim Murphy, a 21-year old junior from Chicago, Ill., captured first place in the four-mile race, in the time of 21:16, edging the Irish leader, Bill Clark who was clocked in 21:36.

The Cadets' over-all balance gave them the win, as Bob Foley and Kirk Hall combined to give the Cadets a 3-4 finish and the winning margin.

For the Air Force, it was their fifth win of the season against one loss.

Falcon Soccer Team Wins

The Air Force Academy notched its second soccer win of the season here, Saturday, as the Falcons downed St. Benedicts College, 5-1.

The win gave the Cadets two wins against a loss and a tie. Their privious win came over the University of California, and the tie against San Jose State. The only Air Force soccer loss this season was a 4-2 setback at the hands of defending national champions, St. Louis University in the season opener.

Miss State Nips Tulane

STARKVILLE, Miss. (AP) — Halfback Marcus Rhoden sprinted for two second quarter touchdowns Friday to give Mississippi State a 17-6 Southeastern Conference win over Tulane.

Rhoden went across from the two after a break gave MSU the ball on Tulane's 18. Minutes later he sped 77 yards on a sweep, outrunning the Tulane defenders to ice the victory.

State went ahead 3-0 on a 27-yard field goal by Justine Canale early in the second quarter.

Yale Rally Nets Victory Over Brown

By LOU BLACK

NEW HAVEN (AP) — Yale scored two touchdowns in the final period, one of them on a 45-yard sprint by Chuck Mercein, to come from behind and defeat Brown 15-7 Saturday in an Ivy League football tussle.

Until the Bulldogs suddenly came alive, Brown had held a 7-0 lead on Jim Dunda's 14-yard end run with 23 seconds left to play in the opening quarter.

The Bruins, led by Dunda, appeared to be on the way to their second straight victory over Yale when the Elis began their fourth-period attack.

Taking the ball on its own seven-yard line, Yale ran and passed for 93 yards in seven plays climaxed by Mercein's scoring run.

Tony Grant passed to Bunky Carter for the two-point conversion that put the Blue ahead 8-7.

Less than four minutes later, Dan O'Grady intercepted a Dunda pass and raced 37 yards to Brown's 15. Two plays later, Jim Groninger went wide around his left end for the score. Mercein kicked the extra point.

LSU Dumps N.C.

By BEN THOMAS
Associated Press Sports Writer

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Louisiana State, after playing 159 minutes and 59 seconds this season without crossing an opponent's goal line, broke the ice with a five yard run by sophomore Gawaine DiBetta Saturday night and went on to defeat North Carolina 20-3 before 68,000 fans.

The starting quarterbacks — LSU's Pat Screen and N.C.'s Denny Talbott — were injured in the first half and sent to the dressing room. But Screen came back just before intermission to spark the Tigers to their third straight victory in the 1964 campaign.

Highlighting the struggle was bruising line play by LSU's Ruffin Rdrigue and Remi Prudhomme and the Tar Heels' Chris Hamburger and Joe Fatangelo.

LSU had defeated Texas A&M and Rice, but it's only touchdown in the two games had come on a blocked punt, although the Tiger offense — using a pro-type pattern installed this season by Coach Charlie McClendon — had rolled up nearly 600 yards on the ground and in the air.

After DiBetta's third period tally, the Tigers found getting into the enemy's end zone much easier. A few minutes later Screen flicked an 18-yard touchdown pass to flanker back Doug Moreau.

Oregon Defeats Idaho, 14-8

MOSCOW, Idaho (AP) — Quarterback Bob Berry and the Oregon Ducks dazzled Idaho for one quarter, then held on grimly for a 14-8 football victory here Saturday.

Idaho was outplayed completely during most of the first half as Berry completed passes almost at will

Gophers Slip Past Aroused Wildcat Eleven, 21-18

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Minnesota held off Northwestern, rallying behind reserve quarterback Dave Milam in the fourth quarter, and clung to a 21-18 victory over the Wildcats on the strength of Mike Reid's three extra point kicks.

Northwestern had two conversion passes go incomplete on its first two touchdowns and missed a kick attempt on its final score.

The Wildcats had two late chances but couldn't get out of their own territory.

Tom Myers, who sprained an ankle late in the first half and only came in to punt in the second half, passed on a fake punt with 4½ minutes to go but it was batted down.

Then the Cats had an aerial by Milam intercepted by Willie Costanza with 1:50 remaining to blunt their last threat.

The Gophers boomed ahead 21-12 early in the fourth quarter when John Hankinson ran a two-yard sneak to cap a 76-yard drive. But Northwestern bounced right back to streak 76 yards, with Milam's 48-yard pass to Cas Banaszek setting up a touchdown.

Milam took over for Meyers and got Northwestern a touchdown on a 38-yard pass to Dick Smith with 10 seconds left in the first half. That trimmed the Gophers' halftime margin to 14-6 after Minnesota had counted on short runs by Reid and Hankinson.

Hankinson's long psaess, 66 yards to Kent Kramer, and 38 yards to Bill Crockett, set those Gopher scores up.

Milam cut the gap to 14-12 midway of the third quarter on a 26-yard pass to Smith.

Olympic Record Falls

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

TOKYO (AP) — Powerful Gary Ilman, a 21-year-old student from San Jose, Calif., became the first record breaker of the Tokyo Olympic Games and Patsy Willard of Mesa, Ariz., surprised by building up a commanding lead in women's springboard diving Sunday.

Ilman, a 6-foot-2, 195-pounder, rushed to a 54 second flat clocking in the first heat of the men's 100 meter freestyle and led a general American advance into the semifinals.

His time was 1.2 seconds below the old record, set in Rome in 1960 by John Devitt of Australia.

Minutes later Mike Austin, a Yale student from Rochester, N.Y., captured the second heat and Don Schollander, Lake Oswego, Ore., the third American in the event, won his heat.

Both Austin and Schollander also were under the old Olympic record, Schollander in 54.3 and Austin in 54.9.

"That's just what I wanted," Austin said. "Of course Ilman's time was faster, but the most important thing is getting all three Americans in the semifinals."

They made it, and with ease, and led the expected American domination of the swimming competition held before a packed house of 15,000 in the new swimming stadium.

But while the swimmers success was expected, the commanding lead built by Miss Willard, a 5-foot-7 beauty, came as a distinct surprise.

"I got off to a very good start," she said, "and after the first dive, I was so close to Ingrid Kraemer-Engel and Tamara Fedesova that I figured I could move up on the second dive because back diving is my specialty.

"Of course, it is too early to tell, but the fact that we have three Americans in the first six means that we should be good for two medals."

Steelers Bomb Browns, 23-7

CLEVELAND (AP) — Pounding continuously on the ground, the Pittsburgh Steelers beat the Cleveland Browns 23-7 before a crowd of 80,530 Saturday night and dropped the Browns to second place in the Eastern Division race of the National Football League.

John Henry Johnson, a fullback who ran like a halfback, scored three touchdowns and posted the best single game posted the best single game rushing effort this season in the NFL.

Johnson tallied on dashes of 33 and 45 yards and plunged four yards for another score. He picked up 200 yards in 30 carries. This topped a 137-yard effort by Tommy Mason of the Minnesota Vikings on Sept. 13. It was also a Steeler rushing record, topping his own record of 182 yards in 1960.

The Steelers took a 10-0 lead in the first quarter and were never in trouble. Mike Clark kicked a 21-yard field goal and Johnson burst up the middle for a 33-yard touchdown. The big fullback dashed 45 yards in the second quarter, beating the Browns' defensive secondary in a race to the corner flag.

Except for an 18-yard touchdown pass from Frank Ryan to Garry Collins in the second quarter, the Steeler defense stopped the Browns cold in the first half, giving up only five first downs.

The Steelers used seven minutes on a 80-yard touchdown drive in the third quarter, with Johnson pi'ing into the end zone from the four-yard line.

The Steelers rushed for 354 yards while holding the Browns to 96.

The Browns' first loss leaves them with a 3-1-1 record. The Steelers, 3-2, are third. The St. Louis Cardinals, first in the East with a 3-0-1 mark, play the Baltimore Colts Monday night. The colts are Western Division leaders.

The score was 20-20 late in the fourth quarter when quarterback Tommy Soon passed six yards to Gneting for the final touchdown of the contest.

Florida Bombs Rebels

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Undefeated Florida let it be known Saturday that it plans to be contender for the Southeastern Conference championship by crushing Mississippi 30-14.

The contest, which nearly erupted into a slugfest midway through the final period when Ole Miss end John Maddox took a poke at Florida quarterback Tom Shannon, belonged to the Gators from the opening.

The loss brought to an end in just one month what was expected to be one of the best seasons in the history of Mississippi. It also was the worst beating the Johnny Rebels have taken since Tennessee beat them 27-7 in 1956.

Third-Ranked Tide Beats North Carolina

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — Second-string quarterback Steve Sloan directed Alabama to a 21-0 victory over North Carolina State Saturday in a battle of unbeaten football teams.

Sloan, called on to replace Joe Namath when the Crimson Tide star twisted his knee in the second quarter, scored one touchdown and passed for another.

It was the fourth straight victory for third-ranked Alabama and its third straight over North Carolina State, which had a perfect record.

Namath did not play in the second half, but the Alabama offense didn't need him. Sloan sent a host of hard-running backs through the State line and when resistance stiffened, he went into the air.

His favorite target, end Tommy Tolleson, caught eight passes, a record for Alabama. The old record of seven was held jointly by Al Lary, Dixie Walker and Butch Wilson.

North Carolina State threatened twice. The first thrust ended in a missed field goal and the second was thwarted by a series of penalties.

The Wolfpack held Alabama at bay in the first quarter, halting one Alabama drive by recovering a fumble. But early in the second quarter the Tide started a scoring march on its 31.

Jets' Tank-Like Running, Alert Defense Nets Win Over Raiders

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Jets combined Matt Snell's tank-like running with alert defense Saturday night and trounced Oakland, 35-13 in a League game.

With Snell reeling off 168 yards in 26 carries, both club records, and scoring two touchdowns, the Jets registered all their points in the first three quarters.

Oakland tallied twice in the fourth period as Cotton Davidson's desperation passes led them on 61 and 88-yard strikes. Holding penalties nullified two other Raider TDs, and the Jets held for downs twice inside their 15-yard line.

It was the Jets' second victory against one defeat and a tie, and the fifth straight loss for the raiders.

Four of New York's five touchdowns were set up by its defensive unit on a blocked punt, two fumble recoveries and an interception. Defensive halfback Billy Baird rambled 54 yards to score after intercepting one of Davidson's third-quarter aerials.

Snell, whose longest run was 42 yards, scored the first Jet touchdown with a five-yard sweep around right end at 8:15 of the first period after Larry Grantham had blocked an Oakland punt.

He went over from the two on a similar play in the third quarter after New York had traveled all the way from the six, primarily on two Dick Wood-to-Bake Turner pass plays that gained 53 and 19 yards.

A temperature in the low 40s and gusty winds held paid attendance to 32,376 for the Jets who had set league records in two previous games at Shea Stadium.

Texas Tech Topples TCU, 25-10

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Donny Anderson and Jim Zanios exploded for long-distance touchdown jaunts Saturday night and Texas Tech's Red Raiders buried Texas Christian 25-10 in a Southwest Conference football game.

Anderson flashed 90 yards for one touchdown and Zanios darted 73 for another as the Raiders overcame a 10-6 halftime deficit in a typical Southwest scoring flurry.

Teddy Roberts added insult to injury late in the fourth period, stealing a TCU pass at the Frog 32 and zigzagging all the way for the touchdown.

Anderson's furious dash, in the fourth period, went into the record books as the longest run from scrimmage in Tech's colorful history.

A crowd of 23,902 looked on as Tech pushed its conference record to 2-1 and Texas Christian absorbed an unprecedented fourth straight setback while under the reins of Coach Abe Martin.

Wyoming Slips Past Utah in WAC Contest

LARAMIE, Wyo. (AP) — The arm of quarterback Tom Wilkinson and the toe of George Squires led Wyoming to a 14-13 victory Saturday over a Utah team that was picked as one of the Cowboys' toughest competitors for the Western Athletic Conference football title.

A 21-yard pass from Wilkinson to tight end John Dowler was the highlight of Wyoming's first touchdown, in the second quarter. Sophomore fullback Mike Davenport scored from the one.

Colgate Shuts Out Holy Cross

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP) — Colgate's Red Raiders smothered a stuttering Holy Cross attack Saturday and handed the Crusaders their third straight defeat with kicking specialist Lee Woltman and halfback Tom Carpenter producing the points in the 10-0 triumph.

Woltman, a left-footed booter from Fall River, Mass., kicked a 38-yard field goal with six minutes left in the first half to shove the Red Raiders in front 3-0. The field goal was only the second in the last 22 years of Colgate football.

Midway in the third period, the Red Raiders from Hamilton, N.Y., drove to a touchdown. The drive started on the Holy Cross 27 following a short punt and Carpenter was the whole show.

Florida State Downs Kentucky, 48-6

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Florida State University took complete command of fifth-ranked Kentucky Saturday, scored in every quarter and waltzed to a 48-6 victory.

Kentucky averted a shutout in the final 30 seconds when Frank Antonini bulled over from the five and got the first touchdown off Florida State this season.

Steven Teni, Florida State's 6-foot-5 quarterback, passed for two touchdowns to his favorite target, Fred Biletnikoff, and halfback Phil Spooner broke through for two more as FSU made a strong bid for national rankings.

The Wildcats were watching the Tensi-to-Biletnikoff combination, so Tensi frequently threw to Spooner and fullback Lee Narramore.

Kentucky's highly rated halfback, Rodger Bird, rolled up considerable yardage, but most of it was in his own end of the field.

Luther Hunt Tennis Tourney Oct. 17

In 1963 a type of tennis tournament new to the Pikes Peak region was started by the Colorado Springs Park and Recreation Department.

This was a doubles tournament named in honor of Luther Hunt; the original tennis coach of the Colorado Springs High School, who was present for the rededication of the renovated north courts at Monument Valley Park.

This year the south courts have been resurfaced and painted, and the second annual Luther Hunt Tournament will mark the opening of these courts for tournament play.

Only players who have not reached the semi finals of the Colorado Springs Open Tournament, or State Regional or College Tournaments, are eligible to play in the Luther Hunt.

This tournament is intended to give those players who are not able to practice enough for Open types of tournaments, or who are getting too old for such a class of play, a chance to compete with players of their own caliber. It is a "fun" tournament, and restricting play to doubles teams helps the older player to better stand the pace.

For 1964, two new classes will be added to the tournament, in the women's doubles and the mixed doubles. Several requests were received this summer for these two classes of play.

Entry blanks are being mailed out to those players who entered last year's tournament, and others may secure theirs by calling at the City Park and Recreation Department, 1400 North Glen Avenue. For additional information, call 634-4881, extension 260.

Entry fee will be $1 per entrant, but each team will be required to furnish one new ball for each match. This represents an effort to reduce the costs of the tournament. The Recreation Division will furnish the balls for all finals matches, and will provide trophies for each class.

The tour-nament will be held Oct. 17 through Oct. 25. Play will begin at 10 a.m. Saturday.

W & M Defeats Furman, 21 - 14

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP) — Mike Weaver's 62-yard run with a pass interception late in the final period put William and Mary in position for a touchdown that carried the Indians past Furman 21-14 Saturday in a Southern Conference football game.

Weaver snared a pitch by Furman's Sammy Wyche, just when the Purple Paladins were threatening the Indian goal, and streaked downfield to the Furman 18.

CANINE CHARITY CHECK — Carl Joslyn (second from right), president of Rocky Mountain Kennel Club, presents a check for $10,241.75 to Frank Arnold, president of the Colorado Commercial Bank, representing proceeds of the dog track's annual Charity Night. Arnold is chairman of the charity committee and other members are Fred Angell (left), vice president of the First National Bank, and Robert Morris, vice president of the Exchange National Bank. Michigan Tops M-State, 17-10

By BERNIE KENNEDY
Associated Press Sports Writer

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan, its vaunted ground game stymied for more than three quarters, scored twice in the closing minute and defeated Michigan State 17-10 Saturday.

Both Michigan touchdowns came on passes as Bob Timberlake hit Rick Sygar on a five-yard pass to cap a 73-yard drive, and Sygar passed to John Henderson two minutes later on a play covering 31 yards.

Michigan State, tied for the No. 9 spot in this week's football poll, led from the early moments against the seventh-ranked Wolverines.

The Spartans recovered a Michigan fumble on the Wolverines' 17-yard line on the second play of the game and Steve Juday scored from the one five plays later.

Michigan did not get into the scoring column until the last play of the first half when Timberlake booted a 29-yard field goal.

MSU, after Dick Kennedy had missed field goals from the 31 and 44, scored its final three points on a 26-yarder by Larry Lukasik in the final period.

Michigan elected to go for two extra points after Sygar's touchdown and missed as Mel Anthony was brought down inches short of the goal.

The Wolverines went for two after Henderson scored and made it as Timberlake passed to Steve Smith.

Penn State Pulls Upset Over Army Gridders, 6-2

WEST POINT, N. Y. (AP) — Penn State marched 62 yards for its only touchdown Saturday, then came up with a tremendous goal line stand in the dying minutes to upset Army 6-2, snapping a three-game losing streak.

The fired-up Nittany Lions, after losing their first three games, stopped the Black Knights dead on the Penn State two-yard line with less than two minutes to play.

Four plays later, Penn State punter Frank Hershey allowed himself to be tackled in the end zone, giving the Cadets their only two points, a safety.

The strategy paid off. Hershey kicked off after the safety and guard John Runnells intercepted an Army pass on the Penn State 24 as the final buzzer sounded.

A record crowd of 32,268 jammed Michie Stadium to watch the defense battle as the Nittany Lions handed the Cadets their second loss in four games for 1964.

Quarterback Carl Stichweh, Army's "Mr. Everything," brought the fans to their feet in the final quarter, controlling the ball for more than eight minutes as the Black Knights marched from their own 20 to the state two.

On the next play, guard Bob Kane nailed tailback Mark Hamilton for a one-yard loss. Two Stichweh passes fell incomplete in the end zone to give Penn State the ball.

Broncos Seek First AFL Victory

By Frank Pitman
Associated Press Sports Writer

DENVER (AP)—The Denver Broncos, hoping to halt a 14-game streak without victory in the American Football League, will try a simplified offense against Kansas City Sunday.

"We're going back to basics," said new head Coach Mac Speedie, who took over for Jack Faulkner, fired last week by the Bronco management.

Speedie, former Cleveland Browns star receiver, said the first thing he did was to simplify the Broncos' play book. Stuffed with more than 100 offensive plays under Faulkner's regime, the book was slimmed down to about 10 running plays and a dozen pass patterns, Speedie said.

"We're only using the tried-and-true plays," Speedie said.

The simplification is aimed at easing the job of quarterback Jacky Lee who Speedie predicted "will develop into a real fine quarterback." Lee, obtained six weeks ago from Houston, hasn't achieved the potential expected by the Bronco fans. Some say the Bronco offense has been too involved.

The Broncos go into the game with a set backfield lineup for the first time this campaign. Speedie said Billy Joe, AFL rookie of the year last season who was benched at times by Faulkner, will be at fullback. Along with Lee the other backs are flanker Bob Scarpitto and running back Charlie Mitchell.

"Those are the best we got at those positions and that's where they will be," Speedie said.

The new coach said he's turning the game controls over to the quarterback. "He's going to call the plays," Speedie said, "because he's closer to the game than we are on the sidelines."

There may be an occasion when a play is sent in from the bench, Speedie said, but it will be only when spotters have detected an obvious weakness in the defense.

Speedie sent the team through stiff drills this week after he took over. He said the morale of the Broncos "seems excellent. But we won't know for sure until shortly after 1:30 Sunday. The players have looked real, real good in practice."

Pitt Blank Arch-Rivals West Virginia

PITTSBURGH AP — Pitt's Panthers, their ace quarterback Fred Mazurek pretty well contained, scored on a long drive after the opening kickoff Saturday and beat arch - rival West Virginia 14-0.

The Panthers put the ball in play on their own 32 and marched to a toucdhown in 15 running plays with fullback Barry McKnight smashing for 35 yards in nine carries in the drive.

Mazurek sneaked over from the one for the score and Jim Jones converted.

Pitt recovered three Mountaineer fumbles and intercepted two passes but could take advantage of only one of the opportunities. It led to the Panthers' second TD.

St. Mary's Entertains Cathedral In DPL Competition Today at 2 p.m.

By CHARLIE DREUX
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Chuck Haering's young Buccaneers attempt to pick up the pieces after last weekend's disaster in Denver when the St. Mary's footballers play host to visiting Cathedral today at Wasson Stadium. Game time is 2 p.m.

Last week the Pirates tasted their first defeat in five outings this season when they went under to the explosive Mustangs of Mullen, 13-6, in northern territory. A victory today would give the Bucs a 5-1 won-loss overall record and a 4-1 mark in the Denver Parochial League pennant chase.

In other DPL action today, Regis battles St. Joseph's; Mullen takes on Holy Family; Annunciation clashes with highly regarded Machebeuf; and St. Francis seeks its first victory against winless Mt. Carmel.

Mullen and the DPL perennial champion Regis presently pace the loop race via a 3-0 record. Mullen has been the preseason favorite and the Mustangs have the personnel to pull out the DPL championship from the mighty Raiders of Regis. The two DPL giants are scheduled for a showdown the final week of play at Mullen Stadium, Nov. 15.

Meanwhile both teams will have to remain undefeated to keep ahead of the Pirates. Next week the St. Mary's grid team attempts to record their first vicory over Regis as the Raiders are the guests of the Pirates a week from today, Oct. 18, at Wasson Stadium.

Not only have the Pirates failed to defeat Regis, the Colorado Springs team has yet to score a single point against Regis since Haering has been at the helm the last three years.

Today's outing against Cathedral should be somewhat of a breather for the Pirates, especially after last week's rugged game with Mullen. But the Bucs will have to contend with a fired-up Cardinal eleven as the Cathedral aggregation will be looking for its second victory in five outings.

U-State Tops Wichita, 51-7

LOGAN, Utah (AP) — Fullback Craig Murray scored three touchdowns and halfback Don Holder two as Utah State romped to an easy 51-7 football victory over Wichita Saturday.

The Aggies, whose air offensive was contained by Wichita, put together a powerful rushing attack, gaining 438 yards on the ground to the Shockers' 127.

Utah State got its first touchdown midway in the first quarter when Murray ran 12 yards for the score. The Aggies went on for touchdowns in every quarter.

The Shockers' only touchdown was scored in the final quarter on a 29-yard pass play from qaurterback Lou Confessori to halfback Don Cherry. It was the first time the Aggies had been scored on in 11 quarters of play.

Palmer Tennis Team Dumps Pueblo South

The Palmer tennis team defeated the Pueblo South netters, 11-0 Saturday in South Central League competition at the Colorado Springs Monument Valley Park courts.

The Palmer team is now 3-2 in SCL standings losing its two matches earlier this season. The Terrors get a rematch with the powerful Fountain Valley Boys' school team this Tuesday afternoon at the Monument Valley Park courts.

Under the new management of Coach Lloyd Samuelson, the Tribe netters won all but one of the singles matches Saturday against the Pueblo South team and sweep to four doubles victories. The final singles match between Palmers' Mike Ingraham and South's Cal Bamber had to be called a draw (6-4, 1-6).

Posting singles victories for Palmer were Bob Pearson, Steve Shanchez, Bill Blount, Phil Pierce, John McWilliams, Larry Nelson, Jon McPhee.

British Golf Team Wins World Amateur Tourney

ROME (AP) — A quartet of British amateur golfers who wouldn't let themselves be disturbed by a third straight day of driving rains and gusty winds outclassed players from 32 other nations Saturday and won the fourth World Amateur Gold Team Championship.

The Britons thoroughly outclassed the defending American team, which wound up in fourth place, 13 strokes back, after once having been only one stroke behind Britain.

The victory gave Britain the huge Eisenhower Trophy, which the United States had taken twice and Australia once in three previous world team competitions.

Second place went to a Canadian team which posted Saturday's best scores after starting five strokes behind Britain and tied for second with the United States.

Britain scored a grand total of 895 for the 72 holes over the 6,897-yard par 72 Olgiata golf course. Canada finished with 897, New Zealand took third with 900 and the United States fourth with 908.

Scores are counted for the three best from each team each day. The team's highest score is discarded.

Thus the Britons counted 224 Saturday on a 74 by Michael Lunt and 75s by Ronnie Shade and Rodney Foster. Michael Bonallack's 78 didn't count.

The three best Canadian scores were a 73 by Douglas Silverberg and 74s by Keith Alexander and Gary Cowan. New Zealand had 223 on 74s by Ross Murray and Edward McDougall.

The U. S. golfers again were led by Deane Beman of Bethesda, Md., former holder of the U. S. and British amateur titles. Beman shot a 75 but didn't get much help from his teammates. Ed Tutwiler of Indianapolis shot 78, Bill Campbell of Huntington, W. Va., 79 and Dale Morey of High Point, N. C., a non-counting 80.

After the presentation of the Eisenhower Trophy, Joe Carr of Dublin, non - playing British captain, commented: "I thought this weather would do our team no harm.

Norwegians Honor Old Leif Erikson

By JOHN KOENIG JR.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Norwegians, who want to put the ax to the old belief that Christopher Columbus discovered America, join the United States today in honoring the man they say got there first — Leif Erikson.

In a special "Leif Erikson Day" observance, Norway is presenting the United States with a relic from its state treasures — an authentic Viking battle ax — with a modern Leif Erikson doing the honors.

The new Leif Erikson, a 16-year-old high school student from Sarpsborg in southeastern Norway, will hand the antique weapon to Secretary of State Dean Rusk in the Adams Room of the State Department.

Witnesses to the ceremony will include Minnesota Gov. Karl Rolvaag, the highest elected U.S. official of Norwegian descent; Hans Engen, the Norwegian ambassador, and a Minnesota Leif — although he spells it Erickson — selected by Rolvaag.

The ax comes from the National Historical Museum of Norway. It will serve as a companion piece to a Viking sword presented to President Johnson last summer by the captain of the Norwegian windjammer "Christian Radich" during a visit here.

The American Leif Erickson is 17 and a senior at Moorhead State College Campus High School. He was chosen by the Minnesota Sons of Norway Lodge from among 15 youths with that name.

Norway's young Leif Erikson similarly was selected from among many countrymen with the same name, to present the gift.

Only this year Congress passed for the first time a resolution marking Oct. 9 as Leif Erikson Day. The resolution was sponsored by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey and Rep. John Blatnik, Minnesota Democrats. The day then was set aside by proclamation of President Johnson. It will be an annual commemoration.

About the year 1000 Norway's King Olav Trygvesson sent the original Leiv Eiriksson, as the name is spelled in ancient records, to Greenland. It is believed — or at least so the old Norse sagas indicate — that he reached what is now Newfoundland, and also possibly Cape Cod.

This was 500 years before Columbus' first voyage. On none of his four voyages did Columbus ever reach the coast of North America — touching only on the islands of the Caribbean and the coast of Central and South America.

The Norse sagas tell of landings at a place the Vikings called Vinland, or Wineland, because of the grapes that grew there. They also tell of encounters with what apparently were the Indians — Skrellings, the Vikings called them.

The sagas have won strong support in the recent findings of Dr. Helge Ingstad, Norwegian leader of an expedition sponsored by the National Geographic Society. After years of search, Ingstad reported finding traces of a Viking settlement at L'Anse Aux Meadows, on the northern tip of Newfoundland.

Refund Wanted From Robber-Writer

MUNICH, Germany (AP) — The West German postoffice wants a best-selling novelist to repay more than $17,500 that he and others took in a holdup 10 years ago.

The writer is Henry Jaeger, 36, who spent eight years in prison for the 1954 raid with a dummy submachine gun on a postal pension office in Frankfurt.

While in prison, Jaeger wrote a refugee novel "Die Festung" which has been published in various foreign countries. Since his release Jaeger has written two more books and has become an editor for a Frankfurt newspaper.

A spokesman for Jaeger's publisher, said federal postal authorities have made a formal demand on Jaeger for the entire sum stolen in the Frankfurt robbery.

"Jaeger had several accomplices and he received only one fourth of the money," the spokesman said. "He is ready to repay that fourth, plus interest, but he thinks that demanding it all from him is not fair."

Rutgers allowed three more points than it scored in football last season (145 - 143) while winning three of nine games.

Troops from 5th Signal Bn are slated to leave Thursday, also for Ft. Leonard Wood, and a team from 611th Ordnance Company will take off the following Friday for Fort Riley and Walnut Ridge Air Force Base, Ark.

Maytag Charges GOP Captured by Faction

DENVER (UPI) — Democratic State Chairman Robert Maytag charged Friday the Republican party had been captured by "men unwilling to condemn" the extremists.

"That is why moderate Republicans are hanging their heads in shame and deserting en masse to the moderate, responsible leadership of President Johnson and the Democratic party," he said.

Charles Taylor, Republican state campaign co - ordinator, said recently the Democrats have been liberally labeling Republicans as extremists but have not said what an extremist is. He said the Democrats ought to define the term.

Maytag said his definitation was "individuals and groups who wish to radically twist the traditions and goals of American life.

"The Republican party was captured in San Francisco by men unwilling to condemn extremist groups such as the Communist Party, Ku Klux Klan and the John Birch Society," he said.

East Germans Trade Prisoners for Food

BONN, Germany (AP) — East Germany has released 800 West German political prisoners in return for West German merchandise, including butter and other needed foods.

An official of the All-German Affairs Ministry said the deal involved several million marks worth of commodities. A mark is worth 25 cents.

The spokesman said the East Germans proposed the swap.

Pheasants can survive North America's winters, having originated in the blizzard - swept plains of Siberia, Mongolia and northern China.

Signal School Now Underway At Ft. Carson

The lack of qualified signal personnel outside of the signal battalions has resulted in the establishment of a signal school at Ft. Carson.

By order of Maj. Gen. Autrey J. Maroun, 5th Infantry Division (Mechanized) and Ft. Carson commander, the signal school was organized in August, providing an opportunity for units to have efficient operators around the clock. It also permits constant readiness for all units in the field of communications.

Calling the school one of the best in the field, Sgt. 1 C. John T. St. Clair, commandant, claimed that the course of instruction is a highly accelerated version of the course given at Fort Gordon, Ga.

The success of this operation will ultimately rest on the cooperation of a willing student body, the sergeant noted. "The students must discipline themselves to hard study to contain all of the instruction scheduled during the short five-week period.

To be acceptable for enrollment in the Signal School, students must be recommended by their respective units. In addition, they must:

— Have not less than six months remaining in the service.

— Have an aptitude for electronics and an acceptable score.

— Be assigned to a position requiring training as a radio teletype operator.

Instruction as a radio teletype operator was sarted Monday, Oct. 5, and is the only subject taught. Instruction in other Military Occupational Sills will be initiated later.

Such courses will include radio and telephone procedure; message center and cryptographic operator; wire communications; switchboard operator; telephone installation and repair, radio relay and carrier operator.

St. Clair said that qualified instructors give each individual the attention required to make him the highest trained operator possible. Moreover, to complete a critique sheet at the end of the -five-week session in an attempt to improve the method of instruction.

World in Agreement On Atomic Time

WASHINGTON (AP) — The world has agreed on one thing — the atomic length of a second.

The Twelfth General Conference of Weights and Measures, meeting in Paris, authorized the new measure. It won't affect our daily clocks, but it will help in precise scientific measurements where fractions of seconds are of the essence.

The new definition — based on the vibration of an atom of cesium — replaces the old definition of a second which was based on a fraction of the earth's annual orbit around the sun.

One Penny Too Much Means Jail Sentence

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP) — Joseph J. Lawson charged a penny too much for building a patio and driveway and wound up with a 90-day jail sentence.

Under the law, Lawson could have done the job for L. Harold Bullis of nearby Kensington for $299.99 and not needed a home improvement contractors' license. He charged $300.

Mrs. Bullis said Lawson began the work, but stopped and did not return. She protested to the Maryland Home Improvement Commission.

As a result of an investigation Lawson was charged with a violation of the home improvements law because he failed to get the required license.

He was sentenced to 90 days in jail on this charge Monday and was freed Thursday under a $200 appeal bond.

Hundreds of friends and relatives attended the funeral of Cheche, who was accepted as Tanganyika's oldest resident.

Agriculture Office Sees Improved Price

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department painted a picture today of improving prices and income for a big portion of the nation's meat animal industry.

An outlook report said the price prospect for hogs and lambs the rest of this year and early next is more favorable to producers at this time of year than it has been since 1961 for hogs and since 1958 for lambs.

It also said that recent price strength of fed cattle—those destined for slaugnter—is expected to hold through the end of the year, if not longer.

But prospects were said to be less favorable for improved prices of feeder cattle—those which need further feeding for slaughter purposes — cows and other slaughter cattle off grass.

Ft. Valley Sod Co. To Grow Windsor Grass

Fountain Valley Sod Co. will be the first Colorado commercial grass grower to offer a new strain of drouth - resistant grass.

It is O. M. Scott & Sons new Windsor grass. This grass is so different from any other turf grass that it was awarded a U. S. plant patent, the first such patent ever issued, said Jack Sutton, 1203 Vaga Dr., consulting botanist with Scott.

Fountain Valley Sod Co., west of the villages of Widefield and Security, is the only commercial sod business in the Colorado Springs area.

Participants in the Windsor project, besides Sutton, are: John Ceresa, Fountain Valley rancher and Colorado Springs bussinessman, owner of the land A. A. Hanson, Colorado Springs Realty Co., business manager; and Donald McCauley, sod company manager.

Windsor is thicker than Kentucky bluegrass and looks like a rich green carpet. It grows more horizontally to the ground than other bluegrasses and can be cut lower than other grasses because of the lowering of the grass crown.

This is because Windsor produces less vertical growth during periods when other bluegrasses normally produce excessive flushes of growth, said Sutton. He said this was an advantage because it reduces the mowing required to maintain a well - groomed lawn. The slower rate of vertical growth reduces clipping yields and makes lawn maintenance easier. Less vertical growth also reduces the possibility of scalping or defoliation of the lawn when mowing is infrequent.

For Colorado lawn growers, one of the greatest advantages of Windsor is its drouth - resistant qualities, Sutton said. He said it is "extremely" drouth resistant and has a much deeper root system than most grasses.

In addition to being very disease - resistant, the botanist said, Windsor has wider blades than Kentucky bluegras. This makes Windsor desirable as a "working grass" for athletic fields, golf course or anywhre grass is liable to receive a lot of abuse and wear.

Another attractive quality of Windsor is its dark, rich blue color, even during periods of drouth.

Sutton said it took 14 years to develop the Windsor seed strain. "There was tremendous work on the matching of genes. This was one of 20,000 grasses Scott has worked on in the last 40 years," Sutton said.

To demonstrate his product, Sutton has some Windsor mixed with Kentucky bluegrass in his front yard.

Windsor is not yet available, in large seed quantities in this area. However it is quick to sod, according to Sutton, and will be made available to the public from the Fountain Valley Sod Co.

Colorado City Spurs Colorado Growth

Since the Colorado City development Co. started building Colorado City, a wide assortment of planning and development has begun in southwestern Pueblo County, between the Greenhorn Mountains and Highway 85-87.

This is in line with the predictions and projections of the U. S. Department of Commerce and national observers that within 25 years there will be an interlocking strip city from Colorado City to Ft. Collins.

It will include the sprawl of Pueblo, Colorado Springs, Security, Fountain, Broadmoor, Castle Rock, Littleton, Englewood, Denver, Aurora, Arvada, Adams City, Broomfield, Boulder, Longmont, Loveland and Ft. Collins. It is predicted that other new communities will be started.

Projects developing between Pueblo and Colorado City are following Colorado City in emphasizing recreation and outdoor living.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry E. Hagen of Delray, Beach, Fla., have purchased the 3-E Ranch of 16,636 acres between Colorado City and Beulah in the St. Charles River Valley. They are reported to be planning to continue raising Hereford cattle, but also to operate a modern dude ranch. They purchased 1,300 cattle with the land from Leavelle Cattle Co., El Paso, Tex.

Earlier this year Robert O. Anderson of Roswell, N. M., purchased 95,000 acres from the Hatchet Cattle Co. Most of the land is between Pueblo and Colorado City. It is reported that Anderson plans extensive developments. He is reputedly the largest individual land owner in the Uni'ed States.

The Rocket Realty Co. has purchased acreage from the Wigton Estate on both sides of Highway 85-87, midway between Pueblo and Colorado City. The land is being developed into sites of two to five acres. Several smaller home site developments have been started in the same area.

Gus Hanson of Pueblo is developing a small subdivision between Colorado Ci'y and Rye. Woodland Acres, south of Rye, is being expanded. W. F. Griffin is subdividing land in Tara-J, above Rye.

The town of Rye, five miles west of Colorado City, has experienced a mild building and economic boom since Colorado City construction began a year ago.

The San Isabel City area in the mountains 15 miles above Colorado City also has been growing. Near San Isabel City the Rocky Mountain Council of Boy Scouts started developing its brand new 240 - acre San Isabel Boy Scout Camp among the pines and aspens.

The Columbine Council's Girl Scout Camp, Lazy Acres, is being expanded in the wooded area between Colorado City and Lake Isabel. In the same area are two Western church camps and the Pueblo YMCA's Camp Crockett, undergoing extensive improvements.

Pueblo County has a large mountain park immediately west of Rye, where the Greenhorn Valley Chamber of Commerce is developing a winter sports program.

The U. S. Forest Service is expanding its betterment program and providing more camping and recreation facilities in the San Isabel National Forest, which blankets much of the nonprivate land along the Greenhorn Mountains.

Colorado City is working on the first three units of its proposal to build 12 villages on the knolls and meadows of Greenhorn Valley. Much of the 5,000 green belts, open spaces, recreacres will be preserved for ation areas and parks. Colorado City already has its golf course, three lakes, ball park, driving range, picnic areas and is developing Graneros Gorge Park. Twenty miles of paved roads are being completed. The first 20 residences, administrative offices, postoffice and other facilities are being occupied and contractors are starting on the next segment of homes.

Colorado City, during the next 12 to 15 years, will grow to 12,000 home sites and 30,000 population, the developers predict.

The U. S. Bureau of Public Roads and Colorado Department of Highways is extending four-lane highway to Crow Junction this year and next year will add nine miles southward through Colorado City territory to Apache City. The Highway, U. S. 85-87, is No. 25 in the Interstate network.

The State Highway Department is widening and repaving Highway 165 from Crow Junction through Colorado City and next year will extend the improvement into Rye.

Coloradans Pay More in Taxes

DENVER (AP) — Coloradans aid the United States government $46 million more in taxes during the first nine months of 1964 than they did during the comparable period a year ago, says V. Lee Phillips, district director of the Internal Revenue Service.

He said collections through Sept. 30 this year amounted to more than a billion dollars — $1,060,214,839.

About $35 million of the increase was attributed by Phillips to larger withholding tax returns and $9 million to increase in excise tax payments.

Latest in these achievements is the "One Touch Dial Phone," developed and manufactured by Japan's leading manufacturer in the field of tele - communications and electronics, Nippon Electric Co.

Recently, NEC was congratulated for its important contribution in the compietion of the first Transpacific Submarine Cable Communications linking the United States and Japan. Today, through its local selling office, Nippon Electric New York Inc., NEC announced that it will make available for American telephone users, its latest telephone dialing system, temporarily called One Touch Dial Phone. The name is derived from the fact that this system of automatic telephone dialing requires a mere touch of a button and within a matter of seconds the desired number is ringing.

Among the first people to inspect the latest NEC automatic telephone dialing equipment were the engineers of A T & T, and The Bell System, as well as General Telephone & Electronics Corp.

The compact and streamlined "One Touch Dial Phone" consists of a memory core circuit system which can hold up to 30 most frequently called telephone numbers. These numbers are pre - set by connecting a slender vinyl covered wire through digits.

Any layman can set the telephone numbers by merely following the simple instructions which come with each unit. In time, it will be possible to have this machine made with a larger capacity of telephone numbers, depending on users' requirements.

Telephone calls are made by pressing the button of the party one wishes to call. In a split second the bell can be heard ringing, or a busy signal if the phone on the other end happens to be in use, by means of an ingeniously compact built - in transistorized speaker. The party making the call need not bother to lift the telephone until the other end answers. While the teleprone call is being made the calling party can continue with whatever he or she may be doing. If the other end does not answer within a reasonable number of rings, the call is automatically discontinued. If the telephone number being called is busy, the equipment automatically discontinues the call. The same number can be called again, and as often as may be necessary until the telephone on the other end answers, by pressing the button which snaps up when it has not made contact with the corresponding number.

NEC Officials are hopeful they will be able to work out compatible arrangements with the large telephone companies in the U.S., as well as the independent companies, so that the many thousands of housewives as well as businessmen who have already seen the machine in operation at the NEC Exhibit in the Japan Pavilion of the New York World's Fair may be able to enjoy the advantages of this latest electronic invention. NEC says that on a monthly rental basis, the "One Touch Dial Phone" would ont cost any more then some of the new telephone setes.

Lockheed, NASA Study Trip for Non-Astronauts

What type of rocket plane could best transport 10 "ordinary" non - astronaut passengers to a space station in the 1970s?

Under a contract from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, Lockheed - California Co., engineers are investigating promising concepts of reusable orbital transports that could be flying regular schedules within 10 years if programs were given the go-ahead.

Most of the non - astronaut passengers would be scientists and others on official government missions. It is estimated that "fare" per passenger would be only about 100th the cost required to place one Project Mercruy astronaut in orbit.

In addition to passengers, the two - stage winged transport would carry three tons of cargo to space stations orbiting some 300 miles from earth.

Lockheed spacecraft engineers will deal with designs for the first stage in the study sponsored by NASA's Marshall Space Flight Center, Huntsville, Ala.

The first stage would provide the boost to send the second (passenger) stage to the space station destination following launch. The first stage would then return to an earth launch site and make an aircraft-type horizontal landing. Flight crews would man both stages.

In this study, Lockheed will be responsible also for the integration of the two vehicle stages and the ground systems.

In the passenger safety level, the objective is to approach present airline standards of reliability.

Accelerations felt by passengers during flight would be limited to a two and a half to three - G force — approximately one-third of that experienced by Project Mercury astronauts.

Included in the study will be potential mission applications, potential passenger traffic, flight crew functions, research and experimental work recommendations, and the best combination of rocket and air - breathing propulsion systems.

This is one of a number of studies sponsored by NASA as an aid in future planning.

Lockheed-California previously completed two earlier studies on 10-passenger orbital carriers for NASA - Huntsville.

MOTHERHOOD MATERNITY SHOP — Mrs. Beth Taylor, store manager of the new Motherhood Maternity Shop, examines one of the new styles for expectant mothers.

Motherhood Maternity Shop Now in Business

The Mackenzie Motherhood Maternity Shop opened Thursday in the Pikes Peak Shopping Center, 2230 E. Pikes Peak Ave.

The owners are Mr. and Mrs. Alex Mackenzie. From a small shop, their maternity business has grown into a large chain.

Mary Mackenzie, an Egyptian, was interested in American mass production and fashion before she moved to the United States in 1948 with her husband, a Scotsman. After arriving here she observed every facet of the retail market.

In almost complete selections of womens' ready - to - wear, she spotted one weakness, attractive maternity clothes.

Mrs. Mackenzie used to design her own suits. She credits Parisian influence plus American fashion magazines for her taste in clothing.

Her fashion forte became maternity clothes.

In the beginning, she coordinated her stylings in conjunction with the manufacturers, and tossed in an occasion original of her own design.

Her fashions are chosen under the theory that women are joyous when expecting and want and need the styles to express that feeling. The clothing is also

All the stores in the chain, including the one in Pikes Peak Shopping Center, are designed in a gay manner with red carpeting and a white and gold motif for the fixtures.

There's a comfortable area for the expectant father with smoking facilities and reading material.

Macknzie has left 26 years in the Middle East to run the Motherhood Maternity Shops chain from the Los Angeles, Calif., headquarters.

Britons Report Dispute Over Foreign Issues

LONDON (AP) — Diplomats of Britain's Foreign Office stepped in discreetly today to smooth an apparent misunderstanding between Foreign Secretary Richard A. Butler and Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home over a key international issue.

The issue: Have the British and U.S. governments prepared a treaty for signature with Russia to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons?

Douglas-Home, speaking in Manchester during an election campaign tour, was quoted as saying such a treaty is ready and could be produced at a moment's notice. He was said to have added at the time that the accord provides for the participation of Red China.

Butler, Douglas-Home's main rival last year in the contest for leadership of the Conservative party, was quoted in a national newspaper today as saying he does not know of any such treaty.

"After all I would know," he was quoted by the Daily Express as saying in an interview. "I am the foreign secretary."

At a news conference today a Foreign Office spokesman was asked to clarify the position.

"Has nobody shown Mr. Butler the draft treaty?" one newsman inquired.

The spokesman's reply:

"I think we have always said there was not a draft treaty."

Reporters then cited Douglas-Home's speech on the subject. To this the spokesman said:

"I do not think the prime minister ever used the word 'treaty.'"

It was clear that the spokesman, for political reasons, felt inhibited. In private, British officials were more specific. They reported that for about two years now an American-British "agreement," as distinct from a "treaty," has been in existence.

It takes the form of a draft declaration spelling out the undertakings of the nuclear powers to prevent the spread of their weapons to countries which do not now possess them. The document also provides for countries so inclined to accept the obligations set forth in the declaration not to seek to acquire nuclear weapons.

Remington Adds New Unit To Automated Records Line

Remington Office Systems, a divisinn of Sperry Rand Corp. has developed a new Chekveyer unit to augment its line of push - button records retrieval systems for efficient and rapid check processing.

Local information is available from the L. L. Broyles Co., 28 W. Colorado Ave.

Studies conducted by the division show that more than 200 banks which have automated check storage and retrieval with Chekveyer units have greatly improved their customer service.

The new unit combines the features of the standard Chekveyer unit with additional exclusive components for automated check filing.

The new unit, the most recent design of the more than 50 available models, includes a cut - down front. This special feature enables the operator to remove the trays for statement preparation and for over - the lap filing.

Other unique features of Remington's Chekveyer unit are: a specially designed check tray where the master signature card stands unsupported at a convenient angle in a durable acetate check guide; a mobile check holder; a memory control switch for special searches; a check retrieval plan for finding checks dropped during filing; special label holders for instant identification; and dual electronic eyes for safety precautions.

Each Chekveyer unit represents a complete work station. The operator has everything she needs to do rer job.

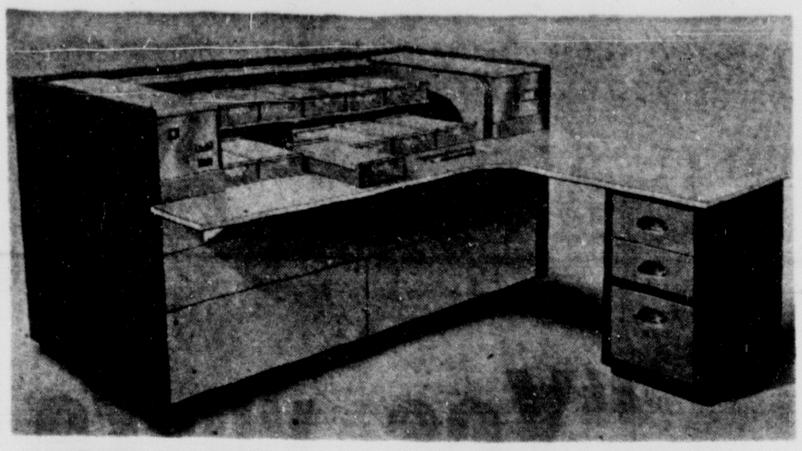
The installation of these mechanized files allows a bank to consolidate six principal functions within one area. The functions include answering balance inquiries and placing holds; policing overdrafts; stop payments; signature verification; check examination; and filing paid checks.

Banks have found that these automated centralized check control work stations have speeded filing and finding, increased accuracy and the speed with which statements go out. Customer service is greatly improved; check control is tightened and clerical turnover reduced.

The Chekveyer system is 50 per cent faster than previous manual check processing. It is now possible to file and verify 1,100 checks per hour as opposed to 500 an hour using standard methods. The average check filing time with the Chekveyer system is 3 seconds.

The Chekveyer system, which permits faster processing with fewer personnel and far less working area, is suited for banks of every size. Depending on the size of the banking operation and the activity of the accounts, a single unit can hold as few as 1,000 or as many as 10,000 accounts. The average is 5,000 accounts.

The system, which answered the urgent needs of the banking industry to find a fast and accurate method to process checks, can also be efficiently utilized in conjunction with computer and electronic data processing programs.



NEW CHECK PROCESSOR—Remington Office Systems, a division of Sperry Rand Corp., has developed the Chekveyer unit to augment its line of push-buton records retrieval system for efficient and rapid check processing.

Possible Decline of Farm Land Value Seen

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate Ariculture Committee study says farm land values would decline several billion dollars a year over the next several years should government farm price supports be abandoned.

Farm real estate values were estimated at a total of $155 billion on July 1 by the Ariculture Department. The committee said the elimination of supports would result in lower farm product prices and lower farm income. The result, it said, would be a much lower valuation for farm.

The study said that for each $100 of net government expenditures for farm price supports and diversion of land from surplus crops in 1961, 1962 and 1963, farm income was increased $236.

Topless Bathing Suit 'Imperialist Plot'

HONG KONG (AP) — Chinese Communists have warned "the youth of Socialist countries" to beware of a new "imperialist plot" — the topless bathing suit.

"We must heighten our vigilance and guard against this imperialist plot which is being hatched in certain countries," the official Peking newspaper Ta Kung Peo said.

It said the topless was degenerate and ugly and "reflects the aching void in the hearts of capitalist society."

Sugar Beet Harvest In Full Swing Now

GOODLAND, Kan. (UPI) — The sugar beet harvest, which got underway in straggling fashion last week, was in full swing today in Sherman and Wallace Counties.

Bill Gray, field man of Great Western Sugar Co. said yields were expected to average 18 tons per acre.

Gray is harvest co-ordinator for his company in the two Kansas counties and in Colorado's Kit Carson County.

He said acreage under contract to his concern totaled 4,300 acres in Sherman County, where the figure in 1958 was only 180 acres; 2,200 acres in Wallace County, and 15,000 acres in Kit Carson County.

LEADERSHIP:

a quality that is recognized by other leaders.

William C. Henderson 1229 North Union Blvd. Colorado Springs, Colorado
September 24, 1964.

To the Citizens of Colorado Springs

Since openly stating my support for Frank Evans for Congress, I have been asked why I have chosen to do so. I thought it might be of interest to know why I am endorsing and supporting Frank Evans in his race for Representative from the Third Congressional District.

I am supporting Frank Evans for the following reasons:

1. The changes which are occurring in the world and in Washington today are so rapid, and so demanding, that to stand still is to retreat. Now is the time to elect a young man who is experienced in business and legislative affairs.
2. Frank Evans is capable of representing the interests of all, regardless of political affiliation.
3. Frank Evans has spent the major part of his life in Colorado Springs and knows the importance of our military installations and would devote himself to protecting our interests in this field.
4. As one who went to Washington to work for the Frying Pan-Arkansas Project, I am convinced that we need a representative in Washington who can command the respect and support of his fellow members of Congress. The present Congressman does not; this we learned during our bi-partisan endeavor in securing successful approval of this project.

I am convinced there is every justification for a change. I know that Frank Evans is eminently qualified for the job that needs to be done for the citizens of this Congressional District.

Sincerely,
William C. Henderson

WILLIAM C. HENDERSON
Former Mayor of Colorado Springs

What can one man do?

ONE MAN EQUALS ONE VOTE ON THE FLOOR OF THE U.S. HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES. THE DIFFERENCE IS IN MEN.

THE DIFFERENCE IS BETWEEN THE MAN WHO DUTIFULLY CASTS A SINGLE, PARTY-LINE VOTE TIME AFTER TIME—AND THE MAN WHO ESTABLISHES THE LEADERSHIP THAT INFLUENCES THE MAJOR COMMITTEES THROUGH WHICH CONGRESS REALLY WORKS.

THE THIRD DISTRICT HAS NOT ENJOYED THE NATIONAL IMPORTANCE OF A COMMITTEE CHAIRMANSHIP IN MORE THAN 22 YEARS.

THIS IS FRANK EVANS:

He was born 41 years ago in Pueblo, spent his early youth in Colorado Springs; received his Bachelor of Arts and Law degree from the University of Denver;

was a patrol bombing pilot for the U.S. Naval Air Corps during World War II; has practiced law in Pueblo for 14 years, has been Chairman of the Board of the Arkansas Valley Bank since 1953; resides with his wife, Eleanor, whom he married in 1952, and their four children, at 3501 Northridge Drive, Pueblo; has served two terms in the Colorado House of Representatives, was minority floor whip during his second term and has served on committees for appropriations, education, finance, judiciary, local government and natural resources.

DEMOCRAT

FRANK EVANS WILL WORK FOR YOU IN CONGRESS!

PAID FOR BY THE EVANS FOR CONGRESS COMMITTEE - PAUL T. BECHTOL, Jr., CHAIRMAN

WASHINGTON — Once in a while in a Presidential campaign a little historical background helps to remove some of the fuzz from partisan issue. This year, for example, it has never been brought out that except for decisions by John F. Kennedy in 1961 neither the nuclear control nor Viet Nam issues would have become so controversial.

What Kennedy did in connection with tightening Presidential control over nuclear weapons in his first months in office is almost vital information for an understanding of the issue raised by Barry Goldwater. The GOP candidate has, in essence, urged more contingency leeway in use of tactical nuclear weapons by the American NATO commander, Gen. Lyman Lemnitzer.

And what Kennedy did in the spring of 1961 in ordering a big buildup of the American military "mission" in South Viet Nam, similarly provided a sound basis for Goldwater's criticism of the Johnson Administration's handling of the mess.

It is necessary to oversimplify the involved nuclear control problem in order to point up briefly the significance of the late President's 1961 decision.

Kennedy, according to those knowledgeable on atomic control problems, was "appalled" by what he considered loose control over nuclear weapons. This was about the time incidentally, that there was a splash of fiction on the subject, particularly the novel "Fail Safe" with its plot based on how a nuclear war could occur without the required "pushbutton" Presidential go-ahead.

Kennedy decided that the risk of unintentional war was too great to permit the slightest slipup and sought to make sure Presidential control was more secure. The development at that time of the complex technological electronic system of "locks" on nuclear devices helped.

IMPOTENT UNTIL THEY'RE UNLOCKED

These "locks" were referred to earlier this week in the report of the Republican task force headed by former Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy.

The report pointed out that these "locks" render nuclear weapons "impotent until unlocked by an electronic message communicated by the president, who holds the coded electronic key to the weapons in his sole possession." The system has been referred to as "the permissive action link" and criticized as an overextension of Presidential control which restricts the leeway of the NATO commander in an emergency situation.

The extent of leeway permitted under Eisenhower Administration policy remains unclear, but there has been no denial that in certain contingencies there was delegated responsibility. The electronic system was only perfected later and made use of by Kennedy to tighten Presidential controls.

The result is, of course, that we now have the issue of whether some authority should not be delegated in connection with tactical nuclear weapons. It is a live issue because President Johnson is following his predecessor's tight-control policy.

U.S. BUILDUP IN S. VIET BEGAN UNDER JFK

The background of the Viet Nam issue also helps to put that partisan dispute in the right perspective. It is only a half-truth for Democrats to retort to Goldwater's charges of inept handling by claiming that they "inherited" the mess from the Eisenhower Administration.

The fact is that under Ike there was never any big military commitment in South Viet Nam. From 1954 until Eisenhower left office, the policy was to adhere to the Geneva accord which grew out of collapse of French control in the battle of Dien Bien Phu. This accord put a lid on increased military commitments of any kind.

So, when Kennedy became President, there were at the most a thousand uniformed Americans in the country, constituting a "military mission."

The buildup under Kennedy began in December, 1961. By June of 1962 there were 4,000 military "advisory" officers and men. How many are there now? President Johnson twice in recent statements referred to 20,000 as the number at present on the scene.

Goldwater has referred biting-ly to the Viet Nam struggle as both "McNamara's war," and "Johnson's war." The latter tag is more correct, for as Vice President, LBJ played a significant part in Kennedy's decision to make powerful military assistance commitments.

WHAT JOHNSON REPORTED TO KENNEDY

At JFK's request Johnson went to Southeast Asia in the spring of 1961. On his return he filed on May 3, 1961, a memorandum for the President on his mission.

In it he concluded that the U.S. had no alternative but strong action. "The battle against Communism," he said in his memorandum, "must be joined in Southeast Asia with strength and determination to achieve success there — or the United States, inevitably must surrender the Pacific and take up our defense on our own shores."

He added that "the fundamental decision required of the United States — and time is of the greatest importance — is whether we are to attempt to meet the challenge of Communist expansion now in Southeast Asia by a major effort in support of the forces of freedom in the area or throw in the towel."

Against this historical backdrop, it should be clearer that Viet Nam is a most pertinent partisan issue in thi campaign.

Incidentally, both the Viet Nam and nuclear policy issue would have been live ones in this campaign if Kennedy had lived. They remain so, for the Kennedy decisions also have the full upport of President Johnson.

Col. Nunn Assigned to Ft. Carson

New Assistant Chief-of-Staff for Intelligence at Ft. Carson is Lt. Col. Clifford C. Nunn, Jr. an armor officer and Silver Star winner who has been in the Army since graduation from high school.

The intelligence officer whose work involves keeping a close eye on weather reports stated his military career in the Army Air Corps weather section, working his way up to staff sergeant during World War II in Europe.

Six years after enlisting he went to Officers Candidate School at Fort Benning, Ga., in the Branch Immaterial program and won his gold bars in 1947 with Class Nr 4. By the end of 1949 he had a Regular Army commission.

Colonel Nunn won the Silver Star, Bronze Star and Purple Heart in Korea where he was wounded in Mun-Dung-Ni Valley near Heartbreak Ridge. He was awarded the Silver Star when he successfully completed a patrol action despite wounds suffered when his tank was knocked out by the enemy action. He was commander of 7th Reconnaissance Company, 7th Infantry Division, when the incident occurred.

Colonel Nunn's service includes a three - year tour with the 91st Cavalry at Ft. Riley, command of a tank and reconnaissance company in the 4th Infantry Division in Germany and a tour as operations officer for a military intelligence battalion in Germany.

He took both basic and advanced armor officer courses at Fort Knox, Ky., and later taught both cavalry reconnaissance and tank offensive tactics at the Armor School.

Two years ago he added a BS degree from the University of Maryland to the high school diploma he earned back at Brazil, Ind., just before he entered the Army in 1940.

Colonel Nunn, a golfer and an official basketball referee, member of the International Association of Approved Basketball Officials, occupies Carson quarters.

The Nunn family includes Dennis, 19, a sophomore at Southern Colorado State College; Kevin, 17, a senior at Fountain-Ft. Carson High School; and Kliffa, 14, who attends school on post.

TABLE FOR RENTERS

The following table is a graphic illustration of advantages of owning your home instead of renting.

Monthly Rent	10 Years	15 Years	20 Years
$ 90.00	$14,235.12	$25,137.86	$39,728.30
$100.00	$15,816.80	$27,930.96	$44,142.56
$110.00	$17,378.48	$30,724.05	$48,556.82
$120.00	$18,980.16	$33,517.15	$52,971.07
$130.00	$20,561.84	$36,310.25	$57,385.33

Nearly half the population of the United States spends enough money on rent in a lifetime to pay for four good, substantial homes for each renter. Shown is what monthly rent checks add up to in 10, 15, 20 years, with compound interest at 6% per annum. Another advantage of owning over renting is that all interest and taxes paid in connection with the home you own are deductible for income tax purposes.

YOUR RENT MONEY WILL BUY THESE HOMES!

Joe Siegel Will Head Jewish Drive

Joe Siegel has been appointed chairman of the annual Colorado Springs United Jewish Appeal drive, which was launched Friday night. Funds will be raised to meet the cost of recruiting, resettling and absorbing destitute and oppressed Jewish refugees from Arab and Iron Curtain countries.

A committee of civic, military and religious community leaders will handle the solicitation of funds. The campaign will be climaxed with an "appreciation" buffet party at the Siegel residence, 1616 Hermosa Place, Sunday, November 1.

Since its inception in 1939, the United Jewish Appeal has given life-saving aid to over 3,000,000 persons. For 1964, the national goal has been set at $105,000,000, all of which is to be used in transporting, feeding, and rehabilitating almost 100,000 of these unfortunates who now hopefully await rescue and resettlement in Israel, the United States, and several other free-world lands.

SENECA, Mo. (AP) — Milnot Co., a dairy processing plant near here, has one end in Oklahoma and the other end in Missouri. An inch-wide brass strip running through the middle of the plant marks the state line. Milk collected in Oklahoma is processed in the Oklahoma end to comply with tax regulations. Milk collected in other states is processed in the Missouri end of the plant. Duplicate processing equipment is located in each end of the building.

Academy Cadet Gets Air Medal

A courageous Air Force Academy Second Classman received the Airman's Medal Friday from Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. Curtis E. LeMay.

Cadet Second Clas Robert Dunshee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Dunshee of Oskalosa, Iowa, received the medal at surprise ceremonies held before the entire Cadet Wing, just prior to the noon meal.

The presentation marks the first time the award for heroism has been awarded to a member of the Cadet Wing.

Cadet Dunshee was commended for his efforts to save a drowning man. While on summer leave, the cadet was at the public recreation area of the DeSota National Wildlife Refuge, Missouri Valley, Iowa.

A young boy rushed up to Cadet Dunshee and asked for aid in attempting to rescue a drowning man. The cadet swam to the spot where the man had disappeared and dove into nine feet of water.

On his third attempt he found the victim and brought him to shore.

Academy officials learned of the cadet's action through a letter from Kermit Dybsetter, manager of the wildlife refuge.

Mr. Dybsetter praised the cadet's efforts calling them "a gallent action worthy of recognition."

SUGAR INTAKE AND HEART ATTACKS

Is it too much fat or too much sugar in the diet that causes hardening of the arteries? Dr. John Yudkin, professor of nutrition and dietetics at the University of London, says those who have heart attacks consume more sugar than do the control subjects. His conclusion: "People who take more sugar in tea or coffee are far more likely to have heart attack than those who take little."

He asserts this is the first time the diet of heart patients has been shown to differ in any way from that of normal people. Much research points to an association between the development of coronary arteriosclerosis and the level of blood cholesterol, the blood pressure, body weight, and cigaret consumption.

On the other hand, he claims no specific dietary constituent, including calories, minerals, vitamins, proteins, total carbohydrates, fat, animal fat, and saturted and unsaturated fatty acid has been proved to be the specific cause of hardening of the arteries.

Dr. Yudkin's project was done with the help of a state registered dietitian, Janet Roddy, on men between 45 and 66 years of age. All had a recent first attack of coronary thrombosis or proved hardening of the leg arteries. Their diets were compared with a group of healthy men who entered the hospital because of accidents.

Half the sugar intake was measured by finding out how many lumps or spoonfuls were were taken daily. The rest was estimated from the amounts availabld in readily identified items, such as canned foods. The group with hardening of the arteries used nearly twice as much sugar as the control group. A detailed analysis determined that the degree of atherosclerosis was in proportion to the amount of dietary sugar.

Dr. Yudkin may have difficulty selling his ideas to researchers who believe fat and cholesterol play an important part in the problem and they have the advantage of considerable animal research in their favor. Many authorities believe there is more to hardening of the arteries than cholesterol. And herein lies the fallacy of using one substance such as sugar in a statistical analysis. The least the physician could have done was to include cholesterol, weight, blood pressure, and tobacco in the survey.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

This may follow exercise in which the joints are irritated to such an extent that the tissues swell.

Minson to Be Candidate For County Commissioner

Floyd M. Minson, 44, of 2603 Gomer St., is an independent candidate for county commissioner for the 2nd Commissioner's District.

Minson had his name placed on the ballot for the Nov. 3 general election by petition last month after the primary election and has been certified as a candidate.

He will be on the ballot against Rodger Fay, Republican; and L. F. (Red) Quaney, Democrat. Also in the race as a write-in candidate is Joe Gordon, Republican.

Minson was born in Mulberry, Kan., where his father owned a coal mine, and came to this town with his family when he was about one.

He is married, father of six children, and veteran of Navy service during World War II. His wife is the former Laura Anders, a native of Colorado Springs.

Announcing his candidacy, Minson said, "I believe that the taxpayers should know where his money goes, what it is spent for, what equipment is bought and what it is used for."

He graduated from Colorado Springs High School, now known as Palmer High, and later entered the Navy.

During his military service, Minson graduated from a U.S. Navy engineering and training school, and served overseas building roads and air fields with heavy construction equipment.
